Leonard Bernstein's America
A Lecture with Musical Illustrations

Description
In the course of a career spanning fifty years, Leonard Bernstein offered his audiences a vision of America. Encounter the man and revisit his work -- from symphony and musicals to opera and ballet. In addition to his musical oeuvre, we will explore his international work (including his involvement with the state of Israel), his role in American political life, and his commitment to educating young people. Join us -- in the course of the morning we will seek Bernstein's vision, and give definition to his American musical legacy.

Instructor
Australian-born musicologist, educator and violinist, Georgia Luikens holds a Masters degree in Musicology from Brandeis, where she is currently doing research on Leonard Bernstein. An award-winning teacher, Luikens has held Brandeis’ Harry and Mildred Remis Endowed Fellowship for the Creative Arts.
