

Nominators from this year and past years say:

“Professor Foxman truly cares about all his students, and seems to always have our best interests at heart. In the classroom, he made the subject of crystallography come to life. His classes were a wonderful mix of clear explanations, humorous anecdotes, and fascinating information. He was able, in the course of a single semester, to take us from having absolutely no knowledge of the subject to successfully completing a project of our own using all aspects of what we had learned. Professor Foxman’s intelligence, charisma, and warmth set him apart.”

“He is an outstanding teacher. Inspirational, accessible, and down-to-earth, he makes the material FUN. There are about sixty people in the class, yet he knows every single one by name, and the atmosphere is always warm. His teaching style is superb; his class is never boring, and he always gets the material across.”

“It has been an honor to have Professor Foxman as my advisor. In an ideal world, every student would have a mentor who is as patient, inspiring, and dedicated as he is.”
