

Comments from students who nominated him include:

“He is full of passion for the subject and thoroughly engages the entire class in heated discussion. The lectures he provides are stimulating and he always encourages diverse opinions during the class. Outside of class, he is always available during office hours (or by appointment) and works individually with a student to help his/her progress within the course.”

“Professor Hang taught his students, by repeated discussions and demonstrations, to relentlessly perfect every paper and exam preparation, and to always seek the most fundamental understanding of history. My classmates and I are always (appreciative of) his extensive and valuable comments on the papers.”
