

Her nominators from this and past years have said:

“She goes out of her way to help students and always has her door open to answer questions. She cares about her students and wants every one of us to succeed.”

“I knew that organic chemistry was going to be a challenging course, from students with previous experience. However, she has made the process not only easier, but enjoyable. With anecdotes and an obvious passion for helping others, she makes the class very engaging and interesting, bringing a big-picture element to reactions and molecular syntheses.”

“Dr. Mascall is dedicated to helping students. She love feedback and is constantly looking for a way to improve.”
