AN AFRICAN CITY

A CONVERSATION WITH NICOLE AMARTEIFIO ’04
LED BY AFRICAN AND AFRO-AMERICAN STUDIES UNDERGRADUATE DEPARTMENTAL REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26
11:00 AM-1:00 PM
Mandel Center for the Humanities

PROGRAM

MODERATORS
Sydney Sahasrabudhe ’17
Khadijah Sawyer ’18

CONVERSATION
11:00 AM-NOON
Mandel 303

LUNCH WITH AAAS STUDENTS
NOON-1:00 PM
Mandel 228

NICOLE AMARTEIFIO ’04
Nicole Amarteifio ’04 is the creator, writer, director and executive producer of the hit TV and web series “An African City.” Dubbed by CNN and the BBC as Africa’s answer to “Sex and the City,” the show has captivated audiences worldwide by portraying a diverse range of stories about the African continent. Before venturing into the TV/film industry, Amarteifio served as the first-ever social media strategist for Africa at the World Bank. She was born and currently resides in Accra, Ghana.

TO LEARN MORE, CONTACT:
Sydney at sderfel@brandeis.edu
Khadijah at ksawyer3@brandeis.edu

SPONSORS:
Department of African and Afro-American Studies; Brandeis University Alumni Association; Brandeis Alumni of Color; Women’s, Gender and Sexuality Studies Program; and Film Studies

Brandeis University

HER MISSION IS TO DISRUPT THE WAY THE WORLD SEES AFRICA