Tuvalu, a small nation in the Pacific, is sinking rapidly due to sea-level rise. Come learn about its plight and the related climate policies from the nation's ambassador to the United States, Mr. Simati. He will be joined by art historians Mark Cheetham and Aida Yuen Wong whose eco-art projects are helping to promote climate activism. Cheetham's presentation is titled "Liquid Ecologies & Eco Art History: Issues & Practices." Wong will discuss her Experiential Learning course this semester, "Tuvalu to the World." Reception to follow.
