Beyond Expectations: Second Generation Nigerians in the United States and Britain
With Onoso Imoagene

Join Onoso Imoagene, Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of Pennsylvania, for a discussion of her upcoming book, Beyond Expectations: Second Generation Nigerians in the United States and Britain. She argues that Nigerians conceive of an alternative notion of “black” identity that differs radically from the notion of “black” in the US, which takes into account a diasporic Nigerian ethnicity, a pan-African status, and identification with fellow immigrants.
