COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course examines race, class and gender as influential, interlocking dimensions of social identities that shape institutions, dynamics, processes, and cultures. Rooted in the rich analytical traditions of sociology, Black studies, ethnic studies, and women’s studies, the study of race, class and gender charts intellectual terrain about the politics of sameness, difference, commonality and solidarity from the early 20th century to present. The course draws on a variety of media to analyze how race, class and gender (re)create forms of domination and subordination in schools, labor markets, families, the criminal justice system, the health care system, and civil society. Based on comparative, historical, quantitative and ethnographic studies, course readings and lectures provide an introductory interrogation of racism, sexism, classism and related forms of oppression, noting their varying formations across space and time, and their joint operation in the lived experiences of historically marginalized social groups. The Sociology of Race, Class & Gender challenges essentialist claims of victimhood, and outlines the theoretical, methodological and empirical challenges of studying race, class and gender rigorously. This course is geared towards students interested in the issues of power, justice and social change in social institutions and the wider society.

COURSE OBJECTIVES
By the end of the course, students will be able to:
• Understand and critique theoretical and conceptual approaches used by sociologists to explore race, class and gender in the U.S.;
• Identify the similarities and differences between social groups and their importance for coalition-building;
• Demonstrate an awareness of the theoretical debates about Du Boisian sociology, intersectionality and Bourdieusian sociology;
• Decipher how related factors such as ethnicity, gender, sexuality, religion, language and culture are interwoven into the lived experiences of dominant and minoritised communities;
• Improve their writing, analytical and presentation skills through intensive assignments.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

The following are core requirements for all students enrolled in the course:

I. ATTENDANCE
Class attendance is mandatory. It is important that all students attend class sessions in order for all of us to discuss and decipher the course materials and lectures as a collegial community of learners. Attendance will be taken during each class period and students will be required to attend the entire class session to receive full credit. In case of illness or other legitimate reasons for absence, it is the student’s responsibility to inform Prof. Wallace in advance. Every absence after two instructor-excused absences will result in the reduction of your overall grade by a third of a letter grade (e.g. an A becomes an A-, a B+ becomes a B, etc.). To earn full attendance credit, you must come to class prepared to discuss the readings assigned for that session and with the necessary materials, required books, articles, paper, and notes.

II. PARTICIPATION
Active class participation is expected of all students. The dynamics of the class are contingent upon all those in the room. Active participation includes voicing critical questions about course materials, engaging in class discussions, working with peers in small-group discussions, and co-leading one class debate.

Please be advised that texting, e-mailing and commenting on online media platforms of any sort (Facebook, Twitter, Yik Yak, and the like) will not be condoned during class. Students found doing this will be asked to leave and will lose 10% on their mid-term or final assignment. Students are also encouraged to silence all cellphones before class begins.

III. INTEGRITY
Because Brandeis University is a collegial community deeply committed to the free exchange of ideas, academic integrity is expected of all its members. Plagiarism is not at all acceptable. Students who enroll in this class hereby agree to conduct themselves responsibly and are expected to participate in the creation of a welcoming space in which all students can discuss race, racism, sexism, poverty, identities, inequalities and related matters. To maintain a ‘safe space’ in the class, students are expected to challenge ideas and not the individuals; respectful disagreement is always welcome. This is a professional courtesy all are required to maintain.
For more details on academic integrity, please refer to the Brandeis Rights and Responsibilities handbook.
GRADED REQUIREMENTS

• Class Participation: 10% of grade
• Quizzes: 25% of grade
• Class Conference: 10% of grade

RELATED COURSE POLICIES
Assignments:
All assignments should be professional in appearance. All papers and exams should be typed, double-spaced, stapled once in the top right-hand corner. Please keep a copy of all written work before submitting. Do not use any decorative covers or binders for any assignment. Assignments received in this fashion will be returned ungraded. Unless otherwise noted, all papers should be emailed to Prof. Wallace at dwallace@brandeis.edu.

Deadlines:
All deadlines are firm. Extensions will only be granted under exceptional circumstances. Assignments not turned in by the due date and time listed on the course schedule will be considered late; students will be penalized for this. Assignments submitted after the outlined deadline will lose 30% of the final grade; ones submitted more than an hour after the deadline will lose 50% of the final grade; papers submitted after 24 hours will not be accepted. It is the responsibility of the student to turn in assignments on time.
Extra Credit:
Students will be afforded two extra credit opportunities throughout the course of the semester. The extra credit assignments will be announced a week before they are due. These may come in the form of additional pop quizzes, current affairs analyses or participation in select on-campus events hosted by the Departments of Sociology African & Afro-American Studies and/or Social Justice & Social Policy.

Computer Usage:
Laptops, i-Pads or other relevant electronic devices are allowed, but only for accessing the assigned course readings on LATTE. Use of electronic devices for any other purpose is strictly prohibited; violations will not be excused. Any violation of this policy will result in the prohibition of your electronic device for future use in the classroom during the course.

Disability Services:
"If you are a student who needs academic accommodations because of a documented disability, please contact me and present your letter of accommodation as soon as possible. If you have questions about documenting a disability or requesting academic accommodations, you should contact Beth Rodgers-Kay in Academic Services (x6-3470 or brodgers@brandeis.edu.) Letters of accommodation should be presented at the start of the semester to ensure provision of accommodations, and absolutely before the day of an exam or test. Accommodations cannot be granted retroactively."
