America. Explores the diversity of Latino experiences during the twentieth century waves of migration. (nw, ss)

HIST 171B: Latinos in the U.S.

Examines the functions of storytelling in the refugee experience, focusing on its intersection with gender, race, and nationality. (nw, ss)

ENGL 28B: Queer Readings: Before Stonewall

Provides a broad overview of the histories, cultures, and communities of the LGBTQ+ and allied communities in the U.S. (nw, ss)

HIST 52B: Europe in the Modern World

Explores issues of nationhood, identity, and national sovereignty. (nw, ss)

ENG 272B: African Literature and Human Rights

Human rights have been central to thinking about equality among all people, regardless of race, class, gender, and sexuality. (nw, ss)

ENGL 266B: Slated Truths and Barbaric Yawps: (hum)

Examines the social and cultural dimensions of contemporary Islamic movements from an anthropological perspective. Topics to be discussed include the relation of the religious imagination shaped by African American history and culture to a globalizing world. (nw, ss)

ENGL 297A: African Literature and the City

Examines the social and cultural dimensions of contemporary Islamic movements from an anthropological perspective. (nw, ss)

WMGS 156B: Sexuality and Healthcare

Examines cross-cultural, historical, and contemporary perspectives on sexuality, experiences, representations, and activist movements within a framework forged by contemporary critical theories of gender and sexuality. (nw, ss)

eng 146B: Spirit Worlds: Religion and Early American Literature

Examines critical theories of gender and identity, exploring how gender, race, and class affect the experiences of females. (nw, ss)