

Rajiv Ramakrishnan '10 is a senior at Brandeis University, studying political economy. He serves as the Director of Operations of the United Nations Committee of eLeaders for Youth and Information Technology for Development. In this capacity, he works with governments, private sector actors and civil society to use IT to advance education, entrepreneurship and health in the developing world. When not at Brandeis or in New York, he makes his home in Princeton, NJ.