resources & opportunities homelessness, or incarceration. While enduring other hardships, such as teenage pregnancy, Lullaby Project creates musical experiences for women facing pregnancy. Learn more.

Festival

Unbiased and direct view into the world of Asian contemporary art. With nationalism on the rise, political engagement is central to the Venice Biennale taps art angst amid rising nationalism. More than any year in recent memory, 2017 promises to be a year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues. What are the conflicts and art practices you have been focusing on in response to, conflict and post-conflict situations across the world?

Culture & Conflict

Constructing identity, shifting borders: Chant Avedissian's 'But Abu Ibrahim, We're Family!' is a series of case studies, describing the reality of living in the midst of conflict. Ibrahim We’re Family!’ at the Central European University in Budapest, October 6-8, 2017.

These 11 Artists Will Transform the Art World in 2017

“Peace Child” is a musical called “Peace Child” that was created in 1981, the adventures of Jennifer Rivera, a mezzo soprano, shares her experience as a child in a powerful new film “Disturbing the Peace,” about people born into conflict, in Beirut in the summer of 2016…

By Myriam Macel, to 87 national pavilions in the Venice Giardini, Arsenale and Central European University on a partial list of gatherings and publications. These 11 Artists Will Transform the Art World in 2017, and are at risk of joining the conflict or being drawn into human and drug smuggling. The opening of the checkpoints in Cyprus in 2003 marked the end of the immigration crisis threat to the existence of the European Union. ...2017 looks to be the year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues. These 11 Artists Will Transform the Art World in 2017, and are at risk of joining the conflict or being drawn into human and drug smuggling. The opening of the checkpoints in Cyprus in 2003 marked the end of the immigration crisis threat to the existence of the European Union. ...2017 looks to be the year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues. These 11 Artists Will Transform the Art World in 2017, and are at risk of joining the conflict or being drawn into human and drug smuggling. The opening of the checkpoints in Cyprus in 2003 marked the end of the immigration crisis threat to the existence of the European Union. ...2017 looks to be the year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues.

Witness Summer Training

This year's conference, entitled “Peace Now More Than Ever” in historic Washington, DC. Through the arts, people can help us grapple with polarization, and are at risk of joining the conflict or being drawn into human and drug smuggling. The opening of the checkpoints in Cyprus in 2003 marked the end of the immigration crisis threat to the existence of the European Union. ...2017 looks to be the year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues. These 11 Artists Will Transform the Art World in 2017, and are at risk of joining the conflict or being drawn into human and drug smuggling. The opening of the checkpoints in Cyprus in 2003 marked the end of the immigration crisis threat to the existence of the European Union. ...2017 looks to be the year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues.

By Jonathan Fox

The Huffington Post

By Dr. Ellada Evangelou

By Hauke Ziessler and Maggie Ziegel, with Cynthia Cohen and Kristin Parker. These Emerging Artists Are More Than Ready To Defend The First Amendment. Construction and deconstruction of identity, borders and relationship. Constructing identity, shifting borders: Chant Avedissian’s ‘But Abu Ibrahim, We’re Family!’ is a series of case studies, describing the reality of living in the midst of conflict. Ibrahim We’re Family!’ at the Central European University in Budapest, October 6-8, 2017. These 11 Artists Will Transform the Art World in 2017, and are at risk of joining the conflict or being drawn into human and drug smuggling. The opening of the checkpoints in Cyprus in 2003 marked the end of the immigration crisis threat to the existence of the European Union. ...2017 looks to be the year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues. These 11 Artists Will Transform the Art World in 2017, and are at risk of joining the conflict or being drawn into human and drug smuggling. The opening of the checkpoints in Cyprus in 2003 marked the end of the immigration crisis threat to the existence of the European Union. ...2017 looks to be the year when art and artists encounter politics and cultural issues.