

Brandeis University

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SCHOOL

Faculty Position

International Business

Brandeis University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in international business. The candidate may specialize in any number of sub-fields, such as economics, marketing, strategy, organizational behavior, operations, entrepreneurship, and social responsibility. The successful candidate will be actively engaged in research and be an innovative scholar who understands practical challenges facing business in the global economy. Creativity in course development and effectiveness in teaching will be valued highly; if appointed at the senior level, leadership experience will be expected.

The successful candidate will teach in the new undergraduate Business major at Brandeis University, as well as in the MBA program. The Business major combines liberal arts studies in the School of Arts & Sciences with core subjects in the business school.

The International Business School focuses on the economics, finance and management of global markets and organizations, with more than 400 graduate students from more than 50 countries in MBA, MA, MSF and PhD programs in a state-of-the-art building. Faculty members in economics, finance, and business work closely with each other in a collegial and rigorous academic environment. Brandeis University is located on a beautiful campus in a suburb of Boston. More information is at www.brandeis.edu/global.

Candidates should send a CV and a letter expressing interest. Although applications will be accepted until the position is filled, candidates are requested to apply by November 15, 2009. Applications should be sent to: Business Faculty Search Committee, c/o Arlene Sherman, Brandeis International Business School, MS 032, Waltham, MA 02454.

Brandeis University is an equal opportunity employer committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities.
