Summer Program with Optional Fall Extension
May 29–August 3, 2012
Professors Tim Hickey and Pito Salas
12–20 credits (prerequisites: COSI11a and 12b, or 21a)

PROGRAM OVERVIEW
Are you an innovator? Here is your chance to prove it. Engage in the cutting-edge theory and practice of developing Web-based applications in this start-up-style computer science program. Each week brings a diverse schedule of lectures, hands-on lab work, discussions, student presentations and talks by guest lecturers from the Greater Boston tech community. Learn the foundations and pragmatics of engineering a serious bit of software through the use of Ruby on Rails, Pivotal Tracker, Eclipse, GIT and all the modern tools of the trade. Experience the excitement of conceiving, designing and actually building a cool and real software product!

ABOUT JBS
