We are delighted to announce the launch of Coleman College, an innovative program which is a collaboration between JCHE’s Coleman House and Brandeis University’s “Lifespan Initiative on Healthy Aging.”

Beginning in January, Brandeis professors will be delivering monthly lectures, involving topics on health and aging, to Coleman House residents, which will be simulcast to JCHE’s other sites in Newton and Framingham.

Following each professor’s presentation, the residents will have an opportunity to participate in the associated research projects. Topics include: personality, memory changes, cultural influences, health behaviors and decision making.

Brandeis Lifespan Initiative-JCHE Lecture Series at Coleman House Newton

Fridays at 2:00 PM

- Friday, January 17, 2014 - Professor Sarah Lamb
  Reflections on Growing Older in India and the United States

- Friday, February 28, 2014 - Professor Jane Ebert
  Some Surprising Effects of Choice on our Motivation and Happiness

- Friday, March 14, 2014 - Professor Angela Gutchess
  Influences of Age and Culture on Memory

- Friday, April 11, 2014 - Professor Margie Lachman
  Healthy Attitudes: How They Can Affect Your Health