The Mandel Center for the Humanities Faculty Lunch Symposium

Over the course of the next few years, the Mandel Center for the Humanities will be sponsoring a monthly faculty symposium, in which faculty members will present their work to interested colleagues over lunch. This series is designed to foster interdisciplinary conversations among faculty members from a range of disciplines, and to enhance our intellectual community on campus.

Thursday, Oct. 21st
The London Eye and the Face of Early America
Jane Kamensky
History

Thursday, Nov. 11th
Ernst Kantorowicz: Ruler Worship and the Dignity of the Scholar
Eugene Sheppard
NEJS

Monday, Dec. 6th
Tolstoy’s ‘About Mushrooms’: Reading Anna Karenina through the Lens of Chekhov
Robin Feuer Miller
GRALL

Thursday, Jan. 27th
Barry’s Ear; or, Erotic Response before Richardson
Thomas King
English
12:30-1:45PM

Thursday, Feb. 17th
(anti)Colonialism or Kitsch? Persian Architecture in 19th-Century Bombay
Talinn Grigor
Fine Arts

Thursday, March 17th
Is the Family a Friend or Foe of Moral Development?
Kate Moran
Philosophy

Thursday, April 28th
Haunted Stewards: White Kenyan Dilemmas in Discourse
Janet McIntosh
Anthropology

All lectures will be held at the Mandel Seminar Room, 1st Floor, Room 128
12:10-1:30PM

The Mandel Center for the Humanities aims to foster the study and knowledge of the humanities and humanistic social sciences at Brandeis University, inculcating in our students a learned passion for humanistic values and concerns.

Brandeis University, Mandel Center for the Humanities, 415 South Street, Waltham, MA 02453