Twenty five high school students from Connecticut visited the MRSEC laboratories at Brandeis to engage in hands-on activities on microscopy and molecular modeling. The students participated in discussions by MRSEC staff and toured research lab facilities.