The MRSEC Education, Outreach and Diversity Director (Anique Olivier-Mason) developed a new resource called, the Science Communication Lab (CommLab). Modeled after a successful Center with the same name at MIT, the Brandeis CommLab provides one-on-one coaching and just-in-time workshops to students and postdocs at Brandeis. The trained graduate student and postdoc Communication Fellows support the Brandeis scientific community with the skills they need to communicate the rationale, process and results of their incredible science to any audience in written, spoken or visual form. More information is available on their website:
http://sciences.brandeis.edu/communication-lab/