

The Rapaporte Foundation Summer Internship Grants in Women's and Gender Studies

Thanks to a generous gift from the Rapaporte Foundation, the Women's and Gender Studies Program is offering grants for undertaking an otherwise unpaid summer 2010 internship in an organization or project that serves the interests of women, girls, or gender equity.

Internship possibilities are as diverse as women's and gender studies itself. Options might include, but are not limited to, organizations addressing issues concerning health care, the law, education, religion, globalization, immigration, eating disorders, poverty, racism, violence against women, and sexuality.
