

Women in Science
at Brandeis University

How to Network in Academia and Industry

Thursday, November 19, 2009

6:00 p.m.

Carl Shapiro Science Center

First Floor Library

Panel: Professor Rama Basil, Boston University Physics Department
Professor Kim Ruane, Tufts University Math Department
Michael Fuerstman, Director of Business Development at Nano-Terra
Ronalee Lo, Associate at Exponent Engineering and Scientific Consulting

WGS

Sponsored by the Women's and Gender Studies Program

Co-sponsored by the departments of Biochemistry, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Physics, and Psychology, the programs of Biological Physics and Quantative Biology, and the Material Research Science and Engineering Center.

This event is free and open to everyone.
Refreshments and networking to follow panel.