Objectives

Undergraduate Major in English and American Literature
The major is designed to train students in the analysis of literary texts and to introduce them to the various literary and cultural traditions that influence creative work in the English language.

Undergraduate Major in Creative Writing
The major is designed to help students explore and develop their creative writing and understanding of literary and cultural traditions. This major is distinguished by the requirement of completing a book-length collection of poetry, short stories, or a novel in the senior year as an Honors Senior Thesis. The writing is expected to be of high imaginative caliber, rigorously conceived and crafted.

Graduate Program in English and American Literature
The Graduate Program in English and American Literature is designed to offer training in the interpretation and evaluation of literary texts in their historical and cultural contexts.

How to Become an Undergraduate Major

Literature
There are no prerequisites for declaring the major at any time. Prospective majors are encouraged to take two or three courses in the department in their first and second years. ENG 11a [Introduction to Literary Method] focuses on the basic skills needed for studying literature and is required for the major. Courses with numbers below 100 are especially suitable for beginning students.

How to Be Admitted to the Graduate Program

Candidates for admission should have a bachelor’s degree, preferably with a major in English and American literature, and a reading knowledge of French, Italian, Spanish, German, Greek, or Latin. They are required to submit a sample of their critical writing not to exceed 35 pages; the 35-page maximum may consist of a single critical essay or two shorter essays of approximately equal length. All applicants are required to submit scores on the Graduate Record Examination Verbal Aptitude test. The GRE Advanced Test in Literature is also required for Ph.D. applicants and recommended for joint M.A. applicants. The general requirements for admission to the Graduate School, as specified in an earlier section of this Bulletin, apply to candidates for admission to this area of study.
Course Numbers

Except for courses in the 90-99 range, English department courses are numbered systematically. The final digit for any course number identifies the subject, as follows:

0 - Courses in a literary genre
1 - Courses in literary theory and literary criticism
2 - Medieval British literature (roughly before 1500)
3 - Renaissance British literature (circa 1500-1660)
4 - Restoration/18th-century British literature
5 - 19th-century British literature
6 - 19th-century American literature
7 - 20th-century literature
8 - Miscellaneous literary subjects
9 - Writing courses

Requirements for the Undergraduate Major

Literature Major

Nine semester courses are required, including the following:

A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a.
B. Three semester courses dealing primarily with literature in English written before 1850. All courses ending in 2, 3, or 4 fulfill this requirement, as well as certain courses ending in 5 or 6. For specific information about whether a particular course fulfills the pre-1850 requirement please consult the instructor or the undergraduate advising head. A listing is provided below and is also available from the main office in the department.

Pre-1850 courses: ENG 3a, 4a, 23a, 25a, 33a, 43a, 44a, 53a, 63a, 103a, 104a, 114b, 115b, 122a, 124a, 125b, 132b, 133a, 134a, 135b, 142b, 145a, 144b, 152b, 164b, 173a, 174b.

The following courses usually fulfill the pre-1850 requirement, however, students must check with the instructor and the undergraduate advising head for final approval: ENG 105a, 105b.

C. One semester course in world literature (exclusive of the United States and England) from the list given below. For the purposes of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English in places outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Courses in foundational texts (ENG 10a or HUM 10a), or certain cross-listed courses also fulfill this requirement. Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the undergraduate advising head.

World literature courses: AAAS 133b, COML 102a, 147b, 165a, ENG 10a, 17b, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 147b, 197b, HUM 10a

D. Four elective semester courses, which may include any course offered, or cross-listed, in the department, with the following exceptions: no more than one creative writing workshop may be counted as an elective; USEM, COMP, and UWS courses do not count toward the major requirements in English and American literature. Cross-listed courses are considered to be outside the department and are subject to the restriction in [F] below.

E. No course with a final grade below C- can count toward fulfilling the major requirements in English and American literature.

F. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted towards the major. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad, cross-listed courses, and transfer credits.

G. Advanced Placement credits do not count toward the major.

Honors Track

Graduation with honors in English requires a GPA of 3.50 or higher in courses counting towards the major, and satisfactory completion of a Seniors Honors Essay (one-semester ENG 99a or 99b), which counts as a 10th course. In rare cases, students may elect instead to complete the Senior Honor Thesis [two-semesters ENG 99d]. To write an Honors Essay or Thesis, students must arrange to be advised by a faculty member in the department who has agreed to direct the essay or thesis. The undergraduate advising head can assist students in finding appropriate directors. Departmental honors are awarded on the basis of excellence in all courses taken in the department, including the senior essay or theses. Students in the creative writing major who complete ENG 96d will be considered to have completed a Senior Honors Thesis.

A student majoring in literature may double-major or minor in creative writing.

Creative Writing Major

A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a, which should be taken in as early as possible but no later than during the student’s first year as an English major.

B. Two semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. A student may take as many workshops as she or he might like, but the two required must be concluded before the beginning of the senior year. No more than one course in directed writing can be taken in any semester in the same genre. Two such courses may be taken in different genres.

C. One course in foundational texts; either ENG 10a or HUM 10a.

D. One course in World Anglophone Literature, or a 20th-century literature course in translation or original language, to be agreed upon by the director of creative writing.

E. Two English electives.

F. An elective course in a studio or performing art, to be agreed upon with the director of creative writing.

G. ENG 96d (Senior Creative Writing Thesis). The student will produce, under the direction of his or her advisor, a body of writing (usually a book of poems, collection of stories, or a novel) of appropriate scope [two semesters].

H. The writing major also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of 8-12 books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis advisor and/or the director of creative writing. This essay will be due at the end of the senior year, along with the thesis.

I. Advanced placement credits do not count toward the major.

Admission to the creative writing major is by application only. Admission will be decided by the creative writing faculty on completion by the student of at least one course in directed writing. The deadline for admission is at the end of April. Students are notified by the end of the spring examination period.

Recommendations for honors in the creative writing major will be made to the English department by the creative writing faculty, based on the student’s work as exemplified by the senior thesis.

A student majoring in creative writing may double-major in English and American literature, or may minor in English, American and Anglophone literature.
Requirements for the Undergraduate Minor

Minor in English, American, and Anglophone Literature
Five courses are required, including the following:

A. ENG 11a [Introduction to Literary Methods].

B. Any four additional courses in the Department of English and American Literature, with the following exception: only one creative writing workshop may count toward the minor.

C. Advanced placement credits do not count toward the minor.

D. Students are encouraged to take courses on related topics; the Undergraduate Advising Head can assist students in grouping courses appropriately. For instance, students may wish to take courses in one national literature: ENG 6a [American Literature from 1832 to 1900], ENG 16a [Nineteenth-Century African-American Literature], ENG 7a [American Literature, 1900-2000], ENG 8a [21st-Century American Literature]. Alternatively, students might elect to take a sequence of courses in a single genre: e.g., ENG 63a [Renaissance Poetry], ENG 25a [Romanticism I: Blake, Wordsworth, and Coleridge], ENG 157a [Contemporary Poetry], and ENG 109a [Directed Writing: Poetry].

Or, students might take courses clustered around a particular topic, such as gender: ENG 46a [Nineteenth-Century American Women Writers], ENG 107 [Caribbean Women Writers], ENG 114b [Gender and the Rise of the Novel in England and France], and ENG 131b [Feminist Theory]. Students may also wish to select courses that concentrate on a particular historical period [such as the 18th century] or a methodological approach [such as postcolonial studies]. These options are not exhaustive.

No course with a final grade below C- can count toward the requirements for the minor in English literature.

Minor in Creative Writing
Four semester courses are required, including the following:

A. Three writing courses in poetry or fiction conducted as workshops. Such courses facilitate writing under directions in a creative and critical community, and are offered exclusively on a Credit/No Credit basis.

B. A literature course in the Department of English and American Literature to compliment the student’s chosen genre; for instance someone whose focus is on poetry would take a literature course in that subject, one pursuing the short story would take a course covering some aspect or period of that genre.

Creative Writing Major/English, American, and Anglophone Literature Minor
Thirteen courses are required, including the following:

A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a, which should be taken in as early as possible but no later than during the student’s first year as a creative writing major.

B. Two semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. A student may take as many workshops as she or he might like, but the two required must be concluded before the beginning of the senior year. No more than one course in directed writing can be taken in any semester in the same genre. Two such courses may be taken in different genres.

C. One course in foundational texts; either ENG 10a or HUM 10a

D. One course in world Anglophone literature; or a 20th-century literature course in translation or original language, to be agreed upon by the director of creative writing.

E. An elective course in a studio or performing art, to be agreed upon with the director of creative writing.

F. ENG 96d (Senior Creative Writing Thesis). The student will produce, under the direction of his or her advisor, a body of writing (usually a book of poems or a collection of stories) of appropriate scope (two semesters).

G. The writing major also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of eight to 12 books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis advisor and/or the director of creative writing. This essay will be due at the end of the senior year, along with the thesis.

H. Any five additional courses in the Department of English and American Literature, with the following exception: only one creative writing workshop may count toward fulfilling this requirement.

I. Advanced placement credits do not count toward the minor.

J. For the minor, students are encouraged to take courses on related topics; the undergraduate advising head can assist students in grouping courses appropriately. For instance, students may wish to take courses in one national literature: ENG 6a [American Literature from 1832 to 1900], ENG 16a [19th-Century African-American Literature], ENG 7a [American Literature, 1900-2000], ENG 8a [21st-Century American Literature]. Alternatively, students might elect to take a sequence of courses in a single genre: e.g., ENG 63a (Renaissance Poetry), ENG 25a Romanticism I (Blake, Wordsworth, and Coleridge), ENG 157a (Contemporary Poetry), and ENG 109a (Directed Writing: Poetry). Or, students might take courses clustered around a particular topic, such as gender: ENG 46a (Nineteenth-Century American Women Writers), ENG 107 (Caribbean Women Writers), ENG 113b (Gender and the Rise of the Novel in England and France), and ENG 131b (Feminist Theory). Students may also wish to select courses that concentrate on a particular historical period (such as the 18th century) or a methodological approach (such as postcolonial studies). These options are not exhaustive.

No course with a final grade below C- can count toward these requirements.

Special Notes Relating to Undergraduates

This department participates in the European cultural studies major and, in general, its courses are open to ECS majors.

Transfer credit toward the major: Application for the use of transfer credit (awarded by the Office of the University Registrar) toward the major requirements must be accompanied by a Requirement Substitution Form provided by the English and American literature department office. The student may be asked to provide a syllabus, a transcript of grades, and in some cases examples of written work for which credit is being sought. The number of major requirements that can be satisfied with transfer credit is at the discretion of the undergraduate advising committee.

More detailed descriptions of the courses offered each semester will be available in the English and American literature department office.

Requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts [as part of the Ph.D. Program]

Program of Study

First-year students are expected to take six courses in the English department. Each student will take ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study), this seminar includes attention to research methods. Each student will complete a series of workshops in the teaching of writing. Other courses may be selected from departmental offerings at the 100 and 200 level, although at least two of these electives must be 200-level seminars. Any course taught at the Graduate Consortium in Women’s Studies at Radcliffe College by a faculty member in the department, and approved by the department, shall be deemed the equivalent of a 200-level course within the English department for the purposes of meeting departmental requirements. First-year students may apply to the director of graduate studies for permission to take courses in other departments at Brandeis, courses offered at other universities through various consortium arrangements, and courses offered by the Graduate Consortium in Women’s Studies at Radcliffe College but not taught by department faculty members. First-year students may participate in monthly workshops on teaching and research methods offered by the director of graduate studies and department faculty. At the annual First Year Symposium, held in the spring, first-year students present a paper to an audience of graduate students and faculty. The department meets at the end of every academic year to discuss the progress of its graduate students, particularly first- and second-year students.

Residence Requirement

The minimum residence requirement is one year, though students with inadequate preparation may require more.

Language Requirement

A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European, classical Greek, or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis requirement.

Requirements for the Joint Degree of Master of Arts in English and American Literature and Women’s Studies

A. ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study).

B. WMNS 205a, or a foundational course alternative.

C. Five additional courses in the English department selected from 100-level courses and graduate seminars (200-level courses). At least two of these courses must be at the 200 level. One of these five courses must be listed as an elective with the women’s studies program.

D. One cross-listed women’s studies course in a department other than the English department.

E. Attendance at the year-long, noncredit, Women’s Studies Colloquium Series.

F. Language requirement: A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European, classical Greek, or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis University requirement.

G. First-year students must present a paper at the First-Year Symposium in the spring term.

H. Thesis requirement: This project must be 25 to 35 pages long. Papers written for course work, papers presented at conferences, and papers written specifically for the M.A. degree are all acceptable. The paper must engage a feminist perspective or deal with literary subjects appropriate to women’s studies. Each paper will be evaluated by a reader for whom the paper was not originally written. The paper must satisfy the reader’s standards for excellence in M.A. degree-level work. For further information, contact the women’s studies advisor in the English and American literature department.

Requirements for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy

Program of Study

Second-year students continue to take courses, usually two each term. Students have an obligation to review their preparation in the field with their advisors and to ensure that they are acquiring a comprehensive knowledge of the various historical periods and genres of English and American literature and a deeper knowledge of the particular period or field they propose to offer as a specialty. With the exception of ENG 200a and the teaching workshops, no specific courses are required of all Brandeis Ph.D. candidates; each student’s program will be designed in light of the strengths and weaknesses of his or her previous preparation and in accord with his or her own interests.

A student who comes to Brandeis with a B.A. degree is required to take 12 courses for the Ph.D. degree. A student with an M.A. degree in English is required to take eight additional courses, six of which are normally taken in the Brandeis English department. Additional courses may be taken in other departments at Brandeis, through the Graduate Consortium in Women’s Studies at Radcliffe College, and through consortium arrangements with Boston College, Boston University, and Tufts University.
Second- and third-year students may participate in monthly workshops on teaching and research methods offered by the director of graduate studies and department faculty. The Graduate Committee offers annual workshops for third-year students on such topics as publication, the field exam, and the dissertation prospectus. The job placement officer offers an annual workshop for doctoral candidates and recent graduates on the job search and provides ongoing mentoring for job seekers. Advanced graduate students have opportunities to present their work to other scholars in their field by participating in an ongoing Graduate Feminist Colloquium and in various national and international conferences, for which some travel funds are available. Each year graduate students plan a lecture series in which they and faculty members come together to share their work.

Teaching Requirement
Training in teaching is provided through workshops offered in the first year. Second-, third-, and fourth-year students are normally given a variety of supervised teaching assignments, including University Writing Seminars, University Seminars in Humanistic Inquiries, and/or in English and American literature department courses.

Residence Requirement
The minimum residence requirement is two years beyond the master's degree or three years beyond the bachelor's degree.

Language Requirement
In addition to the first language requirement, the student must (1) demonstrate a reading knowledge of a second major foreign language; or (2) demonstrate an advanced competence in the first foreign language and a knowledge of its literature; or (3) take a graduate course, ordinarily a seminar, in a field closely related to research on the dissertation. Approval of the graduate committee must be sought before such a course is taken; the student must demonstrate the relevance of the proposed course to the dissertation.

Courses of Instruction

| 1-99 | Primarily for Undergraduate Students |

COMP 1a Composition
Prerequisite: Placement by the director of University writing. Enrollment limited to 10 per section. Successful completion of this course does NOT satisfy the first-year writing requirement.
A course in the fundamentals of writing, required as a prerequisite to the first-year writing requirement for selected students identified by the director of University writing. Several sections will be offered in the fall semester.
Staff

UWS #a and #b University Writing Seminar
Enrollment limited to 17.
A course in college writing, with stress on writing sound argumentative essays that demonstrate mechanical and stylistic expertise. This course satisfies Option II of the first-year writing requirement. Offered every semester.
Staff

HUM 10a The Western Canon
This course may not be taken for credit by students who have taken ENG 10a.
[ hum ]
Foundational texts of the Western canon: Bible, Homer, Virgil, and Dante. Thematic emphases and supplementary texts vary from year to year.
Ms. Quinney

ENG 4a The Restoration and the Eighteenth Century
[ hum ]
1660-1800: The age of reason and contradiction, enlightenment, and xenophobia. Surveys literary, critical, philosophical, political, and life writing, investigating the emergence of a literary public sphere, a national canon, and the first professional women writers. Usually offered every second year. Will be offered in the fall of 2003.
Mr. King

ENG 5a Nineteenth-Century Survey
[ hum ]
Offers general coverage of the major literary genres in the 19th century. The course studies the cultural context forged by the interaction of fiction, prose, and poetry. Usually offered every third year. Last offered in the spring of 2003.
Mr. Plotz

ENG 6a American Literature from 1832 to 1900
[ hum ]
Mr. Burt or Mr. Gilmore

ENG 7a American Literature from 1900 to 2000
[ hum ]
Focus on literature and cultural and historical politics of major authors. Prose and poetry. May include Eliot, Frost, Williams, Moore, Himes, Cather, and Faulkner as well as contemporary authors. Usually offered every year. Will be offered in the fall of 2003.
Mr. Burt, Ms. Chu, or Ms. Irr

Dissertation Field Examination
All candidates for the Ph.D. will be asked to pass an oral examination in the historical period or genre in which the candidate expects to write a dissertation. This examination should be taken in the third year.

Dissertation and Defense
Each student submits to the dissertation director and second reader a brief (four- to seven-page) dissertation proposal describing the topic, the questions to be explored, the method of research, and reasons for believing the dissertation will be an original contribution to knowledge. The student's director and/or second reader may also require a bibliography.

Each student will submit a dissertation in a form approved by his/her dissertation director and by a committee appointed by the director of graduate studies. The student will defend the dissertation at a Final Oral Examination.

Completion of Degree
Students entering the Ph.D. program with a B.A. must earn the degree within eight years. Students entering the Ph.D. program with an M.A. must earn the degree within seven years. A student requesting an extension must demonstrate significant progress toward completing the dissertation by submitting a prospectus (or equivalent, including a chapter outline) and at least one chapter to the student's advisor. If the student's advisor agrees to support the requested extension, the advisor will refer the case to the graduate committee for approval.

Special Notes Relating to the Graduate Program

Students should also consult the general degree requirements and academic regulations found in an earlier section of this Bulletin.
ENG 8a Twenty-First Century American Literature
[hum]
An introductory survey of trends in recent American literature. Focus on prose. Readings vary yearly but always include winners of major literary prizes such as the Pulitzer, National Book Award, PEN/Faulkner Award, Pushcart Prize, O. Henry Award, or the Nobel Prize. Usually offered every second year. Last offered in the fall of 2002. Ms. Irr

ENG 9a Advanced Writing Seminar
[hum]
Signature of the instructor required.
A workshop in nonfiction designed mainly for juniors and seniors who want to develop skills in the critical or personal essay, in memoir, autobiography, or scholarly writing. Readings include short works of nonfiction by a wide variety of writers. Usually offered every year. Last offered in the spring of 2000. Staff

ENG 10a Canonical Precursors: Genesis, Homer, Sappho, Ovid, Virgil
[hum]
This course may not be repeated for credit by students who have taken HUM 10a in previous years.
Helps prepare majors for study of most premodern and even modern literature in English through readings of major texts central to a literary education for writers in English from the Middle Ages through Modernism. Genesis, Iliad, Odyssey, Sappho's lyrics, Aeneid, Metamorphoses. Usually offered every year. Will be offered in the spring of 2004. Ms. Campbell or Mr. Flesch

ENG 10b Poetry: A Basic Course
[hum]
Enrollment limited to 12.
Designed as a “first” course for all persons interested in the subject. It is intended to be basic without being elementary. The subject matter will consist of poems of short and middle length in English from the earliest period to the present. Usually offered every fourth year. Last offered in the fall of 1999. Staff

ENG 11a Introduction to Literary Method
[hum]
Enrollment limited to 15 per section in the fall and 18 per section in the spring.
The course’s purpose is to train students in the critical reading of literary texts. There will be frequent assignments of writing that involve literary analysis. Multiple sections. Usually offered every semester. Will be offered in the fall of 2003. Staff

ENG 16a Nineteenth-Century African-American Literature: Texts and Contexts
[hum]
Examines some of the major 19th-century texts of African-American literature and why they are at the center of often heated debates about the canon today. Considers why issues raised by these texts—gender and sexuality, race and ethnicity, the limits of democracy, and the relationship of African-Americans to the United States and other national spaces—resonate so profoundly in literary and cultural studies, and in national life. Usually offered every third year. Last offered in the fall of 2000. Ms. Smith

[hum]
A critical history of journalism in the United States. Topics to be covered include the muckrakers, partisan reportage of Spain, propaganda in World War II, the black press, censorship of the counter-culturist in counter-culture, industrialization, and the Internet. Daily reading of major newspapers required. Usually offered every third year. Last offered in the spring of 2000. Ms. Irr

ENG 17b African Novel
[nw hum]
Examines the African novel in English, along with works in translation. Attention to language address, and narrative form, in, among others: Achebe, Ousmane, Thiong'o, Farah, Head, Hope, Gordimer, and Coetzee. Usually offered every second year. Last offered in spring 2001. Mr. Sanders

ENG 19a Introduction to Creative Writing
[hum]
Offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis. Signature of the instructor required.
A workshop for beginning writers. Practice and discussion of short literary and oral forms: lyric, poetry, the short story, tales, curses, spells. Usually offered every year. Will be offered in the spring of 2004. Ms. Broumas, Ms. Campbell, or Ms. Lilley

ENG 19b The Autobiographical Imagination
(formerly ENG 117b)
[hum]
Students wishing to enroll should submit a sample of writing to the English department office, Rabb 144, before the first class meeting. This course may not be repeated for credit by students who have taken ENG 117b in previous years. Signature of the instructor required.
Combines the study of contemporary autobiographical prose and poetry with intense writing practice arising from these texts. Examines—as writers—what it means to construct the story of one’s life, and ways in which lies, metaphor, and imagination transform memory to reveal and conceal the self. Usually offered every second year. Will be offered in the fall of 2003. Ms. Broumas

ENG 21a Adolescent Literature from Grimm to Voldemorte
[hum]
Literature for adolescents can’t afford any self-indulgences: its audience is too impatient. So it’s a great place to see what’s essential to story-telling. Authors include Shelley, Twain, Salinger, Pullman, and Rowling, whom we’ll use to test basic narrative theory. Usually offered every second year. Will be offered in the spring of 2004. Mr. Flesch

ENG 23a Domains of Seventeenth-Century Performance
[hum]
Seventeenth-century London performance investigated through the domains of its production—the court, the city, and the emerging “town,” center of a new leisure class. Drama, masques, and music drama studied as modes of representation negotiating class mobility, changing concepts of state authority and personal identity, and in gender and sexual relations. Usually offered every second year. Last offered in the spring of 2003. Mr. King

ENG 25a Romanticism I: Blake, Wordsworth, and Coleridge
[hum]
Examines the major poetry and some prose by the first generation of English Romantic poets who may be said to have defined Romanticism and set the tone for the last two centuries of English literature. Usually offered every second year. Will be offered in the fall of 2003. Mr. Burt or Ms. Quinney

ENG 26a Detection and Analysis: Deciphering Theories of “Madness”
[hum]
Enrollment limited to 15.
The expert reader is a detective, a gatherer of clues and intimations. The field of detection will range from poems to short stories, from novels to drama and span five centuries. First-person narrators, poetic speakers, and soliloquizers characterized as marginal, “Other,” distressed, disturbed, meandering, and even “mad” will unite our reading and critical thinking. Usually offered every year. Last offered in the fall of 2002. Ms. Whelan

ENG 28b Queer Readings: Before Stonewall
[hum]
This course may not be repeated for credit by students who have taken TUTR 21b in the spring of 2002.
Students read texts as artifacts of social beliefs, desires, and anxieties about sexed bodies and their pleasures. Readings may include Plato, Virgil, Spenser, Marlowe, Shakespeare, Phillips, Behn, Gray, Tennyson, Lister, Whitman, Dickinson, Wilde, Freud, Woolf, Barnes, Stein, Larsen, Genet, and Baldwin. Usually offered every second year. Will be offered in the spring of 2004. Mr. King
ENG 33a Shakespeare
[hum]
A survey of Shakespeare as a dramatist. From nine to 12 plays will be read, representing all periods of Shakespeare's dramatic career. Usually offered every year. Will be offered in the fall of 2003. Mr. Flesch or Ms. Targoff

ENG 38b Narratives of Paranoia in Contemporary American Fiction
[hum]
Paranoia is a persistent theme in contemporary American fiction. Explores the perils and pleasures of paranoia as a cultural phenomenon and narrative form that expresses anxieties about power, knowledge, and identity. Authors include Pynchon, Burroughs, Atwood, DeLillo, and others. Special one-time offering. Will be offered in the spring of 2004. Mr. Bottorff

ENG 43a Major English Authors, Chaucer to Milton
[hum]
A survey of major English authors from the Middle Ages through the Renaissance, including Chaucer, Wyatt, Spencer, Marlowe, Shakespeare, Sidney, Donne, Herbert, Marvell, Milton. No prior experience in medieval or Renaissance literature is required. Usually offered every year. Last offered in the spring of 2003. Ms. Targoff

ENG 44a Rights: Theory and Rhetoric
[hum]
Classic enlightenment texts about political, intellectual, economic, gender, and human rights: Milton, Locke, Adam Smith, the Bill of Rights, Paine, and Wollstonecraft. Usually offered every second year. Last offered in the spring of 2004. Staff

ENG 46a Nineteenth-Century American Women Writers
[hum]
How did American women writers engage with the social, political, and economic changes of the 19th century? ENG 240b The Ethics of Representation in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century Fiction
Examining exemplary works of 19th- and 20th-century fiction, the class studies the ways in which narrative construction [plotting, rhetoric, narrative voice, ideological motivation] represent personal and social reality. Raises questions about the relationship between the real and the ethical, between what is and what ought to be, and how our own ethical concerns complicate our understanding of the novels we read. Usually offered every third year. Last offered in the fall of 2000.
