Department of Fine Arts

Objectives

Undergraduate Major
The fine arts department offers programs in studio art and art history for the undergraduate student who wishes to study the visual arts as a creative artist or as a humanist.

Art History
Art is the visual record of human history (and the expression of our finest aspirations). The history of art is a discipline that critically examines that record and achievement in the broadest cultural and intellectual context. The art history program offers a wide array of courses. Some courses provide a survey of major developments in Western and Asian art, while others examine in greater detail major themes or movements in art (such as Impressionism and Post-Impressionism, the Age of Cathedrals, and the History of Photography). Students are able to complement these offerings by taking advantage of the proximity of the Rose Art Museum and the wealth of other art museums and cultural institutions in the surrounding area. This comprehensive program exemplifies the ideals of a liberal arts education and thereby enhances any individual course of study. It also prepares students to enter graduate programs in art history, museum studies, and arts administration, or to begin careers in the arts.

Studio Art
Art is a language of its own making and as such, a student is educated in visual thinking and creativity through the fundamental process of direct experience. The studio department offers diverse approaches in painting, sculpture, printmaking, design, and drawing. The studio program fosters a student’s ability to make an informed judgment and it is supplemented through a distinguished visiting artist program, a strong pedagogical link with the Rose Art Museum, and trips to important museums and galleries in New York City, Washington, D.C., and the Boston area. Through the core of studio classes the student is able to realize, with excellence, his or her potential for expression and informed vision. Studio is an appropriate vehicle for an intellectual experience within the liberal arts context, and students are assisted in the preparation for B.F.A. and M.F.A. graduate programs.

Post-Baccalaureate Program in Studio Art
The fine arts department offers a post-baccalaureate certificate program for students with a bachelor’s degree who are interested in extending their experience in studio art. The program’s structure emphasizes independent work with assistance achieved through critical interaction with faculty and visiting artists. Students can prepare portfolios for admission to graduate school, or achieve the self-sufficiency necessary for continued studio work outside an academic environment.

Mortimer-Hays Brandeis Traveling Fellowship
The department administers the Mortimer-Hays Brandeis Traveling Fellowship, which provides support to students in the visual and fine arts, including art history, conservation, studio art, and photography for travel and living expenses outside the continental United States, Alaska, and Hawaii. Support is provided only in accordance with a program of study or other activities approved by the fellowship selection committee. Brandeis is one of 10 colleges and universities that participate in this program.

Art History
The art history major is offered a variety of courses in ancient to contemporary Western art and Asian art. The student may specialize in a given area and choose a faculty advisor who will guide his or her work. The Honors Program in art history requires the completion of a Senior Thesis written under the close supervision of an advisor and a faculty committee. In addition to the courses given at Brandeis, the art history major may enroll in special seminars given by the staff of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. These courses range from Egyptian art to American landscape painting to the preservation and scientific examination of works of art, and all of them involve contact with art objects in the Museum’s world-famous collection. Students may also receive academic credit for internships taken in off-campus museums and art galleries.

Minor in Art History
A minor in art history is offered in addition to the major. This gives the student majoring in another department the opportunity to flexibly construct a program of six art history courses that reflect his or her own personal or academic interests. Studio art majors may not minor in art history.

Studio Art
It is recommended that students considering a studio art major enroll in a beginning painting or sculpture course in their sophomore year to allow time to develop their work in a sequence of courses taken over a period of three years. Studio majors are expected to take art history classes as an important component of their major requirement and to deepen their creative experience. Majors are encouraged to extend their intellectual and creative involvement through summer art programs and participation in full studio faculty reviews of their work during sophomore, junior, and senior years.

How to Be Admitted to the Post-Baccalaureate Program
An undergraduate major in studio art is not required of applicants, but students should be working beyond the beginning level in painting or sculpture. Applicants will be required to submit a group of slides of their work. GMAT or GRE scores are not required. (For more information applicants should contact the fine arts department.)

Students may also double major in studio art and art history if the requirements of each major are fully met with a minimum of 18 semester courses total.

Studio Art
Studio majors are required to take:

A. Any two of the following courses: FA 1a, 1b, 3a, 3b, 4a, 4b; FA or FILM 100a for an elective, but not both.

Art History
Art history curriculum general requirements: 10 required courses from among the FA and cross-listed course offerings, plus two electives.

who take FA 17a must take one additional elective from the fine history (not studio art) and cross-listed offerings for this department, or with permission of the faculty advisor and the art history undergraduate advising head, courses may be taken in related areas outside of the department.

Prospective graduate students in the history of art are advised to acquire skills in foreign languages, which are necessary for graduate study.

Studio
The studio faculty has developed the studio courses listed in the catalog in the belief that the artist-teacher stands at the center of the syllabus of the studio courses. Their presentation is structured through interaction with the individual student. In the best interest of the students’ development it is advised that they utilize all the studio faculty, so as to enrich their educational experience through the diverse offerings of the department. In the event that a student wishes to enter a full-year course at mid-year and feels that work previously accomplished evidences a competency that is equivalent or superior to that course, the student may request that his or her work be viewed by the instructor. Enrollment prerequisite is the consent of the instructor.

Requirements for the Minor in the History of Art

Department majors in studio art cannot also minor in the history of art, due to the overlapping core requirements of the major. In corollary manner, studio courses are not considered part of the art history minor.

To fulfill the minor, all courses must receive a final grade of C— or better. No more than two courses taken in programs abroad, or as transfer credit, can be counted toward the minor.

Six courses are required in art history:

A. One must be taken in pre-Renaissance or Asian art history.

B. Five additional art history courses.

No more than two courses taken in programs abroad, or as transfer credit, can be counted toward the minor.

To fulfill the minor, all courses must receive a final grade of C— or better. Studio courses are not considered part of the art history minor, and studio art majors may not minor in art history.
Requirements for the Post-Baccalaureate Program in Studio Art

A. Students enroll in two courses each semester:

1. FA 200d: A studio tutorial with faculty advisors.
2. One advanced course in drawing, printmaking, or sculpture.

B. Students receive a full studio faculty review of their work mid-year and at the end of the academic year. The Post-Baccalaureate Program culminates in a special student exhibition in a gallery on campus.

C. There is a one-year residency requirement that may be extended to an additional year with permission of the program chair.

Provides an introduction to the materials used in a wide variety of works of art (stone, ceramic, metal, glass, paintings, wood, paper, textiles, man-made materials including plastics), where the materials come from, and how they are utilized to make works of art. Most course meetings will focus on a specific material and will include an introductory lecture and conclude with visits to the Museum’s conservation laboratories and studios and/or galleries to closely examine and discuss individual works of art made from that material. How materials deteriorate over time, and how such changes can dramatically affect the appearance of a work of art, will also be discussed. Overview lectures will discuss the nature of materials from a scientific point of view, defining basic concepts that are necessary to understand the materials used in works of art. One lecture will describe how knowledge of materials and techniques can be applied to authentication problems. Readings are drawn from a wide range of books, articles, and conference publications. Grading will be based on seven to eight short assignments; each will require students to study artifacts on display at the Museum of Fine Arts. Will be offered in the spring of 2004.

FA 86b Italian Renaissance Painting, 1300-1520: Historical Techniques and Approaches
See FA 82a for restrictions and necessary signatures.
The approaches used in a museum to study Italian Renaissance painting are typically different from those taught in college courses. This seminar combines the methods of curator and paintings conservator for an unusual, hands-on approach to Italian paintings from the dawn of the Renaissance to the early 16th century. The practice of connoisseurship is studied historically as well as through case studies of works in the MFA. The class considers the use of provenance, the history of collecting early Italian paintings, and the limits of stylistic interpretation. Students observe work conducted in the conservation department, including the critical diagnostic tools of microscopy, ultraviolet light examination, x-radiography, and infrared reflectography. Artistic techniques of the Renaissance are discussed with reference to actual objects across a range of materials-frescoes, tempera and gilding on panel, oil on panel, and oil on canvas. Class meetings are held in galleries, storage areas, and conservation laboratories at the MFA and other local collections, as well as in the classroom. Will be offered in the spring of 2004.

FA 87a Art Deco in Europe
See FA 82a for restrictions and necessary signatures.
The style known as Art Deco takes its name from the Exposition Internationale des Arts Décoratifs et Industriels Modernes, held in Paris, in 1925. This seminar will provide a variety of contexts in which to understand and interpret the style, focusing on decorative arts in all media [textiles, furniture, metalwork, ceramics, glass]. Students will identify and research objects, and prepare reports on such themes as the cultural and material origins of the style, materials and techniques, the style as represented in different media, and the reception of Art Deco in the United States. This seminar is being offered in conjunction with preparation for a major international exhibition at the MFA from August 2004 to January 2005, and students will examine methods of exhibition display, installation, and interpretative materials. As opportunities permit, there will be visit to sale rooms, galleries, and collections. Will be offered in the spring of 2004.
