Interdepartmental programs in

Education

Objectives

The Education Program offers several different undergraduate and graduate programs. Undergraduate students are able to select a path to pursue either education studies (major or minor) or teacher education (minor in elementary, middle, or high school teaching). The Brandeis Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) program offers concentrations in elementary teaching [public or Jewish day school] or secondary—middle or high school teaching [biology, chemistry, English, history, physics, or Bible]. For a more complete description of the education program, please consult the program’s Web site, www.brandeis.edu/programs/education.

Any undergraduate at Brandeis may begin fulfilling requirements of the major or minor at any time, without formal admission. It is recommended that students meet with an education program adviser during their first or second year in order to plan for program requirements. Permission, which is required to enroll in the education studies major or minor and the teacher education minor, should be sought no later than when a student has completed two education courses.

Undergraduate Education Studies Major

The education studies major is designed for students interested in the social, historical, and cultural contexts of education and the role of education in shaping policy, practice, learning, and identity. This major encourages students to think critically about such questions as: How do various political, economic, historical, psychological, and social forces shape education and public expectations for school? What does school teach us about society? How do K–12 schooling and higher education shape individual and communal identities and life opportunities? How can we better understand and guide learning in and out of school? What kinds of learning, schools, and teachers do young people need and deserve?

A Brandeis graduate with an education studies major will be prepared to pursue:

• education policy, legislative, or nonprofit work;
• careers in education-related fields such as school psychology, higher education, informal education, museum education;
• graduate study and a career in teaching; and/or
• graduate study and a scholarly career in education.

In addition to developing skills and habits of inquiry, critical thinking, and analysis associated with a strong liberal arts education, education studies majors will acquire a historical and comparative understanding of schooling, a deeper understanding of teaching and learning, educational research skills, and an understanding of the ethical dimensions of education.

Because candidates for the education studies major must complete nine courses, including a senior seminar, students should consult with an education studies adviser no later than the beginning of the junior year about the program requirements. No course for the major may be taken on a pass/fail basis.

Students must receive a grade of C– or higher for any course to be counted as part of the education studies major.

Please note that the education studies major does not lead to a teaching license. Students interested in becoming licensed as teachers need to enroll in the teacher education program that leads to licensure.

Undergraduate Education Studies Minor

This minor gives students a chance to explore the impact of political, historical, psychological, economic, and social forces that shape education and public expectations for schools. The minor’s interdisciplinary approach is suitable both for students interested in the broad social and cultural contexts of education and for those interested in educational careers.

Students must receive a grade of C– or higher for any course to be counted as part of the education studies minor. Please note that the education studies minor does not lead to a teaching license. Students interested in becoming teachers need to enroll in the Brandeis teacher education program that leads to licensure.

Undergraduate Teaching Minor

The undergraduate education program leading to licensure is designed to prepare undergraduates for teaching at the preschool, elementary, or secondary level, and is taken in addition to the student’s major. Those interested in this minor should meet with an education program adviser to develop a plan for teacher education courses (which begin in the sophomore year) and other required courses. Please see the education program Web site for specific course requirements. This minor is also valuable for those planning careers in related fields, such as special education.

Four central themes define the Brandeis teacher education programs. These themes are woven throughout our courses:

1. Knowing Students as Learners: Good teachers work actively to know their students as individuals and learners. They use their knowledge of child development and learning and their knowledge of information related to teaching and learning. They modify their instruction to support students’ academic learning and social progress.

2. Teaching for Understanding: The Brandeis education program strives to prepare teachers to narrow the achievement gap among students through the use of standards-based, learning-centered curricula. Good teachers communicate high standards and expectations for student learning and draw on a repertoire of approaches using instructional strategies to make knowledge accessible and interesting to diverse learners. They check for understanding and use multiple forms of assessment, including performance assessments, to guide planning and instruction.

3. Inquiry: Effective teachers continually assess and reflect on their own teaching practices and stay aware of current resources and information related to teaching and learning. Teachers need to have a firm grounding in educational research, theory, and practice and understand the ways in which inquiry and reflection on research, including their own classroom research, can inform practice.

4. Social Justice: Issues of social justice and injustice affect schools. Teachers need to work toward greater equity and access to knowledge for all students, while creating multicultural, democratic classrooms that celebrate respect and diversity.
Candidates for the elementary or secondary teaching license must achieve a grade of at least B– in all required undergraduate teacher education courses. Satisfactory grades and permission of the education program adviser (elementary) or director (secondary) are required in order to proceed to the final semesters of the program (ED 101a and b, ED 105a, and ED 111e; or ED 102a, ED 104a, and ED 110e; or ED 112e).

Students who successfully complete the elementary, middle, or high school teacher education program, including the requirements set by the state of Massachusetts (including passing appropriate portions of the Mass. Test for Teacher Licensure—MTEL), may be recommended by Brandeis for initial licensure to teach in Massachusetts. The state of Massachusetts has reciprocal licensing arrangements with more than forty other states. Information on licensure requirements may be found on the education program Web site, www.brandeis.edu/programs/education.

Of the students who completed the Brandeis teacher education program and took the MTEL tests in 2005–06, 100 percent passed both the Communications and Literacy Skills test and the Subject Matter Knowledge tests.

Master of Arts in Teaching
In the MAT program, we conceive of teaching as practical intellectual work dedicated to enlargement of human capacity at the individual and societal level. Successful completion of the program leads to the degree and [with the exception of the secondary Bible concentration] the initial license to teach in Massachusetts, which has reciprocity agreements with more than forty other states and the District of Columbia.

The MAT in Elementary Education offers a choice of two concentrations: public elementary or Jewish day schools. The MAT in secondary education offers a choice of four concentrations: history, English, sciences, or Bible. A coherent one-year/four-semester course of study integrates sustained guided-teaching practice in area schools with challenging course work and analysis of educational problems and issues at macro and micro levels. A small cohort of students works closely with peers, mentors, and faculty in an atmosphere that is collegial and open to risk-taking. Inquiry is a theme across the year. As the culminating project, students design, conduct, and report on a classroom-based, action-research project. All graduates are expected to demonstrate strong conceptual and practical command of the field, commitment to children as learners and thinkers, and habits of reliance on reason, evidence, and values in pedagogical decision making.

One exceptional feature of the MAT is the early career induction support provided to graduates who teach in the greater Boston area. Social support, reflection on teaching challenges, and individual advising are offered in monthly meetings and in one-on-one conferences.

How to Be Admitted to the Graduate Program

The general requirements for admission to the Graduate School, given in an earlier section of this Bulletin, apply to candidates for admission to this program. Applicants to the MAT program apply to the concentration of interest: elementary education in public or Jewish day schools; or secondary education in history, English, sciences, or Bible.

Strong liberal arts preparation with depth in an appropriate discipline and/or a record of professional accomplishment in an appropriate field is expected. Applicants to the Elementary MAT should be able to demonstrate possession of the knowledge necessary to teach the four subjects constituting the core of the elementary school curriculum: mathematics, literacy/English language arts, science, and the social studies. Applicants to the Secondary MAT must have an undergraduate major or other very strong academic background in the content area they wish to teach. Program faculty are available for consultation and transcript review prior to application with respect to this or other admissions criteria. Prospective applicants are urged to request transcript review.

Prior experience with children is strongly advised. Applications should include three letters of reference, the results of the GRE general exam, a transcript, a resume, and a statement of purpose explaining their reasons for pursuing this degree.

Further information about application processes and criteria, scholarship opportunities, and program requirements is available on the MAT Web site.

Requirements for the Minor

Education Programs Leading to Licensure

Secondary
PSYC 36b [note that PSYC 1a is a prerequisite for PSYC 36b], ED 100b, and ED 102a are prerequisites for practice teaching. ED 104a and ED 110e are taken in the senior year or ninth semester. Students must consult the director of the program for other requirements, including recommended courses in their major. It is recommended that students take ED 100b in their sophomore year and ED 102a in their junior year. Students must pass the Massachusetts Communication and Literacy Skills Test before enrolling in ED 110e (student teaching).

Elementary
PSYC 33a [note that PSYC 1a is a prerequisite for PSYC 33a], ED 100a followed by ED 107a (sophomores who have taken ED 100a are advised to take ED 107a as juniors), ED 101a and b and ED 105a, always taken in the semester before student teaching, and ED 111c (student teaching); MATH 3a, unless waived upon education program and math department review. Students must consult the education program faculty adviser for elementary candidates regarding these and other program requirements. It is strongly recommended that, whenever possible, students consult the adviser during their first year. The education program Web site lists significant additional liberal arts courses required for licensure by the Massachusetts Department of Education. Students must pass specified portions of the Massachusetts Test for Educator Licensure (MTEL) before enrolling in ED 111e (student teaching).

Preschool
Practice teaching at the Lemberg Children’s Center is possible (ED 112e). Prerequisites are PSYC 33a and ED 103a. These courses, plus two others, will fulfill the Department of Early Education and Care requirements for lead teachers in infant/toddler and/or preschool. For further information, consult the director of the Lemberg Children’s Center.

Education Studies

A. Core course: ED 155b (Education and Social Policy).

B. A second core course to be selected from the following electives:

- AMST 150a History of Childhood and Youth in America
- AMST 180b Topics in the History of American Education
- COML 165a Reading, Writing, and Teaching across Cultures
- ED 158b Looking with the Learner: Practice and Inquiry
- ED 159b Philosophy of Education
- SOC 104a The Sociology of Education

Requirements for the Major

Education Studies Major

A. ED 155b Education and Social Policy

B. A second core course in which to study education from the perspective of a foundational discipline. Students may choose their second core course from one of the following courses:

- AMST 150a History of Childhood and Youth in America
- AMST 180b Topics in the History of American Education
- COML 165a Reading, Writing, and Teaching across Cultures
- ED 158b Looking with the Learner: Practice and Inquiry
- ED 159b Philosophy of Education
- SOC 104a The Sociology of Education

C. At least four additional program electives, no more than two of which can be taken in the same department or interdepartmental program. Program electives are listed at the end of the education course listings.

Students may substitute successful completion of an essay, thesis, or internship, as described below, for the fourth elective course option:

1. Essay: an approved research or honors essay, usually taken in the senior year. Students would receive credit for this essay through their department major, or ED 98a (Individual Readings and Research in Education), or an independent study or research course approved by the director of the education program.

2. Honors Thesis: a senior thesis in the student’s major that has an emphasis on some aspect of education.

3. Internship: an internship [ED 92] approved by the director of the education program. (Students who are student teaching in the education program will also be eligible to receive internship credit if they are concurrently pursuing an education studies minor.) Students who choose this option will keep a journal about their experiences and produce a final paper.

D. Students must achieve a grade of C– or higher in each course taken for credit in the minor. Pass/Fail courses will not earn credit toward the minor.

E. Students may have only two cross-over courses that meet requirements for both the education (licensure) minor and the education studies major.

Education

C. At least six other program electives, no more than two of which can be used to meet the requirements of both the teacher education (licensure) minor and the education studies major. As part of fulfilling the elective requirements, students must take three courses in either group 1 (Schooling, Policy, and Society) and one course in group 2 (Human Development, Learning, and/or Teaching), or vice versa (three courses in group 2 and one course in group 1). We urge majors to choose one of their electives a course that focuses on cross-cultural understanding, such as COML 165a, ED 158b, or PAX 186a. Please see the listing of groups of electives listed below.

Please note that majors who intend to do an honors thesis involving empirical research are required to have completed a research course before their senior year.

Students may substitute successful completion of an essay or internship, as described below, for one of the six elective courses.

Essay: An approved research or honors essay, usually taken in the senior year. Students would receive credit for this essay, or ED 98a (Individual Readings and Research in Education), or an independent study or research course approved by the director of the education program.

Internship: An internship (ED 92) approved by the director of the education program. (Students who are student teaching in the education program will also be eligible to receive internship credit if they are concurrently pursuing an education studies major.) Students who choose this option will keep a journal about their experiences and produce a final paper.

D. ED 165a Reading [and Talking Back to] Research on Education. All education studies majors are required to enroll in this seminar during the fall semester of their senior year.

E. Honors: Students who wish to be considered for honors in education studies will be required to complete a senior thesis. Students who intend to do an honors thesis must discuss their potential thesis topic with a faculty adviser in education studies during their junior year. These students will have an opportunity to begin their research in ED 165a and will then enroll in ED 99b to complete their thesis.

F. Pass/Fail courses will not earn credit toward the major. Students must receive a grade of C– or higher for any course to be counted as part of the education studies major.

Requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts in Teaching

The MAT is a full-time, in-residence, year-long, forty-eight-credit program running summer-fall-spring-summer consecutive terms.

Candidates for the degree of Master of Arts in Teaching – Elementary Education are admitted to one of two concentrations: public education or Jewish day schools (DeLeT).

Candidates for the degree of Master of Arts in Teaching – Middle or Secondary Education are admitted to one of the following concentrations: biology, chemistry, history, English, physics, or Bible.

Within a coherent, sequenced course of study, students examine theories and cases of human learning, study principles and practices of teaching specific subjects, and engage in some of the big questions and debates that characterize the field. Guided teaching practice begins in the summer and continues through a year-long internship in a nearby classroom. Working closely with an experienced mentor teacher, students gradually assume increasing instructional responsibility and begin functioning as junior colleagues in the school community. Over the course of the year, students learn principles and practices of inquiry-oriented pedagogy in the subject area(s). They study formal and informal methods of assessment, learn how to interpret and adapt curricular standards, and practice engaging families in meaningful conversation about children’s educational accomplishments and needs.

Additional information about required courses, calendar, and other information about the program and the specific concentrations may be found on the MAT Web site, www.brandeis.edu/programs/MAT. Consult the department coordinator for section assignments.

Internship

Intensive internships are an integral part of the MAT program. Duration ranges from two to five days a week; students are responsible for their own transportation. The program arranges placements in public or Jewish Day schools, in districts such as Belmont, Boston, Framingham, Newton, and Waltham. The field experience is supported by regular mentoring from school personnel and a weekly reflective teaching seminar that examines such topics as curriculum development, classroom environment, teaching strategies, and assessment.

Teacher Research

As a culminating project, students design, conduct, and report on a classroom-based inquiry project, often a form of “action research.” Successful completion of the project is a requirement for the degree. In the second summer semester, students present their findings to faculty, friends, and colleagues.

Induction Year

MAT graduates whose initial teaching positions are in the greater Boston area are provided ongoing professional development in their first year. Social support, reflection on teaching challenges, and individual advising are offered in monthly meetings and in one-on-one conferences.

[100–199] For Both Undergraduate and Graduate Students

ED 100a Exploring Teaching (Elementary)
[ ss ]
Not open to first-year students. Three hours per week of field experience (participant observation in an elementary school classroom), arranged by the education program, are required in addition to regular class time. Examines the relationship of teaching and learning, the purposes of elementary schooling, and the knowledge requirements for elementary school teaching. Through readings, analysis of videotapes, and guided observations, students investigate classroom culture, student thinking, and curriculum standards. Usually offered every fall semester.
Ms. Feiman-Nemser

ED 100b Exploring Teaching (Secondary)
[ ss w ]
Not open to first-year students. Three hours per week of field experience (participant observation in a secondary classroom), arranged by the education program, are required in addition to regular class time. Examines the relationship of teaching and learning, the purposes of secondary schooling and the knowledge requirements for middle and high school teaching. Through readings, analysis of videotapes and guided observations, students investigate classroom culture, student thinking, and curriculum standards. Usually offered every spring semester.
Ms. Levenson

ED 101a Elementary School Curriculum and Teaching: Literacy, Social Studies, and Other Topics
[ ss ]
Limited to students enrolling in ED 111c spring semester. Weekly field experience, arranged by the education program, is required in addition to regular class time. Contact the program for further information. Focuses on principles and effective procedures for teaching literature and social studies in elementary classrooms. Emphasizes the cognitive, social, and cultural dimensions of literacy learning as well as strategies for reading and writing nonfiction and critical approaches to the teaching of social studies. Usually offered every year.
Ms. Moriarty and Mr. Roosevelt

ED 101b Elementary School Curriculum and Teaching: Arts, Multiculturalism, and Other Topics
[ ss ]
Limited to students enrolling in ED 111c spring semester. Focuses on principles and effective procedures for teaching elementary students. Examines how art, creative drama, multicultural education, special education, and physical education affect teaching and learning. Usually offered every year.
Ms. Moriarty

ED 102a Secondary Curriculum, Instruction, and Assessment
[ oc ss ]
It is strongly recommended that juniors who are planning to student teach (ED 110e) in their senior year enroll in ED 102a in their junior year. ED 102a is a prerequisite for ED 110e. Principles of curriculum, instruction, and assessment in secondary schools. Two hours per week of participant observation in a secondary classroom are required. Usually offered every fall semester.
Mr. Rossiter

ED 103a Teaching Strategies for Early Childhood
[ ss ]
Provides classroom experience, principles, and methods for teaching young children. Students plan and analyze early childhood learning experiences, based on current theory and best practices, as well as study positive approaches to classroom management and developmentally appropriate curricula. Related field placement required, once a week, at Lemberg Children's Center, 8:00 am to 12:00 pm or 2:00 pm to 6:00 pm. Usually offered every spring semester.
Ms. Langer

ED 104a Secondary School: Theory into Practice
[ ss ]
Must be taken concurrently with ED 110c. Principles and methods of teaching in specific subject areas in secondary schools. Usually offered every fall semester.
Staff

ED 105a Elementary School Curriculum and Teaching: Mathematics and Science
[ ss ]
Limited to students enrolling in ED 111c spring semester. Must be taken concurrently with ED 101a in the fall semester. Principles and strategies of teaching mathematics and science in elementary classrooms. Emphasizes understanding mathematical and scientific concepts needed by elementary teachers, effective teaching procedures, and recommended materials. Usually offered every year.
Ms. Abramson and Mr. Heyman

ED 107a Teaching and Learning Reading in Elementary Schools
[ ss ]
Summer session open only to MAT students. Examines theories and methods of teaching reading and language arts to children in elementary schools. Emphasizes competencies necessary for developmental reading. Explores strategies for literacy, including the interrelated aspects of writing and spelling. Requires a field experience of fifteen hours. Usually offered every year.
Ms. Moriarty and Staff

ED 110c Practice Teaching: Secondary School
[ ss ]
Prerequisites: ED 100b, ED 102a [must be taken the year before ED 110c], and ED 104a [must be taken concurrently with ED 110c]. Enrollment limited to students in the education program. Students must pass the Massachusetts Communication and Literacy Skills Test before enrolling in ED 110c.
Full-time student teaching under supervision of qualified teachers, regular conferences to discuss and evaluate the teaching experience. Includes at least one after-school meeting most weeks, covering such topics as multicultural education, special education, and reading. Usually offered every fall semester.
Ms. Levenson
ED 111c Practice Teaching: Elementary School
[ ss ]
Prerequisites: ED 100a, ED 101a, ED 101b, ED 105a, and ED 107a. Enrollment limited to students in the education program. Students must pass the Massachusetts Communication and Literacy Skills Test before enrolling in ED 111c.
Full-time student teaching under supervision of qualified teachers; regular conferences to discuss and evaluate the teaching experience. Includes at least one after-school meeting per week. Usually offered every spring semester.
Staff

ED 112c Practice Teaching: Preschool
[ ss ]
Prerequisites: PSYC 33a and ED 103a.
Enrollment limited to students in the education program. Signature of the education program director required.
Teaching under supervision of qualified head teachers at the Lemberg Children's Center with toddlers, preschoolers, and kindergartners. Thirty-five hours per week includes thirty hours teaching, five hours planning and meeting time. Regular conferences to discuss and evaluate the teaching experience. Usually offered every year.
Staff

ED 155b Education and Social Policy
[ ss w1 ]
Examines the various functions that schools perform in a community, with special attention to the intended and unintended consequences of contemporary policies such as special education, desegregation, charter schools, and the standards/accountability movement. Usually offered every year.
Staff

ED 157b The Psychology of Student Learning
[ ss ]
Open only to MAT students.
How do children learn? Topics in this survey course include models of learning, cognitive and social development, creativity, intelligence, character education, motivation, complex reasoning, and learning disabilities. Course methods include contemporary research analyses, case studies, group projects, short lectures, and class discussions.
Ms. Davis or Mr. Reimer

ED 158b Looking with the Learner: Practice and Inquiry
Does not satisfy a school distribution requirement—for education studies core course credit only.
Inquiry and exploration in the visual arts have the capacity to develop the creative problem solving essential to both teaching and learning. Students will work in different media, examine interpretations of art, reflect in journals, and teach children about contemporary art at the Rose Art Museum. Students will complete a twelve-hour practicum as part of this course. Usually offered every year.
Ms. Dash

ED 159b Philosophy of Education
[ ss ]
Explores several major issues in philosophy of education through close examination and discussion of recent theoretical texts. Issues include the goals of education; the rights of the state to foster civic virtue; multiculturalism; moral education; the problem of indoctrination; education for autonomy, rationality, critical thinking, and open-mindedness. Usually offered every second year.
Mr. Levisohn

ED 165a Reading (and Talking Back to) Research on Education
[ ss ]
Corequisite: ED 155b. Open to education studies majors only.
In this required capstone course for education studies majors, students will review quantitative and qualitative research through disciplinary lenses. Students pursue some topic of inquiry by either reviewing and synthesizing educational research, or conducting some empirical research. Usually offered every year.
Ms. Featherstone

ED 170a Critical Perspectives in Urban Education
[ ss ]
Examines the nature of urban schools, their links to the social and political context, and the perspectives of the people who inhabit them. Explores the historical development of urban schools, the social, economic, and personal hardships facing urban students; and challenges of urban school reform. Usually offered every year.
Ms. Brown

(200 and above) Primarily for Graduate Students

ED 221b Readings in Education
Staff

ED 260a Special Education: Teaching for Inclusion
Open only to MAT students.
Examines specific learner characteristics of students with disabilities as well as modifications (program, instructional, environmental) and strategies that facilitate a more successful learning experience for these students. Usually offered every summer.
Ms. Brumbach

ED 261a Inquiry-Based Science Teaching and Learning
Open only to MAT students.
Focuses on the learning and exploration of scientific concepts and strategies needed to teach inquiry-based science in elementary classrooms. Usually offered every year.
Staff

ED 262a Teaching Mathematics in Elementary Classrooms
Open only to MAT students.
Focuses on the learning, discovery, and exploration of the skills and strategies needed to teach mathematical concepts and skills in elementary school classrooms. Usually offered every summer.
Ms. Ruopp

ED 263a Reflective Teaching
Open only to MAT students.
A weekly seminar closely coordinated with the Field Internship (ED 265a). Students explore and evaluate approaches to classroom organization and management, instructional planning, and assessment. They form habits of critical consciousness and develop skills to study their teaching and their students' learning. Students also assemble a teaching portfolio that documents their learning in relation to program standards. Usually offered every fall.
Ms. Pearlmutter

ED 263b Reflective Teaching
Open only to MAT students.
A weekly seminar closely coordinated with the Field Internship (ED 265b). Students explore and evaluate approaches to classroom organization and management, instructional planning, and assessment. They form habits of critical consciousness and develop skills to study their teaching and their students' learning. Students also assemble a teaching portfolio that documents their learning in relation to program standards. Usually offered every spring.
Ms. Kish or Ms. Pearlmutter
ED 264a Foundations of Education
Open only to MAT students. Explores philosophical, sociological, historical, and political contexts of schools in the United States, including legal issues and concerns, teaching concerns, and current issues and trends. Emphasizes curriculum theory and the link between the developing child and instruction. Usually offered every summer. Ms. Levenson, Mr. Roosevelt, and Staff

ED 265a Field Internship
Open only to MAT students. Supervised teaching internship designed to help connect theory and practice. Students gradually build proficiency in teaching, adding responsibilities and skills over time. Students have guided opportunities to observe, plan, and teach core subjects, to manage classrooms, to get to know students and families, and to participate fully in the life of the school. Interns receive regular mentoring from school and university personnel. Usually offered every fall. Staff

ED 265b Field Internship
Open only to MAT students. Corequisite: ED 263b. Supervised teaching internship designed to help connect theory and practice. Students gradually build proficiency in teaching, adding responsibilities and skills over time. Students have guided opportunities to observe, plan, and teach core subjects, to manage classrooms, to get to know students and families, and to participate fully in the life of the school. Interns receive regular mentoring from school and university personnel. Usually offered every spring. Staff

ED 266a Teacher Research
Open only to MAT students. Students design and carry out a systematic investigation addressing a question or problem arising in their practice. Students explore principles and methods of classroom-based research and review examples of published teacher research. Students present their inquiry projects to fellow students, mentor teachers, and faculty in a teacher research colloquium at the conclusion of their second summer session. Usually offered every year. Ms. Feiman-Nemser or Mr. Roosevelt

ED 267a Fundamentals of Teaching
Open only to MAT students. Central seminar taught in conjunction with the Field Internship [ED 265a]. Explores and evaluates approaches to instructional planning, formative and summative assessment, classroom culture and management, and emergent issues. Also policy and regulatory issues at national, state, district, and building level as they impinge on daily practice. Reflective practice, inquiry, and critical colleagueship are themes. Portfolio requirement. Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Rossiter, or Ms. Troen

ED 267b Fundamentals of Teaching
Open only to MAT students. A continuation of ED 267a, the central seminar taught in conjunction with the Field Internship [ED 265b]. Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Rossiter, or Ms. Troen

ED 268a Pedagogy of Teaching English
Prerequisite: ED 264a. Corequisite: ED 267a. Open only to MAT students in the secondary English concentration. This course prepares teachers of secondary English language arts to effectively plan for and assess student learning in three primary areas of instruction: writing, reading, and speaking. The following are emphasized: methods of engagement with literature, content-specific assessment and discussion techniques, writing process instruction, reading strategy and vocabulary instruction, and methods for reaching a diverse group of learners. An underlying goal of this course is for teachers to approach their chosen profession with a spirit of reflection, continuous improvement, and collaboration. Usually offered every year. Ms. Blais

ED 269a Pedagogy of Teaching History
Prerequisite: ED 264a. Corequisite: ED 267a. Open only to MAT students in the secondary history concentration. This course supports the aspiring secondary school history teacher as he or she prepares for the student teaching experience. Emphasis is placed on building a content-specific personal resource library, planning for cohesive lessons and units, teaching a variety of history content to students of diverse personal backgrounds and academic abilities, and developing collegial relationships in the teaching profession. Usually offered every year. Ms. Dunne

ED 270a Pedagogy of Teaching Science
Prerequisite: ED 264a. Corequisite: ED 267a. Open only to MAT students in the secondary sciences concentrations. Provides students with an overview of trends, issues, strategies, and resources specific to the teaching of secondary school science. Focusses on the following key concepts as they relate to teaching secondary science: inquiry, teaching for understanding, knowing students as learners, strategies and resources to support science teaching, successful laboratory activities, professionalism, and social justice. Usually offered every year. Ms. Kraus

ED 271a The Pedagogy of Teaching Tanakh
Prerequisite: ED 264a. Corequisite: ED 267a. Open only to MAT students in the secondary Bible concentration. This course is designed to provide opportunities to develop the intellectual and pedagogical skills needed for teaching Tanakh. Usually offered every year. Ms. Tanchel

English and American Literature

Objectives

Undergraduate Major in English and American Literature
The English major is designed to train students in the analysis of literary texts and to introduce them to the various literary and cultural traditions that influence creative work in the English language.

Undergraduate Major in Creative Writing
The major in creative writing is designed to help students explore and develop their creative writing and their understanding of literary and cultural traditions.

Graduate Program in English and American Literature
The graduate program in English and American literature is designed to offer training in the interpretation and evaluation of literary texts in their historical and cultural contexts.

How to Become a Major

Literature
There are no prerequisites for declaring the English major, and students may declare the major at any time. Prospective majors are encouraged to take two or three courses in the department in their first and second years. ENG 11a [Introduction to Literary Method] focuses on the basic skills needed for studying literature and is required for the major. Courses with numbers below 100 are especially suitable for beginning students.

Courses of Study:
Minor
Major (BA)
Master of Arts
Doctor of Philosophy

Creative Writing
Students interested in the creative writing program should consult the pamphlet Creative Writing at Brandeis, obtainable from the main office of the department. The pamphlet is also available at www.brandeis.edu/departments/english/creativewriting_brochure.html.

How to Be Admitted to the Graduate Program

Candidates for admission should have a bachelor's degree, preferably with a major in English and American literature, and a reading knowledge of French, Italian, Spanish, German, Greek, or Latin. They are required to submit a sample of their critical writing not to exceed thirty-five pages; the thirty-five-page maximum may consist of a single critical essay or two shorter essays of approximately equal length. All applicants are required to submit scores on the Graduate Record Examination Verbal Aptitude Test. The GRE Advanced Test in Literature is also required for PhD applicants and recommended for terminal MA and joint MA applicants. The general requirements for admission to the Graduate School, as specified in an earlier section of this Bulletin, apply to candidates for admission to this area of study.

Course Numbers

Except for courses in the 90–99 range, English department courses are numbered systematically. The final digit for any course number identifies the subject, as follows:

0—Courses in a literary genre
1—Courses in literary theory and literary criticism
2—Medieval British literature (roughly before 1500)
3—Renaissance British literature (circa 1500–1660)
4—Restoration/eighteenth-century British literature
5—Nineteenth-century British literature
6—Nineteenth-century American literature
7—Twentieth-century literature
8—Miscellaneous literary subjects
9—Writing courses

Requirements for the Major

Literature Major

Nine semester courses are required, including the following:

A. ENG 11a.

B. Three semester courses dealing primarily with literature in English written before 1850. All courses ending in 2, 3, or 4 fulfill this requirement, as well as certain courses ending in 5 or 6. For specific information about whether a particular course fulfills the pre-1850 requirement, please consult the instructor or the undergraduate advising head. A listing is provided below and is also available from the department’s main office:

Pre-1850 courses: ENG 3a, 4a, 23a, 33a, 40b, 43a, 44a, 46b, 50a, 53a, 63a, 64b, 103a, 104a, 114b, 115b, 122a, 123b, 124a, 125a, 125b, 132b, 133a, 134a, 135a, 142b, 143a, 144b, 145b, 152b, 173a, 174b.

C. One semester course in world literature (exclusive of the United States and England) from the list given below. For the purposes of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English in places outside the United States and England [e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature]. Courses in foundational texts (ENG 10a or HUM 10a) or certain cross-listed courses also fulfill this requirement. Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the undergraduate advising head.

Selected world literature courses: ENG 10a, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 127b, 147b, 197b, HUM 10a. See cross-listed courses as well.
Creative Writing Major

This major may be declared upon the completion of three courses in directed writing and of ENG 11a (Literary Method). Ten semester courses are required, including the following:

A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a, which should be taken as early as possible.

B. Four semester courses in directed writing [poetry, prose, or both]: ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 29a, ENG 29b, ENG 49a, ENG 49b, ENG 79a, ENG 79b, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b, ENG 139b, THA 104a; one of these courses may be fulfilled by an independent study [ENG 98a or b] in the student's senior year. At least two of the required workshops must be taken with senior creative writing faculty. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. A student may take as many workshops as she or he might like, but two must be concluded before the beginning of the senior year. No more than one course in directed writing can be taken in any semester in the same genre. Two such courses may be taken in different genres. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis, with the exception of THA 104a. All directed writing courses are by instructor's signature and require a manuscript submission. Majors cannot be guaranteed entry to such courses outside the selection process of each.

C. One course in foundational texts—ENG 10a or HUM 10a.

D. Four elective semester courses, which may include any course offered or cross-listed in the department, with the following exceptions: no more than one creative writing workshop may be counted as an elective; USEM, COMP, and UWS courses do not count toward the major requirements in English and American literature. Cross-listed courses are considered to be outside the department and are subject to the restriction in (F) below.

E. No course with a final grade below C– can count toward fulfilling the major requirements in English and American literature.

F. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted toward the major. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad and cross-listed courses. Transfer students should see special notes section for information on transfer credits.

G. Advanced Placement credits do not count toward the major.

Honors Track: Consideration for graduation with honors in English requires a GPA of 3.50 or higher in courses counting toward the major, and satisfactory completion of a senior honors essay (one-semester ENG 99a or b), which counts as a tenth course. In rare cases, students may elect instead to complete the senior honors thesis [ENG 99d for two semesters]. To write an honors essay or thesis, students must arrange to be advised by a faculty member in the department who has agreed to direct the essay or thesis. The undergraduate advising head can assist students in finding appropriate directors. Departmental honors are awarded on the basis of excellence in all courses applied to the major, as well as all courses taken in the department, including the senior essay or thesis, as determined by the department faculty. Students in the creative writing major who complete ENG 96d will be considered to have completed a senior honors thesis.

A student majoring in literature may double-major or minor in creative writing.

Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option: Eleven semester courses are required. The directed writing requirement is reduced to a minimum of three semester courses in directed writing [poetry, prose, or both]: ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 49a, ENG 79a, ENG 79b, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b, ENG 139b, THA 104a, and the satisfactory completion of two semesters of Senior Creative Writing Thesis [ENG 96d] is added:

ENG 96d [Senior Creative Writing Thesis]. The student will produce, under the direction of his or her adviser, a body of writing (usually a book of poems, collection of stories, or a novel) of appropriate scope (two semesters). The poetry or fiction thesis option major also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of eight to twelve books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis adviser and/or the director of creative writing. The essay will be due at the end of the senior year, along with the thesis.

Admission to the poetry or fiction thesis option in creative writing is by application only. Admission will be decided by the creative writing faculty on completion by the student of at least one course in directed writing. The deadline for admission is at the end of April. Students are notified by the end of the spring examination period.

Recommendations for honors in the creative writing major will be made to the English department by the creative writing faculty, based on the student's work as exemplified by the senior thesis.

A student majoring in creative writing may double-major in English and American literature, or may minor in English, American, and Anglophone literature.

English and American Literature/Creative Writing Double Major

This major may be declared upon the completion of three courses in directed writing and of ENG 11a [Introduction to Literary Method]. Fourteen semester courses are required, fifteen if pursuing honors in literature or the poetry or fiction thesis option, including the following:

A. ENG 11a.

B. One course in foundational texts—ENG 10a or HUM 10a.
C. Three courses dealing primarily with literature in English written before 1850. All courses ending in a 2, 3, or 4 fulfill this requirement. Some courses ending in a 5 or 6 will fulfill this requirement. If you are in doubt, check with the professor or the undergraduate advising head.

D. One course in world Anglophone literature taught in the English language. For the purpose of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the undergraduate advising head or the director of creative writing.

Selected world literature courses ENG 77b, ENG 107a, ENG 111b, ENG 127b, ENG 197b. See cross-listed courses as well. Please note: ENG 10a and HUM 10a do not count as world literature courses for this major.

E. Three electives, which may include any course offered by faculty in the department. This requirement cannot be fulfilled by creative writing workshops.

F. An elective course in a studio or performing art.

G. A minimum of four semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): for example, ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 49a, ENG 79a, ENG 79b, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b, ENG 139b, THA 104a, or three semester courses in directed writing and one semester course as an independent study (ENG 98a or b) in the student’s senior year. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis with the exception of THA 104a. See “B” in the creative writing major description.

For those students pursuing the poetry or fiction thesis option, these requirements are as follows: a minimum of three semester courses in directed writing, plus two semesters of ENG 96d (Senior Creative Writing Thesis), in which the student will produce, under the direction of his or her adviser, a body of writing (usually a book of poems, a collection of stories, or a novel) of appropriate scope. The poetry or fiction thesis option also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of eight to twelve books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis adviser and/or the director of creative writing. The essay will be due at the end of the senior year. This option is by application only.

H. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted toward the major, of which only one may be a workshop. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad and cross-listed courses. Transfer students should see special notes section for information on transfer credits.

No course with a final grade below C– can count toward fulfilling requirements for the major in English and American literature. Advanced Placement credits do not count toward the double major.

Requirements for the Minor

Minor in English, American, and Anglophone Literature
Five courses are required, including the following:

A. ENG 11a (Introduction to Literary Methods).

B. Any four additional courses in the Department of English and American Literature, with the following exception: only one creative writing workshop may count toward the minor.

C. Advanced placement credits do not count toward the minor.

D. Transfer credits and cross-listed courses do not count toward the minor.

E. Students are encouraged to take courses on related topics, the undergraduate advising head can assist students in grouping courses appropriately. For instance, students may wish to take courses in one national literature: ENG 6a (American Literature in the Age of Lincoln), ENG 16a (Nineteenth-Century African-American Literature), ENG 7a (American Literature from 1900–2000), ENG 8a (Twenty-First-Century American Literature). Alternatively, students might elect to take a sequence of courses in a single genre: for example, ENG 63a (Renaissance Poetry), ENG 125a (Romanticism I), ENG 157a (Contemporary Poetry), and ENG 109a (Directed Writing: Poetry). Or, students might take courses clustered around a particular topic, such as gender: ENG 46a (Nineteenth-Century American Women Writers), ENG 107a (Caribbean Women Writers), ENG 114b (Gender and the Rise of the Novel in England and France), and ENG 131b (Feminist Theory). Students may also wish to select courses that concentrate on a particular historical period (such as the eighteenth century) or a methodological approach (such as postcolonial studies). These options are not exhaustive.

No course with a final grade below C– can count toward the requirements for the minor in English, American, and Anglophone literature.

Minor in Creative Writing
Five semester courses are required, including the following:

A. Three semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 79a, ENG 79b, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b, ENG 139b, THA 104a. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis, with the exception of THA 104a.

B. Two electives in the Department of English and American Literature.

C. Transfer credits, cross-listed courses, and Advanced Placement exam credits do not count toward the minor.

Creative Writing Major/English, American, and Anglophone Literature Minor
Thirteen courses are required, including the following:

A. ENG 11a, which should be taken as early as possible.

B. One course in foundational texts; either ENG 10a or HUM 10a.

C. One course in world Anglophone literature taught in the English language. For the purpose of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English outside the United States and England (for example, Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the director of creative writing.
Selected world literature courses: ENG 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 127b, 147b, 197b. See cross-listed courses as well. Please note: ENG 10a and HUM 10a do not count as world literature courses for this major.

D. An elective course in a studio or performing art.

E. A minimum of four semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): e.g., ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 79a, ENG 79b, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b, THA 104a, or three semester courses in directed writing and one semester course as an independent study [ENG 98a or b] in the student’s senior year. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. A student may take as many workshops as she or he might like, but two must be concluded before the beginning of the senior year. No more than one course in directed writing can be taken in any semester in the same genre. Two such courses may be taken in different genres. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis, with the exception of THA 104a.

For those students pursuing the poetry or fiction thesis option, the requirements are as follows: a minimum of three semester courses in directed writing, plus two semesters of ENG 96d (Senior Creative Writing Thesis), in which the student will produce, under the direction of his or her adviser, a body of writing (usually a book of poems, a collection of stories, or a novel) of appropriate scope. The poetry or fiction thesis option also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of eight to twelve books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis adviser and/or the director of creative writing. The essay will be due at the end of the senior year. This option is by application only.

F. Any five additional courses in the Department of English and American Literature, with the following exception: a fifth directed writing course can serve as one elective.

G. Advanced Placement exam credits do not count toward the major/minor.

H. For the literature minor, students are encouraged to take courses on related topics; the undergraduate advising head can assist students in grouping courses appropriately. For instance, students may wish to take courses in one national literature: ENG 6a [American Literature in the Age of Lincoln], ENG 16a [Nineteenth-Century African-American Literature], ENG 7a [American Literature from 1900–2000], ENG 8a [Twentieth-Century American Literature]. Students may also wish to select courses that concentrate on a particular historical period (such as the eighteenth century) or a methodological approach (such as postcolonial studies). These options are not exhaustive.

I. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted toward this major/minor, of which only one may be a workshop. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad, cross-listed courses, and transfer credits.

No course with a final grade below C– can count toward these requirements.

English and American Literature Major/Creative Writing Minor

Thirteen semester courses are required, including the following:

A. ENG 11a.

B. Three semester courses dealing primarily with literature in English written before 1850. All courses ending in 2, 3, or 4 fulfill this requirement, as well as certain courses ending in 5 or 6. For specific information about whether a particular course fulfills the pre-1850 requirement, please consult the instructor or the undergraduate advising head. A listing is provided below and is also available from the department’s main office:

Pre-1850 courses: ENG 3a, 4a, 23a, 33a, 40b, 43a, 44a, 46b, 50a, 53a, 63a, 64b, 103a, 104a, 114b, 115b, 122a, 123b, 124a, 125a, 125b, 132b, 133a, 134a, 135a, 142b, 143a, 144b, 145b, 152b, 173a, 174b.

C. One semester course in world literature (exclusive of the United States and England) from the list given below. For the purpose of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English in places outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Courses in foundational texts (ENG 10a or HUM 10a) or certain cross-listed courses also fulfill this requirement. Other courses may also be suitable, students with questions should consult the undergraduate advising head.

Selected world literature courses: ENG 10a, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 127b, 147b, 197b, HUM 10a. See cross-listed courses as well.

D. Three semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, 19b, 39a, 79a, 79b, 109a, 109b, 119a, 119b, 129a, 129b, THA 104a. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis, with the exception of THA 104a.

E. Five elective semester courses, which may include any course offered or cross-listed in the department, with the following exceptions: USEM, COMP, and UWS courses do not count toward the major/minor requirements in English and American literature. Cross-listed courses are considered to be outside the department and are subject to the restriction in (G) below. A fourth directed writing course can serve as one elective.

F. No course with a final grade below C– can count toward fulfilling the major/minor requirements in English and American literature.

G. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted toward this major/minor, of which only one may be a workshop. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad and cross-listed courses. Transfer students should see special notes section for information on transfer credits.

H. Advanced Placement exam credits do not count toward the major/minor.

Special Notes Relating to Undergraduates

Courses numbered 89 and 92 do not count toward requirements for any major or minor offered by the department.

This department participates in the European cultural studies major and, in general, its courses are open to ECS majors.

More detailed descriptions of the courses offered each semester will be available in the English and American literature department office.
The following policy is for students who transfer to Brandeis after one year or more at another postsecondary institution. Transfer credit toward the major: application for the use of transfer credit (awarded by the Office of the University Registrar) toward the major requirements must be accompanied by a Requirement Substitution Form and an External Transfer Credit Form. The student may be asked to provide a syllabus, a transcript of grades, and in some cases examples of written work for which credit is being sought. The number of major requirements that can be satisfied with transfer credit is at the discretion of the undergraduate advising committee but generally will follow these guidelines for the following tracks only: literature major, literature/creative writing double major, and the literature major/creative writing minor.

A student who transfers to Brandeis with sophomore standing can transfer up to two courses toward one of the aforementioned tracks.

A student who transfers to Brandeis with junior standing can transfer up to four courses toward one of the aforementioned tracks.

Requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts (Terminal Degree)

To earn the terminal Master of Arts in English [as distinct from the master’s in passing], students must complete the following requirements.

Course Requirement
Seven courses in the Department of English and American Literature, one of which will be ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study, taken in the fall term); at least three courses must be 200-level seminars. One course will be the Master’s Thesis [ENG 300a].

Residence Requirement
Students may enroll on a full or part-time basis. Students must complete the MA program within four years; the department strongly encourages MA students to complete the program within two years.

Language Requirement
A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European, classical Greek, or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis requirement.

Symposium Requirement
MA students will present a paper at the First-Year Symposium in the spring term.

Thesis Requirement
This project must be twenty-five to thirty-five pages long, and must be deposited electronically to the Robert D. Farber University Archives. Papers written for course work, papers presented at conferences, and papers written specifically for the MA degree are all acceptable. Each paper will be evaluated by a reader for whom the paper was not originally written. The paper must satisfy the reader’s standard for excellence in MA degree-level work.

Requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts [Earned in Passing, as Part of the PhD Program]

Students admitted to the doctoral program are eligible to apply for an MA degree in passing upon completion of the following requirements. (For information about the terminal MA in English, see above. For information about the joint degree of Master of Arts in English and American literature & women’s and gender studies, see below).

Course Requirement
Six courses, one of which will be ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study); two other courses must be 200-level seminars.

Residence Requirement
The minimum residence requirement is one year, though students with inadequate preparation may require more.

Language Requirement
A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European, classical Greek, or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis requirement.

Requirements for the Joint Degree of Master of Arts in English and American Literature & Women’s and Gender Studies

Program of Study
A. ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study).
B. WMGS 205a, the foundational course in women’s and gender studies. Under certain circumstances, an alternative course may be substituted for WMGS 205a. See adviser and women’s and gender studies program administrator for approval.
C. One course in feminist research methodologies (WMGS 198a or WMGS 200a), the foundational course in women’s and gender studies. Under certain circumstances, an alternative course may be substituted for WMGS 205a. See adviser and women’s and gender studies program administrator for approval.
D. Four additional courses in the English and American literature department selected from 100-level courses and graduate seminars (200-level courses). At least two of these courses must be at the 200 level. One of these four courses must be listed as an elective with the women’s and gender studies program.
E. One women’s and gender studies course in a department other than the English and American literature department.
F. Participation in a fall semester noncredit women’s and gender studies graduate seminar.
G. Language requirement: A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European or classical Greek or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis requirement.
H. First-year students must present a paper at the first-year symposium in the spring term.
I. Joint MA paper requirement: Completion of a master’s research paper of professional quality and length (normally twenty-five to forty pages) on a topic related to the joint degree. The paper will be read by two faculty members, at least one of whom is a member of the English and American literature department, and at least one of whom is a member of the women’s and gender studies core or affiliate faculty.
English and American Literature

Requirements for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy

Each student must complete three years in residence as a full-time student and a minimum of thirteen term courses. A student who comes to Brandeis with a BA degree is required to take thirteen courses for the PhD degree. A student who comes to Brandeis with an MA degree in English and American Literature may apply to the director of graduate studies, at the end of the first year of study, to transfer up to four graduate-level courses from the institution granting the MA. Of the nine additional courses required for the PhD degree, at least seven are normally taken within the department. The program reserves the right to require additional courses to assure thorough mastery of the area of study.

Program of Study: First-Year Students
First-year students normally take six courses in the English department. Each student (including those who entered with a master's degree) will take ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study) in the fall semester, this seminar includes attention to methods of analysis and research. In addition to satisfying these core requirements, each student will design a program of study in light of the strengths and weaknesses of his or her previous preparation and in accord with his or her own interests. First-year students are encouraged to meet with their faculty advisors to discuss curricular offerings, departmental expectations, and the nature of the academic career.

First-year students select other courses from departmental offerings at the 100 and 200 level, although at least two of these electives must be 200-level seminars. Any course taught at the Graduate Consortium in Women's Studies at Radcliffe College by a faculty member in the department, and approved by the department, shall be deemed the equivalent of a 200-level course within the English department for the purposes of meeting degree requirements. First-year students may apply to the director of graduate studies for permission to take courses offered in other departments at Brandeis, through the Graduate Consortium in Women's Studies at Radcliffe College, but not taught by a faculty member in the department, and approved by the department and GSAS.

Program of Study: Beyond the First Year
Students who come to Brandeis with a BA degree normally take two courses during each term of their second year and complete their course work during their third year. Students who come to Brandeis with a MA degree complete their course work during their third year. Students may apply to the director of graduate studies for permission to take courses offered in other departments at Brandeis, through the Graduate Consortium in Women's Studies at Radcliffe College, and through consortium arrangements with Boston College, Boston University, and Tufts University.

In their third year, students must generally pass a second foreign language examination if they have not done so earlier (see “Language Requirement” below). No later than the end of the third year, students should have prepared a reading list for the field examination and submitted it to a committee of three faculty members for approval. The examination must be taken no later than the first of November during the fourth year. The department encourages students to complete all requirements for the PhD, except the prospectus review and dissertation by the end of the third year.

Second- and third-year students continue to participate in monthly workshops on teaching and research methods and other career skills. Other workshops, targeted to third- and fourth-year students, focus on such topics as publication, the field exam, and the dissertation prospectus. The job placement officer offers annual workshops for doctoral candidates and recent graduates on the job search and serves as a mentor for job seekers. Advanced graduate students have opportunities to present their work to other scholars in their field by participating in various national and international conferences, for which some travel funds are available. Each year graduate students organize colloquia, at which they present their work, and invite faculty members to speak on their current research. In 2006, graduate students organized “Traffic,” the third Brandeis University Graduate Student Conference in English and American Literature, sponsored by the department and GSAS.

Teaching Requirements and Preparation
Teaching is a core requirement of the PhD program in English and American literature and is integral to the professional development of all graduate students. Training in teaching is provided through assistantships in department courses and participation in the Brandeis University Writing Program, which conducts instruction in the Brandeis Writing Center, and in a key first-year course, the University Writing Seminar (UWS). Together these programs train students in writing and rhetoric. UWS courses are topics courses in which instructors create their own syllabi.

During their years at Brandeis, doctoral candidates will participate in a broad range of instructional activities, all of which are preceded by extensive training. Many first- and second-year graduate students will start their professional instructional development when they receive training to serve as tutors in the Writing Center or in Brandeis’s large ESL program. All second-year graduate students take ENG 299b, a course in composition pedagogy offered by the director of university writing in the spring.

First-year graduate students have no teaching responsibilities; instead they devote themselves to course work. Teaching assignments after the first year vary according to the pedagogical needs of the individual student, the curricular needs of the department, and enrollments. In recent years, typical assignments have been as follows. Second-year students have had two teaching assignments, typically serving as a teaching fellow in two department courses, one each semester. Third- and fourth-year students have had two teaching assignments; typically, two sections of first-year writing, one each semester. Fifth-year students receiving Advanced Teaching Fellowships have had two teaching assignments, typically serving as an advanced fellow in a department course and teaching one section of writing. The university reserves the right to change these assignments as necessary.

Teaching fellows in department courses consult with the relevant professor before the beginning of the term to discuss the course and the precise nature of the fellow’s responsibilities. Faculty provide each teaching fellow with opportunities to deliver one or more lectures and/or hold discussion sections [lectures may be videotaped at student’s request], advice on grading practices, a written evaluation of her/his performance, and an exit interview. The department aims to expose each graduate student to a variety of pedagogical styles.
Teaching in first-year writing courses is supported by a two-day composition training session, regular staff meetings, and a program of workshops, invited lectures, and extensive classroom visits. As instructors of first-year writing courses, students have responsibility for creating syllabi, assigning and grading papers, holding office hours, lecturing, and leading discussions. All instructors receive formal letters of evaluation. With the Brandeis program of professional development, students are fully prepared to teach writing in any college setting.

Residence Requirement

The minimum residence requirement is two years beyond the master's degree or three years beyond the bachelor's degree.

Language Requirement

In addition to the first language requirement, the student must (1) demonstrate a reading knowledge of a second major foreign language; or (2) demonstrate an advanced competence in the first foreign language by taking a graduate-level literature course in a foreign language (not in translation) and writing the seminar paper using foreign language texts, or (3) take a graduate course, ordinarily a seminar, in a field closely related to research on the dissertation. Approval of the graduate committee must be sought before such a course is taken; the student must demonstrate the relevance of the proposed course to the dissertation. Students must have completed all language requirements in order to hold the dissertation prospectus conference and defense (see below) and establish candidacy.

Field Examination

All candidates for the PhD are required to pass an oral examination in the historical period in which the candidate expects to write a dissertation. This examination is taken no later than the first of November during the fourth year and must be passed by the unanimous vote of the committee members. Expectations for the field exam are published annually in the department brochure. At the discretion of the examiners, students taking the field exam may be asked to retake one portion of their exam. If a student is asked to retake a portion of the exam, the time frame for the second examination will be set by the examiners in consultation with the student.

Fourth-year students should allow sufficient time beyond the field exam to prepare a dissertation prospectus and hold the dissertation prospectus conference and defense (see below), which are necessary to establish eligibility in the annual competition for Advanced Teaching Fellowships in years when full stipends can be provided to only a limited number of fifth-year graduate students. The number of awards and deadline for applications are announced annually; in recent years, this deadline has required that students successfully pass the dissertation prospectus conference and defense by early April of their fourth year. The department encourages students to complete all requirements for the PhD, except the prospectus review and dissertation, by the end of the third year.

Dissertation Prospectus Conference and Defense

No later than six months after passing the field exam, and in time to establish eligibility in the annual competition for Advanced Teaching Fellowships, students must hold a prospectus conference and defense, which both first and second readers will attend. The prospectus must be signed by both readers in order to be approved by the department. The specific length and design of the prospectus will be agreed upon by the doctoral candidate and her/his first and second readers. A prospectus typically describes the topic, the questions to be explored, the method of research, and reasons for believing the dissertation will be an original contribution to knowledge. The student’s director and/or second reader may also require a chapter outline and/or bibliography.

Students who do not establish candidacy by completing course work and language requirements and by passing the field exam and dissertation prospectus conference and defense according to these deadlines will be placed on probation and will be ineligible to apply for an Advanced Teaching Fellowship. Students who do not demonstrate satisfactory progress during the probationary year will be withdrawn from the program.

Each student will submit a dissertation in a form approved by his/her dissertation director and by a committee appointed by the director of graduate studies. One member of this committee must be from a graduate department at Brandeis outside the Department of English and American Literature or from another university. The student will defend the dissertation at a final oral examination.

Readmission Criteria and Probation

Continuation in and the annual readmission to the doctoral program in English and American Literature depends upon showing suitable academic progress. Suitable academic progress is defined as follows. Students are expected to maintain an A– average. Students may take no more than two incompletes in any semester. All fall incompletes must be made up by the end of the following spring semester, and all spring incompletes must be made up by the end of the following fall semester. Students who require incompletes must apply for them from the relevant instructor in advance. Incompletes will not be automatically granted.

Full-time doctoral students are expected to complete course requirements and pass all language exams no later than the end of the third year, pass the field exam no later than November 1 during the fourth year, and present the dissertation proposal for review and approval by the first and second readers within six months of the field exam and in time to establish eligibility in the annual competition for Advanced Teaching Fellowships.

To qualify for ABD status, all doctoral students must satisfy the department’s requirements for training in teaching. Accordingly, all doctoral students will be given a variety of teaching assignments and will be expected to attend the pedagogical workshops offered by the director of writing and the director of graduate studies.

The department reviews each student’s progress toward the degree annually, at the end of the spring semester. Following this meeting, the director of graduate studies will notify any student not meeting departmental expectations that s/he must demonstrate satisfactory progress toward the degree by the end of the subsequent year. The student must meet with the director of graduate studies to review her/his standing in the program at the end of the fall semester during this probationary year. If the student fails to meet departmental expectations for progress toward the degree by the end of the probationary year, s/he will be withdrawn from the program.

Funding Opportunities for Advanced Graduate Students

In recent years, fourth-year graduate students who have completed all course and language requirements and passed the field exam and prospectus conference have been eligible to compete for Advanced Teaching Fellowships, which normally provide opportunities to work more closely with faculty members in the design and teaching of a course. Advanced Teaching Fellows receive full funding and are given two teaching assignments; fellows normally assist once in a department course and teach one section of first-year writing. Doctoral candidates who have passed the field exam may apply for University Prize Instructorships; these competitive awards allow recipients to design and teach their own courses. Students expecting to complete their dissertations in the next academic year may enter the university-wide competition for Dissertation Year Fellowships and the departmental competition for the Milton Hindu Endowed Dissertation Fellowship. Additional opportunities are available in the University Writing Center and in the program for teaching English as a second language.
Completion of Degree
Students entering the PhD program with a BA must earn the degree within eight years. Students entering the PhD program with an MA must earn the degree within seven years. A student requesting an extension must demonstrate significant progress toward completing the dissertation by submitting a prospectus (or equivalent, including a chapter outline) and at least one chapter to the student’s adviser. If the student’s adviser agrees to support the requested extension, the adviser will refer the case to the graduate committee for approval.

Mr. Sherman
ENG 19a Introduction to Creative Writing

| hum |
| Offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis. Students will be selected after the submission of a sample of writing, preferably four to seven pages. Samples should be submitted to the department office (Rabb 144) no later than two days before the first class meeting. A workshop for beginning writers. Practice and discussion of short literary and oral forms: lyric, poetry, the short story, tales, curses, spells. Usually offered every year. Ms. Broumas or Ms. Campbell |

ENG 19b The Autobiographical Imagination

| hum wi |
| Offered exclusively on a credit/no credit basis. Students will be selected after the submission of a sample of writing, preferably four to seven pages. Samples should be submitted to the department office (Rabb 144) no later than two days before the first class meeting. Combines the study of contemporary autobiographical prose and poetry with intense writing practice arising from these texts. Examines—as writers—what it means to construct the story of one’s life, and ways in which lies, metaphor, and imagination transform memory to reveal and conceal the self. Usually offered every second year. Ms. Broumas |

ENG 20a Bollywood: Popular Film, Genre, and Society

| hum nw |
| An introduction to popular Hindi cinema through a survey of the most important Bollywood films from the 1950s until today. Topics include melodrama, song and dance, love and sex, stardom, nationalism, religion, diasporic migration, and globalization. Usually offered every third year. Ms. Anjaria |

ENG 21a Adolescent Literature from Grimm to Voldemort

| hum |
| Literature for adolescents can’t afford any self-indulgences: its audience is too impatient. So it’s a great place to see what’s essential to storytelling. Authors include Shelley, Twain, Salinger, Pullman, and Rowling, whom we’ll use to test basic narrative theory. Usually offered every second year. Mr. Flesch |

ENG 23a Domains of Seventeenth-Century Performance

| hum |
| Seventeenth-century London performance investigated through the domains of its production—the court, the city, and the emerging “town,” center of a new leisure class. Drama, masques, and music drama studied as modes of representation negotiating class mobility, changing concepts of state authority and personal identity, and shifts in gender and sexual relations. Mr. King |

ENG 23b Classic Hollywood Cinema

| hum |
| A critical examination of the history of mainstream U.S. cinema from the 1930s to the present. Focuses on major developments in film content and form, the rise and fall of the studio and star system, the changing nature of spectatorship, and the social context of film production and reception. Usually offered every second year. Mr. Morrison |

ENG 23c Modern Drama

| hum |
| An intensive study of British, U.S., and European drama of the last hundred years. Topics include new definitions of tragedy, changing sex/gender roles and the stage, the well-made play, the “angry” play, theater of the absurd. Usually offered every fourth year. Mr. King |

ENG 25b Staging the Novel: Reading and Writing Adaptations

| hum wi |
| Examines novels by Scott, Bronte, and Dickens alongside contemporary stage and modern film adaptations to explore the phenomenon of adaptation. As a final project, students write an original state adaptation to be performed at the end of the semester. Special one-time offering, fall 2008. Mr. Flesch or Ms. Targoff |

ENG 27a Page, Stage, and Screen

| hum |
| Addresses the relation of form to content, or medium to message, within and among three different genres: novel, drama, and film. Investigates: What modes of human subjectivity and sensory perception does each genre presuppose and promote? Why? What values can and cannot be expressed in any given genre? Why do certain genres achieve cultural dominance while others become residual? Usually offered every third year. Ms. Whelan |

ENG 27b Classic Hollywood Cinema

| hum |
| A study of twentieth-century American cinema. From nine to twelve plays will be read, representing all periods of Shakespeare's dramatic career. Usually offered every year. Mr. Flesch or Ms. Holm |

ENG 30a Twentieth-Century American Comic Novel

| hum |
| A survey of twentieth-century American novels in which comedy is used to grapple with serious literary and social issues. Special one-time offering, fall 2008. Mr. McCauley |

ENG 31a Postimperial Fictions

| hum |
| In what ways, and for what purposes, has postcolonial Britain sought imaginatively to recreate its imperial past? Discusses recent literary and cinematic representations of empire, in which critique, fascination, and nostalgia are, often problematically, blended. Authors include Paul Scott, Rushdie, Ishiguro, and Zadie Smith. Usually offered every fourth year. Staff |

ENG 32b Queer Readings: Before Stonewall

| hum |
| Students read texts as artifacts of social beliefs, desires, and anxieties about sexed bodies and their pleasures. Readings may include Plato, Virgil, Spenser, Marlowe, Shakespeare, Phillips, Behn, Gray, Tennison, Lister, Whitman, Dickinson, Wilde, Freud, Woolf, Barnes, Stein, Larsen, Genet, and Baldwin. Usually offered every second year. Mr. King |

ENG 33a Shakespeare

Usually offered every third year. Mr. Burt

ENG 237a Reading the Black Transnation
Fiction, theory, film of what is variously termed the African Diaspora or the Black Atlantic. Acquaints students with major and lesser-known figures, concepts, and strategies. Usually offered every third year. Ms. Smith

ENG 237b The Worlds of Twentieth-Century American Fiction
An exploration of the world views of major twentieth-century American novelists. Charts the geopolitical and ecological underpinnings of their foremost writings and how contemporary global or transnational concerns emerged in American letters. Special one-time offering, fall 2008. Ms. Irr

ENG 240b The Ethics of Representation in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century Fiction
Examining exemplary works of nineteenth- and twentieth-century fiction, the class studies the ways in which narrative construction [plotting, rhetoric, narrative voice, ideological motivation] represent personal and social reality. Raises questions about the relationship between the real and the ethical, between what is and what ought to be, and how our own ethical concerns complicate our understanding of the novels we read. Usually offered every third year. Mr. Morrison

ENG 243b Renaissance Tragedy
This course examines the genre of tragedy in the English Renaissance. Readings include plays by Marlowe, Kyd, Shakespeare, Tourneur, Jonson, Middleton, Webster, philosophical texts by Aristotle, Nietzsche, and Benjamin, among others. Usually offered every second year. Ms. Targoff
