Planned Agenda:

- Update on the response team's recent attendance at the Prevention Innovations Consortium Conference at the University of New Hampshire
- Next Steps for Prevention Efforts
- Update from the Faculty Senate meeting

Sheila McMahon reviewed the work done at the recent Consortium Conference hosted by Prevention Innovations at UNH. Sheila then led the committee through a review of campus prevention efforts using the framework of the ecological model which considers the interactions of four factors: macros/policy, community, interpersonal, and individual. Using this framework, the committee worked to identify the areas where we have made progress and the areas in which there are gaps. In collaboration with the experts at Prevention Innovations, it was decided that we would work with them to develop a research based long range prevention plan. Sheila planned to provide more information on this effort at a future meeting.

Due to limited time remaining, Kim Godsoe and Bernadette Brooten were not able to give a full report of their meeting with the Faculty Senate but agreed to share updates at a future time.
