

Anna-Katharina Höpflinger

PD Dr. Anna-Katharina Höpflinger is a research and teaching assistant at the Ludwig-Maximilians-University in Munich (Germany). After completing her Ph.D in the Study of Religion at the University of Zurich (Switzerland), she has developed different research projects in the field of media and religion, particularly focusing on the body, clothing, and gender. She is also interested in religions in the ancient world and in European history, in Heavy Metal and religion, and in charnel-chapels.

For more information:

<http://media-religion.org/e/team/hoepflinger.htm>