

Dan Moffat

Dan Moffat is an audio engineer, musician, and journalist with the online music blog Allston Pudding. He has played in bands ranging from steampunk to indie bedroom pop, and has recorded everything from classical piano and violin duets to punk and metal. His current musical endeavors are released under the name The Collect Pond. For Allston Pudding, he developed an interview style that interweaves an in-depth look at an artist's music video with a conversation with the artist about method, music, and meaning.