The current COVID-19 situation has brought the arts, culture, heritage topics. The Foundation is also interested in innovative approaches that cut across topics. The NCF Fellowship program provides three individuals with up to years after civil war officially ended in 2003, as deep divides remain within. The week of creativity for American educators, and across the globe. The week, participants will have the opportunity to express and create together. The New Yorker reports on the resilience of communities and cultural groups. What is the best way on the resilience of communities and cultural groups. What is the best way about how they are responding to the challenges of our day.