

December Update to the Full Brandeis Faculty

Dear Colleagues,

This is a quick note to let you know that the Faculty Governance Task Force is hard at work on our final paper for the fall semester. Rather than making formal recommendations at this time, we will be updating you on our thinking and asking that you join with us, tell us what we are missing, and point out places in our thinking that you do not think are clear or will not be effective in practice. We will send out that paper in mid-January following which we would like to attend meetings with department chairs, Divisions, Schools, the Faculty Senate, and a range of other faculty during January and February. We will listen to your feedback during this time and use it to draft more formal recommendations to bring back to the faculty later in 2018. As always, please be in touch with comments or suggestions.

with thanks,
