Policy on Classified Work
(Effective August 20, 2019)

No classified work may be undertaken in the name of Brandeis University or using University facilities or resources, and the University will not, as a matter of policy, accept any contracts or grants for the support of classified work. For this policy, “classified” is a specific designation applied by an agency of the federal government to scientific and technical information. Classified work is work that uses or produces classified information.
