Objectives

Undergraduate Major in English and American Literature

The English major is designed to train students in the analysis of literary texts and to introduce them to the various literary and cultural traditions that influence creative work in the English language.

Undergraduate Major in Creative Writing

The major in creative writing is designed to help students explore and develop their creative writing and understanding of literary and cultural traditions.

Graduate Program in English and American Literature

The Graduate Program in English and American Literature is designed to offer training in the interpretation and evaluation of literary texts in their historical and cultural contexts.

How to Become an Undergraduate Major

Literature

There are no prerequisites for declaring the English major, and students may declare the major at any time. Prospective majors are encouraged to take two or three courses in the department in their first and second years. ENG 11a (Introduction to Literary Method) focuses on the basic skills needed for studying literature and is required for the major. Courses with numbers below 100 are especially suitable for beginning students.

Creative Writing

Students interested in the Creative Writing Program should consult the pamphlet, Creative Writing at Brandeis, obtainable from the main office of the department. The pamphlet is also available at www.brandeis.edu/departments/english/creativewriting_brochure.

How to Be Admitted to the Graduate Program

Candidates for admission should have a bachelor's degree, preferably with a major in English and American literature, and a reading knowledge of French, Italian, Spanish, German, Greek, or Latin. They are required to submit a sample of their critical writing not to exceed 35 pages; the 35-page maximum may consist of a single critical essay or two shorter essays of approximately equal length. All applicants are required to submit scores on the Graduate Record Examination Verbal Aptitude Test. The GRE Advanced Test in Literature is also required for Ph.D. applicants and recommended for terminal M.A. and joint M.A. applicants. The general requirements for admission to the Graduate School, as specified in an earlier section of this Bulletin, apply to candidates for admission to this area of study.

Course Numbers

Except for courses in the 90-99 range, English department courses are numbered systematically. The final digit for any course number identifies the subject, as follows:

- 0 - Courses in a literary genre
- 1 - Courses in literary theory and literary criticism
- 2 - Medieval British literature (roughly before 1500)
- 3 - Renaissance British literature (circa 1500-1660)
- 4 - Restoration/18th-century British literature
- 5 - 19th-century British literature
- 6 - 19th-century American literature
- 7 - 20th-century literature
- 8 - Miscellaneous literary subjects
- 9 - Writing courses

Requirements for the Undergraduate Major

Literature Major

- A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a.
 - B. Three semester courses dealing primarily with literature in English written before 1850. All courses ending in 2, 3, or 4 fulfill this requirement, as well as certain courses ending in 5 or 6. For specific information about whether a particular course fulfills the pre-1850 requirement please consult the instructor or the undergraduate advising head. A listing is provided below and is also available from the department's main office.
- Pre-1850 courses: ENG 3a, 4a, 23a, 28b, 33a, 43a, 44a, 53a, 63a, 64b, 103a, 104a, 114b, 115b, 122a, 124a, 125a, 125b, 132b, 133a, 134a, 142b, 143a, 144b, 152b, 173a, 174b.
- The following courses usually fulfill the pre-1850 requirement, however, students must check with the instructor and the undergraduate advising head for final approval: ENG 105a, 105b.
- C. One semester course in world literature (exclusive of the United States and England) from the list given below. For the purposes of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English in places outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Courses in foundational texts (ENG 10a or HUM 10a) or certain cross-listed courses also fulfill this requirement. Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the undergraduate advising head.

Selected world literature courses: ENG 10a, 17b, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 147b, 197b, HUM 10a. See cross listed courses as well.

- D. Four elective semester courses, which may include any course offered, or cross-listed, in the department, with the following exceptions: no more than one creative writing workshop may be counted as an elective; USEM, COMP, and UWS courses do not count toward the major requirements in English and American literature. Cross-listed courses are considered to be outside the department and are subject to the restriction in (F) below.
- E. No course with a final grade below C- can count toward fulfilling the major requirements in English and American literature.

F. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted toward the major. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad, cross-listed courses, and transfer credits.

G. Advanced Placement credits do not count toward the major.

Honors Track: Consideration for graduation with honors in English requires a GPA of 3.50 or higher in courses counting toward the major, and satisfactory completion of a senior honors essay (one-semester ENG 99a or 99b), which counts as a tenth course. In rare cases, students may elect instead to complete the senior honors thesis (two-semesters ENG 99d). To write an honors essay or thesis, students must arrange to be advised by a faculty member in the department who has agreed to direct the essay or thesis. The undergraduate advising head can assist students in finding appropriate directors. Departmental honors are awarded on the basis of excellence in all courses taken in the department, including the senior essay or thesis, as determined by the department faculty. Students in the creative writing major who complete ENG 96d will be considered to have completed a senior honors thesis.

A student majoring in literature may double-major or minor in creative writing.

Creative Writing Major

This major may be declared upon the completion of three courses in directed writing and of ENG 11a (Literary Method). Ten semester courses are required, including the following:

- A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a, which should be taken as early as possible.
- B. Four semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b, THA 104a; one of these courses may be fulfilled by an independent study (ENG 98a or b) in the student's senior year. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. A student may take as many workshops as she or he might like, but two must be concluded before the beginning of the senior year. No more than one course in directed writing can be taken in any semester in the same genre. Two such courses may be taken in different genres. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a Credit/No Credit basis with the exception of THA 104a. All directed writing courses are by instructor's signature and require a manuscript submission. Majors cannot be guaranteed entry to such courses outside the selection process of each.
- C. One course in foundational texts, either ENG 10a or HUM 10a.
- D. One course in world Anglophone literature taught in the English language. For the purpose of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the director of creative writing.

Selected world literature courses: ENG 17b, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 147b, 197b, AAAS 133b. See cross-listed courses as well. Please note: ENG 10a and HUM 10a do not count as world literature courses for this major.

- E. Two English electives.
- F. An elective course in a studio or performing art.
- G. Advanced placement credits do not count toward the major.
- H. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted towards the major, of which only one may be a workshop. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad, cross-listed courses, and transfer credits.
- I. No course with a final grade below C- can count toward fulfilling the major requirements in creative writing.

Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option: Eleven semester courses are required. The directed writing requirement is reduced to a minimum of three semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 109A, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, ENG 129b, THA 104a, and the satisfactory completion of two semesters of Senior Creative Writing Thesis (ENG 96d) is added:

ENG 96d (Senior Creative Writing Thesis). The student will produce, under the direction of his or her advisor, a body of writing (usually a book of poems, collection of stories, or a novel) of appropriate scope (two semesters). The Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option major also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of 8-12 books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis advisor and/or the director of creative writing. The essay will be due at the end of the senior year, along with the thesis.

Admission to the Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option in Creative Writing is by application only. Admission will be decided by the creative writing faculty on completion by the student of at least one course in directed writing. The deadline for admission is at the end of April. Students are notified by the end of the spring examination period.

Recommendations for honors in the creative writing major will be made to the English department by the creative writing faculty, based on the student's work as exemplified by the senior thesis.

A student majoring in creative writing may double-major in English and American literature, or may minor in English, American, and Anglophone literature.

English and American Literature/Creative Writing Double Major
This major may be declared upon the completion of three courses in directed writing and of ENG 11a (Literary Method). 14 semester courses are required, 15 if pursuing honors in literature or the Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option, including the following:

- A. A semester course in literary methods (ENG 11a).
- B. One course in foundational texts; either ENG 10a or HUM 10a.
- C. Three courses dealing primarily with literature in English written before 1850. All courses ending in a 2, 3, or 4 fulfill this requirement. Some courses ending in a 5 or 6 will fulfill this requirement. If you are in doubt, check with the professor or the undergraduate advising head.
- D. One course in world Anglophone literature taught in the English language. For the purpose of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the undergraduate advising head or the director of creative writing.

Selected world literature courses ENG 17b, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127b, 197b. See cross-listed courses as well. Please note: ENG 10a and HUM 10a do not count as world literature courses for this major.

- E. Three electives, which may include any course offered by faculty in the department. This requirement cannot be fulfilled by creative writing workshops.
- F. An elective course in a studio or performing art.

G. A minimum of four semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): e.g., ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, THA 104a, or three semester courses in directed writing and one semester course as an independent study (ENG 98a or b) in the student's senior year. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a Credit/No Credit basis with the exception of THA 104a.

For those students pursuing the Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option, these requirements are as follows: a minimum of three semester courses in directed writing, plus two semesters of ENG 96d (Senior Creative Writing Thesis), in which the student will produce, under the direction of his or her advisor, a body of writing (usually a book of poems, a collection of stories, or a novel) of appropriate scope. The Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of 8-12 books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis advisor and/or the director of creative writing. The essay will be due at the end of the senior year.

H. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted towards the major, of which only one may be a workshop. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad, cross-listed courses, and transfer credits.

No course with a final grade below C- can count toward fulfilling requirements for the major in English and American literature. Advanced Placement credits do not count toward the double major.

Requirements for the Undergraduate Minor

Minor in English, American, and Anglophone Literature

Five courses are required, including the following:

- A. ENG 11a (Introduction to Literary Methods).
- B. Any four additional courses in the Department of English and American Literature, with the following exception: only one creative writing workshop may count toward the minor.
- C. Advanced placement credits do not count toward the minor.
- D. Transfer credits and cross-listed courses do not count toward the minor.
- E. Students are encouraged to take courses on related topics; the undergraduate advising head can assist students in grouping courses appropriately. For instance, students may wish to take courses in one national literature: ENG 6a (American Literature from 1832 to 1900), ENG 16a (19th-Century African-American Literature), ENG 7a (American Literature, 1900-2000), ENG 8a (21st-Century American Literature). Alternatively, students might elect to take a sequence of courses in a single genre: e.g., ENG 63a (Renaissance Poetry), ENG 125a (Romanticism I), ENG 157a (Contemporary Poetry), and ENG 109a (Directed Writing: Poetry). Or, students might take courses clustered around a particular topic, such as gender: ENG 46a (19th-Century American Women Writers), ENG 107 (Caribbean Women Writers), ENG 114b (Gender and the Rise of the Novel in England and France), and ENG 131b (Feminist Theory). Students may also wish to select courses that concentrate on a particular historical period (such as the 18th century) or a methodological approach (such as postcolonial studies). These options are not exhaustive.

No course with a final grade below C- can count toward the requirements for the minor in English literature.

Minor in Creative Writing

Five semester courses are required, including the following:

A. Three semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, Eng 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, Eng 129b, THA 104a. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a Credit/No Credit basis with the exception of THA 104a.

B. Two electives in the Department of English and American Literature.

C. Transfer credits and cross-listed courses do not count toward the minor.

Creative Writing Major/English, American, and Anglophone Literature Minor

13 courses are required, including the following:

A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a, which should be taken as early as possible.

B. One course in foundational texts; either ENG 10a or HUM 10a.

C. One course in world Anglophone literature taught in the English language. For the purpose of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the director of creative writing.

Selected world literature courses: ENG 17b, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 147b, 197b. See cross-listed courses as well. Please note: ENG 10a and HUM 10a do not count as world literature courses for this major.

D. An elective course in a studio or performing art.

E. A minimum of four semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): e.g. ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, ENG 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, THA 104a, or three semester courses in directed writing and one semester course as an independent study (ENG 98a or b) in the student's senior year. At least one course in directed writing must be completed before the end of the sophomore year. A student may take as many workshops as she or he might like, but two must be concluded before the beginning of the senior year. No more than one course in directed writing can be taken in any semester in the same genre. Two such courses may be taken in different genres. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community, and are offered exclusively on a Credit/No Credit basis with the exception of THA 104a.

For those students pursuing the Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option, these requirements are as follows: a minimum of three semester courses in directed writing, plus two semesters of ENG 96d (Senior Creative Writing Thesis), in which the student will produce, under the direction of his or her advisor, a body of writing (usually a book of poems, a collection of stories, or a novel) of appropriate scope. The Poetry or Fiction Thesis Option also requires an essay on a tutorial bibliography: a list of 8-12 books, chosen by the candidate in collaboration with the thesis advisor and/or the director of creative writing. The essay will be due at the end of the senior year.

F. Any five additional courses in the Department of English and American Literature, with the following exception: a fifth directed writing course can serve as one elective.

G. Advanced placement credits do not count toward the major/minor.

H. For the literature minor, students are encouraged to take courses on related topics; the undergraduate advising head can assist students in grouping courses appropriately. For instance, students may wish to take courses in one national literature: ENG 6a (American Literature from 1832 to 1900), ENG 16a (19th-Century African-American Literature), ENG 7a (American Literature, 1900-2000), ENG 8a (21st-Century American Literature). Alternatively, students might elect to take a sequence of courses in a single genre: e.g., ENG 63a (Renaissance Poetry), ENG 25a Romanticism I (Blake, Wordsworth, and Coleridge), ENG 157a (Contemporary Poetry), and ENG 109a (Directed Writing: Poetry). Or, students might take courses clustered around a particular topic, such as gender: ENG 46a (19th-Century American Women Writers), ENG 107a (Caribbean Women Writers), ENG 114b (Gender and the Rise of the Novel in England and France), and ENG 131b (Feminist Theory). Students may also wish to select courses that concentrate on a particular historical period (such as the 18th century) or a methodological approach (such as postcolonial studies). These options are not exhaustive.

I. A maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted toward this major/minor, of which only one may be a workshop. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad, cross-listed courses, and transfer credits.

No course with a final grade below C- can count toward these requirements.

English and American Literature Major/Creative Writing Minor

A. A semester course in literary method, ENG 11a.

B. Three semester courses dealing primarily with literature in English written before 1850. All courses ending in 2, 3, or 4 fulfill this requirement, as well as certain courses ending in 5 or 6. For specific information about whether a particular course fulfills the pre-1850 requirement please consult the instructor or the undergraduate advising head. A listing is provided below and is also available from the department's main office.

Pre-1850 courses: ENG 3a, 4a, 23a, 28b, 33a, 43a, 44a, 53a, 63a, 64b, 103a, 104a, 114b, 115b, 122a, 124a, 125a, 125b, 132b, 133a, 134a, 142b, 143a, 144b, 152b, 173a, 174b.

The following courses usually fulfill the pre-1850 requirement; however, students must check with the instructor and the undergraduate advising head for final approval: ENG 105a, 105b.

C. One semester course in world literature (exclusive of the United States and England) from the list given below. For the purposes of this requirement, world literature includes literature written in English in places outside the United States and England (e.g., Irish, Canadian, Australian, Indian, African, or Caribbean literature). Courses in foundational texts (ENG 10a or HUM 10a) or certain cross-listed courses also fulfill this requirement. Other courses may also be suitable; students with questions should consult the undergraduate advising head.

Selected world literature courses: ENG 10a, 17b, 77b, 107a, 111b, 127a, 147b, 197b, HUM 10a. See cross-listed courses as well.

D. Three semester courses in directed writing (poetry, prose, or both): ENG 19a, ENG 19b, ENG 39a, ENG 109a, ENG 109b, Eng 119a, ENG 119b, ENG 129a, Eng 129b, THA 104a. Such courses facilitate writing under direction in a creative and critical community and are offered exclusively on a Credit/No Credit basis with the exception of THA 104a.

E. Five elective semester courses, which may include any course offered or cross-listed in the department, with the following exceptions: USEM, COMP, and UWS courses do not count toward the major/minor requirements in English and American literature. Cross-listed courses are considered to be outside the department and are subject to the restriction in (G) below. A fourth directed writing course can serve as one elective.

F. No course with a final grade below C- can count toward fulfilling the major/minor requirements in English and American literature.

G. Maximum of three courses taught by persons other than members of the faculty of the English and American literature department may be counted toward this major/minor, of which only one may be a workshop. This restriction includes courses taken while studying abroad, cross-listed courses, and transfer credits.

H. Advanced Placement credits do not count toward the major/minor.

Special Notes Relating to Undergraduates

This department participates in the European cultural studies major and, in general, its courses are open to ECS majors.

Transfer credit toward the major: Application for the use of transfer credit (awarded by the Office of the University Registrar) toward the major requirements must be accompanied by a Requirement Substitution Form provided by the English and American literature department office. The student may be asked to provide a syllabus, a transcript of grades, and in some cases examples of written work for which credit is being sought. The number of major requirements that can be satisfied with transfer credit is at the discretion of the undergraduate advising committee.

More detailed descriptions of the courses offered each semester will be available in the English and American literature department office.

Requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts (terminal degree)

To earn the terminal Master of Arts in English (as distinct from the master's in passing), students must complete the following requirements.

Course Requirement

Seven courses in the Department of English and American Literature, one of which will be ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study, taken in the fall term); at least three courses, beyond ENG 200a, must be 200-level seminars. One course will be the Master's Thesis (ENG 300a).

Residence Requirement

Students may enroll on a full or part-time basis. Students must complete the M.A. program within four years; the department strongly encourages M.A. students to complete the program within two years.

Language Requirement

A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European, classical Greek, or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis requirement.

Symposium Requirement

M.A. students will present a paper at the First Year Symposium in the spring term.

Thesis Requirement

This project must be 25 to 35 pages long. Papers written for course work, papers presented at conferences, and papers written specifically for the M.A. degree are all acceptable. Each paper will be evaluated by a reader for whom the paper was not originally written. The paper must satisfy the reader's standard for excellence in M.A. degree-level work.

Requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts (earned in passing, as part of the Ph.D. Program)

Students admitted to the doctoral program are eligible to apply for an M.A. degree in passing upon completion of the following requirements. (For information about the terminal M.A. in English, see above. For information about the joint degree of Master of Arts in English and American literature & women's and gender studies, see below).

Course Requirement

Six courses, one of which will be ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study); two other courses must be 200-level seminars.

Residence Requirement

The minimum residence requirement is one year, though students with inadequate preparation may require more.

Language Requirement

A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European, classical Greek, or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis requirement.

Requirements for the Joint Degree of Master of Arts in English and American Literature & Women's and Gender Studies

The English department offers a joint Master of Arts program that integrates the study of women's experiences and gender roles with the English and American literature courses of study. Students will be expected to complete the course work in three semesters and may take another semester to complete a master's project. This joint program may be a terminal degree or may be earned as part of the Ph.D. program. The joint M.A. is for full-time students only.

Course Requirement

ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study); WMGS 205a, or a foundational course alternative; WMGS 198a, or the Feminist Inquiry course offered through the graduate consortium in women's studies, or a feminist research methodologies course alternative; four additional courses in the English department selected from 100-level courses and graduate seminars (200-level courses), at least two of which must be at the 200 level, and one of which must be listed as an elective with the Women's and Gender Studies Program; one cross-listed women's and gender studies course in a department other than the English department; one course in feminist research methods; participation in a noncredit Women's and Gender Studies Graduate Proseminar during the fall semester of the first year in the program (prior to taking WMGS 205a in the spring); this proseminar is open to but not required for continuing students as well; presentation of a paper at the First Year Symposium in the spring term; a thesis of 25 to 35 pages; completion of the language requirement.

Language Requirement

A reading knowledge of a major foreign language (normally modern European, classical Greek, or Latin) must be demonstrated by passing a written translation examination. The completion of the language requirement at another university does not exempt the student from the Brandeis requirement.

Requirements for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy

Each student must complete three years in residence as a full-time student and minimum of 12 term courses. A student who comes to Brandeis with a B.A. degree is required to take 12 courses for the Ph.D. degree. A student who comes to Brandeis with an M.A. degree in English and American Literature may apply to the director of graduate studies, at the end of the first year of study, to transfer up to four graduate-level courses from the institution granting the M.A. Of the eight additional courses required for the Ph.D. degree, at least six are normally taken within the department. The program reserves the right to require additional courses to assure thorough mastery of the area of study.

Program of Study: First-Year Students

First-year students normally take six courses in the English department. Each student (including those who entered with a master's degree) will take ENG 200a (Methods of Literary Study) in the fall semester; this seminar includes attention to methods of analysis and research. Each student must complete a series of workshops in the teaching of writing. In addition to satisfying these core requirements, each student will design a program of study in light of the strengths and weaknesses of his or her previous preparation and in accord with his or her own interests. First-year students are encouraged to meet with their faculty advisors to discuss curricular offerings, departmental expectations, and the nature of the academic career.

First-year students select other courses from departmental offerings at the 100 and 200 level, although at least two of these electives must be 200-level seminars. Any course taught at the Graduate Consortium in Women's Studies at Radcliffe College by a faculty member in the department, and approved by the department, shall be deemed the equivalent of a 200-level course within the English department for the purposes of meeting degree requirements. First-year students may apply to the director of graduate studies for permission to take courses offered in other departments at Brandeis and by the Graduate Consortium in Women's Studies at Radcliffe College, but not taught by department faculty members, and through consortium arrangements with Boston College, Boston University, and Tufts University.

First-year students attend departmental events, such as guest lectures, and participate in monthly workshops on teaching and research methods and other career skills. At the annual First Year Symposium, held in the spring, the first-year students present a paper to an audience of graduate students and faculty. First-year students should demonstrate reading knowledge of a major foreign language by passing a written translation examination. (See "Language Requirements.") The department meets at the end of every academic year to discuss the progress of its graduate students, particularly first- and second-year students. (See "Readmissions Criteria and Probation.")

Program of Study: Beyond the First Year

Students who come to Brandeis with a B.A. degree normally take two courses during each term of their second year and complete their coursework during their third year. Students who come with a M.A. degree complete their coursework during their second year. Students are encouraged to take or audit additional courses during their third year. Students have an obligation to review their preparation in the field with their advisors and to ensure that they are acquiring a comprehensive knowledge of the various historical periods and genres of English and American literature and a deeper knowledge of the particular period or field they propose to offer as a specialty. In addition to choosing courses within the department, students may take courses offered in other departments at Brandeis, through the Graduate Consortium in Women's Studies at Radcliffe College, and through consortium arrangements with Boston College, Boston University, and Tufts University.

In their third year, students must generally pass a second foreign language examination if they have not done so earlier (see "Language Requirement" below). No later than the end of the third year students should have prepared a reading list for the field examination and submitted it to a committee of three faculty members for approval. The examination must be taken no later than the first of November during the fourth year. The department encourages students to complete all requirements for the Ph.D. except the prospectus review and dissertation by the end of the third year.

Second- and third-year students continue to participate in monthly workshops on teaching and research methods and other career skills. Other workshops, targeted to third- and fourth-year students, focus on such topics as publication, the field exam, and the dissertation prospectus. The job placement officer offers annual workshops for doctoral candidates and recent graduates on the job search and serves as a mentor for job seekers. Advanced graduate students have opportunities to present their work to other scholars in their field by participating in various national and international conferences, for which some travel funds are available. Each year graduate students organize colloquia, at which they present their work, and invite faculty members to speak on their current research. In 2005, graduate students organized "Reimagining Power," the second Brandeis University Graduate Student Conference in English and American Literature, sponsored by the department and GSAS.

Teaching Requirements and Preparation

Teaching is a core requirement of the Ph.D. program in English and American Literature and is integral to the professional development of all graduate students. Training in teaching is provided through assistantships in department courses and participation in the Brandeis University Writing Program, which conducts instruction in the Brandeis Writing Center, and in two key first-year courses, the University Writing Seminars (UWS) and the University Seminars in Humanistic Inquiry (USEM). Together these programs train students in writing and rhetoric. Both UWS and USEM are topics courses in which instructors create their own syllabi.

During their years at Brandeis, doctoral candidates will participate in a broad range of instructional activities, all of which are preceded by extensive training. Many first- and second-year graduate students will start their professional instructional development when they receive training to serve as tutors in the Writing Center or in Brandeis's large ESL program. All first-year graduate students take ENG 299, an intensive six-week training course in composition pedagogy offered by the director of university writing every term.

First-year graduate students have no teaching responsibilities; instead they devote themselves to coursework. Teaching assignments after the first year vary according to the pedagogical needs of the individual student, the curricular needs of the department, and enrollments. In recent years, typical assignments have been as follows. Second-year students have had two teaching assignments, typically serving as a teaching fellow in two department courses, one each semester. Third-year and fourth-year students have had two teaching assignments, typically two sections of first-year writing, one each semester. Fifth-year students receiving Advanced Teaching Fellowships have had two teaching assignments, typically serving as an advanced fellow in a department course and teaching one section of writing. The University reserves the right to change these assignments as necessary.

Teaching fellows in department courses consult with the relevant professor before the beginning of the term to discuss the course and the precise nature of the fellow's responsibilities. Faculty provide each teaching fellow with opportunities to deliver one or more lectures and/or hold discussion sections (lectures may be videotaped at student's request), advice on grading practices, a written evaluation of her/his performance, and an exit interview. The department aims to expose each graduate student to a variety of pedagogical styles.

Teaching in first-year writing courses is supported by a two-day Composition Training Session, regular staff meetings, and a program of workshops, invited lectures, and extensive classroom visits. As instructors of first-year writing courses, students have responsibility for creating syllabi, assigning and grading papers, holding office hours, lecturing, and leading discussions. All instructors receive formal letters of evaluation. With the Brandeis program of professional development, students are fully prepared to teach writing in any college setting.

Residence Requirement

The minimum residence requirement is two years beyond the master's degree or three years beyond the bachelor's degree.

Language Requirement

In addition to the first language requirement, the student must (1) demonstrate a reading knowledge of a second major foreign language; or (2) demonstrate an advanced competence in the first foreign language and a knowledge of its literature; or (3) take a graduate course, ordinarily a seminar, in a field closely related to research on the dissertation. Approval of the graduate committee must be sought before such a course is taken; the student must demonstrate the relevance of the proposed course to the dissertation. Students must have completed all language requirements in order to hold the dissertation prospectus conference and defense (see below) and establish candidacy.

Field Examination

All candidates for the Ph.D. are required to pass an oral examination in the historical period in which the candidate expects to write a dissertation. This examination is taken no later than the first of November during the fourth year and must be passed by the unanimous vote of the committee members. Expectations for the field exam are published annually in the department brochure. Beginning in January 2005, at the discretion of the examiners, students taking the field exam may be asked to retake one portion of their exam. If a student is asked to retake a portion of the exam, the time frame for the second examination will be set by the examiners in consultation with the student.

Fourth-year students should allow sufficient time beyond the field exam to prepare a dissertation prospectus and hold the dissertation prospectus conference and defense (see below), which are necessary to establish eligibility in the annual competition for Advanced Teaching Fellowships in years when full stipends can only be provided to a limited number of fifth-year graduate students. The number of awards and deadline for applications are announced annually; in recent years this deadline has required that students successfully pass the dissertation prospectus conference and defense by early April of their fourth year. The department encourages students to complete all requirements for the Ph.D. except the prospectus review and dissertation by the end of the third year.

Dissertation Prospectus Conference and Defense

No later than six months after passing the field exam, and in time to establish eligibility in the annual competition for Advanced Teaching Fellowships, students must hold a prospectus conference and defense, which both first and second readers will attend. The prospectus must be signed by both readers in order to be approved by the department. The specific length and design of the prospectus will be agreed upon by the doctoral candidate and her/his first and second readers. A prospectus typically describes the topic, the questions to be explored, the method of research, and reasons for believing the dissertation will be an original contribution to knowledge. The student's director and/or second reader may also require a chapter outline and/or bibliography.

Students must have completed all language requirements in order to hold the dissertation prospectus conference and defense (see below) and establish candidacy.

Students who do not establish candidacy by completing coursework and language requirements, and by passing the field exam and dissertation prospectus conference and defense according to these deadlines will be placed on probation and will be ineligible to apply for an Advanced Teaching Fellowship. Students who do not demonstrate satisfactory progress during the probationary year will be withdrawn from the program.

Each student will submit a dissertation in a form approved by his/her dissertation director and by a committee appointed by the director of graduate studies. One member of this committee must be from a graduate department at Brandeis outside the Department of English and American Literature or from another university. The student will defend the dissertation at a final oral examination.

Readmissions Criteria and Probation

Continuation and the annual readmission to the doctoral program in English and American Literature depends upon showing suitable academic progress. Suitable academic progress is defined as follows. Students are expected to maintain an A- average. Students may take no more than two incompletes in any semester. All fall incompletes must be made up by the end of the following spring semester, and all spring incompletes must be made up by the end of the following fall semester. Students who require incompletes must apply for them from the relevant instructor in advance. Incompletes will not be automatically granted.

Full-time doctoral students are expected to complete course requirements and pass all language exams no later than the end of the third year, pass the field exam no later than November 1 during the fourth year, and present the dissertation proposal for review and approval by the first and second readers within six months of the field exam and in time to establish eligibility in the annual competition for Advanced Teaching Fellowships.

To qualify for A.B.D. status, all doctoral students must satisfy the department's requirements for training in teaching. Accordingly all doctoral students will be given a variety of teaching assignments and will be expected to attend the pedagogical workshops offered by the director of writing and the director of graduate studies.

The department reviews each student's progress toward the degree annually, at the end of the spring semester. Following this meeting the director of graduate studies will notify any student not meeting departmental expectations that s/he must demonstrate satisfactory progress toward the degree by the end of the subsequent year. The student must meet with the director of graduate studies to review her/his standing in the program at the end of the fall semester during this probationary year. If the student fails to meet departmental expectations for progress toward the degree by the end of the probationary year, s/he will be withdrawn from the program.

Funding Opportunities for Advanced Graduate Students

In recent years fourth-year graduate students who have completed all course and language requirements and passed the field exam and prospectus conference have been eligible to compete for Advanced Teaching Fellowships, which normally provide opportunities to work more closely with faculty members in the design and teaching of a course. Advanced Teaching Fellows receive full funding and are given two teaching assignments; fellows normally assist once in a department course and teach one section of first-year writing. Doctoral candidates who have passed the field exam may apply for University Prize Instructorships; these competitive awards allow recipients to design and teach their own courses. Students expecting to complete their dissertations in the next academic year may enter the University-wide competition for Dissertation Year Fellowships and the departmental competition for the Milton Hindus Memorial Endowed Dissertation Fellowship. Additional opportunities are available in the University Writing Center and in the program for teaching English as a second language.

Completion of Degree

Students entering the Ph.D. program with a B.A. must earn the degree within eight years. Students entering the Ph.D. program with an M.A. must earn the degree within seven years. A student requesting an extension must demonstrate significant progress toward completing the dissertation by submitting a prospectus (or equivalent, including a chapter outline) and at least one chapter to the student's advisor. If the student's advisor agrees to support the requested extension, the advisor will refer the case to the graduate committee for approval.

Special Notes Relating to the Graduate Program

Students should also consult the general degree requirements and academic regulations found in an earlier section of this Bulletin.

Courses of Instruction(1-99) Primarily for Undergraduate Students

For a description of University Writing Seminars (UWS ##a and ##b) please consult the University Writing section of this Bulletin.

COMP 1a Composition

Prerequisite: Placement by the director of university writing. Successful completion of this course does NOT satisfy the first-year writing requirement.
