1. Introduction

This handbook is a guide for students pursuing graduate degrees in Sociology at Brandeis University. It contains essential information on the PhD (including the joint doctorate with the Heller School) and MA programs (in Sociology and in Sociology and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies).

The handbook first describes graduate student advising and the Sociology Graduate Committee where graduate policies are made, monitored, and implemented. The handbook next presents rules and courses of study for completing degree work in Sociology. It then reviews Departmental and Graduate School policies on evaluating students, transferring credit, incomplete courses, and leaves of absence. Finally, it presents resources and facilities available to graduate students, University policies regarding financial aid and funding opportunities, and Brandeis policies and resources pertaining to students with disabilities. For additional resources and information you can go to the graduate sections of the Brandeis Department of Sociology Web page (www.brandeis.edu/departments/sociology) and the shared Sociology Graduate Student Latte site to which all graduate students and faculty in the Department are subscribed.

We hope that you will use the handbook well. The Chair and Members of the Graduate Committee and the Departmental staff are available to answer questions.

2. People and Committees

Advising

At the beginning of an MA or PhD student's first semester in residence, the student will be assigned a faculty advisor, who will be responsible for guiding the student. At the end of a PhD student's first year, the student must formally select an advisor. Students should notify the Director of Graduate Studies of their choice. At the time when the student chooses a chair for the Qualifying Portfolio and Defense, that faculty member becomes the student's advisor. The same applies at the point of choosing a Dissertation Committee chair.

Director of Graduate Studies

For the 2021-22 academic year, the Sociology Department's Acting Director of Graduate Studies (DGS) is Laura Miller. The DGS is the faculty member responsible for chairing the Graduate Committee and supervising the implementation of graduate policies. The DGS represents the Department to the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Graduate Administrator

The Administrator for the Graduate Program in Sociology is Cheri Hansen. The Graduate Administrator is the Department staff person who oversees administrative matters and maintains department records on graduate students.

The Graduate Committee

The Graduate Committee is comprised of appointed members of the Sociology Department faculty, plus one graduate student representative elected from the graduate student body in residence. The process for selecting a student representative to the Graduate Committee involves PhD students in the first five cohorts, including joint PhDs, volunteering to act as a representative to the Graduate Committee for the academic year. If more than one student requests this position, PhD students in the first five cohorts will vote to select the representative. The Graduate Committee deals with policy issues affecting graduate students, and reviews the programs of individual students.

All matters of departmental graduate student policy come before the Graduate Committee prior to any final decision by the Department faculty as a whole. Any faculty member or graduate student may bring a problem or suggestion concerning policy to the Graduate Committee. When a proposal or recommendation is submitted to the faculty by the Graduate Committee, it will be discussed by the faculty as soon as possible. Student members of the committee may request to attend, or may be invited to attend, discussion by the faculty at large of issues or proposals brought to the faculty by the Graduate Committee.

The Department itself or its subcommittees retain the following powers:

- Admission to the department
- Approval of transfer credit
- Approval of the faculty composition of QPD committees
- Approval of dissertation prospectuses
- Approval of dissertation review committees

Conduct of oral examinations on dissertations
Conduct of MA examinations
Individual student programs

The Graduate Committee also rules on petitions from individual students. Students should submit a “Petition to the Graduate Committee” with all petition requests. The Petition is an online form <https://www.brandeis.edu/sociology/graduate/general/grad-petitions.html> (to access this form, one must be signed in to Brandeis gmail), which can be accessed via the Brandeis Department of Sociology Graduate Programs Web page. The Graduate Committee’s approval is necessary in the following matters:

- Student petition to change advisors
- Student petition to transfer academic credit from another university
- Student petition to establish or change the QPD Committee
- Student petition to establish or change the Dissertation Prospectus Committee and Dissertation Review Committee (including adding the outside reader)
- Student petition to receive graduate credit for an undergraduate course
- Student petition to take a leave of absence

Petitions must be submitted at least 48 hours before a scheduled Graduate Committee meeting. All additional supporting materials should be submitted electronically to the Director of Graduate Studies and Graduate Administrator with one paper copy to the Director of Graduate Studies.

Equity Liaison

The Sociology Department Equity Liaison is Sarah Mayorga. The Equity Liaison oversees the Department’s activities related to equity and anti-racism. The Equity Liaison is available to consult with students about issues of equity and general departmental or campus climate.

Other Departmental Bodies

Each of the following standing Sociology Department bodies has a graduate student representative:

- The Graduate Committee
- The Department faculty meetings
- The Colloquium Committee

Other temporary committees may also be established with graduate student representation. These representatives are elected by the Sociology graduate students, in consultation with the Director of Graduate Studies, to serve for one year. All graduate student representatives must be in good academic standing.

3. The PhD in Sociology

The PhD in Sociology is a program designed to last six years. It consists of three years of course work and another semester for accreditation (Qualifying Portfolio and Defense) prior to the dissertation. The minimum residence for the PhD is three years. Apprenticeship in teaching is an integral part of the program and funded doctoral students normally serve as Teaching Assistants (TAs). There is no foreign language requirement for the PhD.

Courses

Students entering the PhD program in sociology are expected to complete six semesters of the program's Approaches to Sociological Research pro-seminar (SOC 300a), as well as fourteen additional full-credit courses. At least six of these fourteen courses must be formal graduate seminars (courses numbered 200 or higher) taken in the Brandeis Sociology Department. One of those six seminars must be in social theory and one must be in research methods. Four additional courses must be completed within the Brandeis Sociology Department, either as graduate seminars, independent readings (SOC 230a/b), or upper-division (numbered 100-199) courses. If a student wishes to take a course numbered 100-199 for graduate credit, the student must meet with the course instructor in order to formulate a course enhancement plan. This plan will include additional readings and assignments, and/or written work of at least 20 pages. Once the student has met with the course instructor, the student must submit a petition requesting that the course count as a graduate level course. The Graduate Committee will review the petition and make a determination. This will all take place either prior to the first class, or by the end of the first week of class. The four remaining courses can be taken as the student chooses, including graduate courses at other Boston-area universities, in consultation with the student's advisor.

Of the six required formal graduate seminars (courses numbered 200 or higher) that must be taken in the Brandeis Sociology Department, a minimum of four must be graduate seminars offered as formal seminars by the Sociology Department at Brandeis. Two of the six may be transferred in, with the approval of the Graduate Committee, based on Master's level coursework completed before matriculating at Brandeis. In no cases may a student complete fewer than four graduate seminars (courses numbered 200 or higher) offered by the Sociology Department at Brandeis and receive a Brandeis PhD.

The Approaches to Sociological Research pro-seminar (SOC 300a) is a two-credit course designed to help students transition from being consumers to producers of sociological knowledge with the support of peers and faculty. It includes guidance on researching and writing papers for publication. Credit for the sixth semester of the pro-seminar is dependent on a student writing a single-authored publishable research paper, and submitting it to a peer-reviewed academic journal. This requirement can be completed any time before the end of the student's sixth semester in the program.

A student's initial program of study is arranged in consultation with the graduate student's advisor. Consideration will be given to graduate work done elsewhere, but formal transfer credit is assigned only after the successful completion of the first year of study. More information about requesting transfer credit is below.

Qualifying Portfolio and Defense (QPD)

The Qualifying Portfolio and Defense (QPD) is the Brandeis Sociology Department's equivalent of qualifying/comprehensive examinations. The system encourages doctoral students to design their own programs of study, supervised by three different Brandeis Sociology Department faculty members. The purposes of the QPD system are:

- To guide students toward demonstrated competence in three different areas in sociology, as defined by the American Sociological Association (ASA) (see Appendix 4). These areas should not have substantial overlap with one another.
- To certify (accredit) student competence, as determined during a defense meeting of the student and all three committee members.
- To encourage students to develop ideas for the dissertation. Successful completion of the QPD process precedes the drafting and defense of a dissertation proposal.

Step 1: Preparing for the QPD

QPD work often builds upon courses that students have taken in the department, so students might consider potential QPD areas as they make decisions about courses in their first years of the program. Once students have identified a potential qualifying area, they are encouraged to take related courses (if they have not done so already). If related courses are not available, students may take one or more independent reading courses to gain an introduction to or conduct more focused study in the area of interest. Readings done for a regular or independent study course frequently become part of the QPD reading list. When putting together a reading list, students are encouraged to consult subject area lists available on the Shared Graduate Student Latte site, syllabi sets from Brandeis or other universities, and other sources.

Step 2: Formation of the QPD Committee

Forming a QPD Committee is the student's responsibility. The student identifies three areas of study, and for each one, asks a Sociology Department faculty member to supervise it. Students should approach those faculty members whom students believe can best advance their work in a given area. The possibility of serving on a student's QPD Committee can be broached by visiting a faculty member during office hours and having a conversation about the student's academic interests and prior work in the area. Once a faculty member agrees to be on the Committee, the student and Committee member should negotiate a plan, or contract, which typically includes an agreed upon set of reading and writing assignments.

A student may form a QPD Committee at any time before April 1 of the second year of residency. By then, two areas must be defined, and two corresponding faculty members must have agreed to serve. The student must designate one as chair, who then becomes the student's principal advisor. The third area and corresponding faculty member must be designated by December 1 of the student's third year of residency. At both points, the student submits a petition to the Graduate Committee, which lists the names of designated faculty members and areas of study for approval. With this petition, the chair of the QPD Committee becomes the student's formal advisor. Thereafter, both students and faculty members may request justifiable changes in the composition of the QPD Committee by written petition to the Graduate Committee. That petition must be approved by the Graduate Committee before a Qualifying Defense meeting can be scheduled.

Step 3: The Qualifying Portfolio

The Qualifying Portfolio consists of a dossier in each area of specialization, assembled by the student, and with contents jointly determined by the student and supervising faculty member. Dossiers typically include some combination of the following: reading lists, annotated bibliographies, reviews of the literature, research papers, research proposals, citation analyses, response papers, course syllabi, and statements synthesizing the three areas of specialization. The Portfolio may include any other materials the QPD Committee deems significant.

Step 4: The Defense Meeting

The Qualifying Portfolio Defense meeting should be completed by December 1 of the student's fourth year, at the latest, by which point all course requirements must have been fulfilled. When QPD committee members have determined that the student has satisfactorily completed the pre-approved program, the Chair convenes a defense meeting. The student must provide all three committee members with a complete portfolio at least two weeks before the meeting, which is publicly announced by the Department Administrator. The defense meeting is an oral qualifying examination with primary emphasis on the student's three areas of specialization. Meetings typically begin with the student giving a short (10 minute) presentation on the student's work before answering questions from the faculty. Committee members meet first with the student and then convene privately to determine the outcome. The student shall receive one of three grades - No Pass, Conditional Pass (meaning that specified further work is needed), or Pass. This grade will be noted on the QPD Completion Form, available on the Shared Latte site, which must be signed by all committee members and deposited with the Department Graduate Administrator immediately after the defense. The final accreditation recommendation should be made known to the student, who has the right to appeal directly to the Graduate Committee should this recommendation be unfavorable.

Please note: Students in the joint PhD in Social Policy and Sociology program are subject to slightly different rules, as reviewed elsewhere in the handbook.

From QPD to Dissertation

After accreditation by a student's Qualifying Portfolio and Defense Committee, three formal steps remain: (1) approval of the dissertation prospectus, (2) approval of the dissertation, and (3) successful defense of the dissertation.

Step 1: Approval of the Dissertation Prospectus and Advancement to Candidacy

Following the Qualifying Portfolio Defense meeting and by May 1 in the student's fourth year, a Dissertation Prospectus Committee must be approved by the Graduate Committee and the dissertation prospectus must be completed and approved. The Dissertation Prospectus Committee guides the student in preparing the prospectus. The committee should include three currently active members of the Sociology Department faculty, one designated by the student as chair, who becomes the student's official advisor. Each student is responsible for forming a Dissertation Prospectus Committee--that is, securing agreement from each member and then petitioning the Graduate Committee for approval. The Dissertation Prospectus Committee then determines when the prospectus is ready to be defended.

The dissertation prospectus elaborates a student's dissertation topic and explains the research the student plans to undertake. It should clearly state the research question, situate this question in a review of relevant literature, and describe the methods that will be used to answer the question. The prospectus should also provide a tentative timeline for completing the project. It should be approximately 20 pages, including references. If the proposed research involves data collection with human subjects, the student must also seek approval from the Brandeis Human Research Protection Program by the date of the scheduled defense. Examples of dissertation proposals are available on the shared Graduate Student Latte site.

When the Committee determines that the proposal is ready, a dissertation prospectus defense is scheduled. The defense is open to the public and must be announced at least two weeks in advance within the Sociology Department, by which point the student must post a copy of the prospectus on the section of the shared Latte site titled, Dissertation Prospectus for Defense. The proposal defense meeting typically begins with the student giving a short (10 minute) presentation on the student's work before answering questions from the faculty. After the defense, the Dissertation Prospectus Committee meets in private to decide on one of three grades - No Pass, Conditional Pass (meaning that specified further work is needed), or Pass. This grade will be noted on the Dissertation Prospectus Defense Report (available on the shared Latte site), which must be signed by all Committee members and deposited with the department Graduate Administrator. After a student's prospectus has been passed, a completed PhD Degree Audit Checklist Update Form must be submitted to the Registrar. At this point, the student has advanced to candidacy.

Step 2: Approval of the Dissertation

After approval of the prospectus, the Dissertation Prospectus Committee automatically becomes the student's Dissertation Committee with the chair as the student's official advisor. Thereafter, the student may petition the Graduate Committee to change the membership of the Dissertation Committee, although approval is not usually granted when the dissertation is close to completion. Between approval of the prospectus and submission of a completed dissertation, the official link between the Department and student will be the chair of the Dissertation Committee, who serves as the student's dissertation advisor and provides periodic reports of progress to the Graduate Committee in addition to the student's annual end of year evaluation.

Final composition of the Dissertation Committee must include three members of the Sociology Department faculty and an outside reader, chosen with the advice of the Dissertation Committee members and approved by the Graduate Committee and the Dean of the Graduate School. Approval must be secured before a defense can be scheduled. To obtain approval for an outsider reader, the student submits a petition to the Graduate Committee at least one month before the dissertation defense. The outside reader should hold a PhD and have an academic affiliation outside Brandeis. At least two weeks before the dissertation defense, the student must submit to the Graduate School the Dissertation Examining Committee (DEC) form (available on the shared Latte site), which is signed by the Sociology Department DGS.

The Dissertation Committee, including the outside reader, has sole responsibility for approving the dissertation. Committee members will have one month to read a complete draft, comment on it, and require revisions. Once all Committee members agree that the dissertation is ready to defend, the candidate should schedule the dissertation defense. The defense must be scheduled with at least two weeks' notice at a time all committee members can attend.

Step 3: Defense of the Dissertation

At least two weeks before the defense, a copy of the dissertation must be made available for review by members of the faculty. This can be done either by placing a print copy in the Sociology Department office, or by placing an electronic copy on the shared Latte site. The defense is open to the public and must be announced at least two weeks in advance within the Sociology Department. The student should issue a request to the Sociology Department Administrator to make this announcement at least one week prior to when the announcement is to be distributed, and at this time should also inform the Department Administrator whether the dissertation will be made available in print or electronic form.

The dissertation defense must include all members of the Dissertation Committee, together with the outside reader. If the outside reader is not able to be physically present, university rules allow her or him to be included by videoconference (note that conference calls by telephone are not acceptable). The chair of the Committee chairs the defense, which normally involves a presentation by the candidate outlining the research process and summarizing findings followed by questions posed first by Committee members and then by others present. After the defense, the Committee meets in private to decide whether the dissertation is or is not acceptable and what revisions, if any, will be required for final acceptance.

Before the defense, the student must pay the dissertation filing fee and prepare forms for submission to the Graduate School, in its prescribed format. The student then has the forms signed by members of the Committee and submits them to the Graduate School. All of these forms are available on the shared Latte page and/or at the web addresses listed below. When the dissertation is complete, with all revisions approved, the candidate must submit the final copy to the Graduate School, in accordance with deadlines posted in the academic calendar. Students in the final stages of preparation should also obtain an application for the PhD degree from the Graduate School and inform themselves of the final dates by which all requirements must be completed. Students should also obtain detailed instructions for the final format of the dissertation from the Graduate School.

Information on Filing the Dissertation (see also Appendix 3: PhD Degree Checklist)

1. Apply to graduate with the online Graduate Degree Application Form

<http://www.brandeis.edu/registrar/forms/graddegree.html>

Applications will NOT be accepted after the deadlines listed here. Once a deadline has passed the student will need to make an application for the next application period. PhD degree applicants will be charged a dissertation fee (approximately $235) within a week of submitting the degree application. A new application form is necessary if the student does not complete all requirements for the degree by the dates listed; however the fee is a one-time payment.

Application Deadlines:

November 1 to graduate in February 2022

March 1 to graduate in May 2022

June 17 to graduate in August 2022

2. Complete Dissertation Defense Calendar Submission Form Two Weeks before your Defense.

Dissertation Defense Deadlines:

December 3, 2021 for February 2021 completion

March 24, 2021 for May 2022 completion

July 22, 2021 for August 2022 completion

3. Forms for your Dissertation Defense

Bring Your Dissertation Defense Form and Signature Page to Your Defense

The defense form is here: <https://www.brandeis.edu/registrar/forms/pdf/phd-dissertation-defense-form.pdf>

Student Instructions:

- The Dissertation Defense form should be signed by your Committee at the defense and returned to the Registrar's Office.
- The student makes one copy for personal records and one copy for department records.
- Once you have provided the necessary information this form should also be signed by your Committee.
- An unsigned Signature Page should be included in the prefatory pages of the final, ready-for-publication dissertation. The sample template of the Signature Page is here: <https://www.brandeis.edu/gsas/student-resources/current2/thesis-diss-guide-forms/dissertation-templates.docx>

If revisions are requested, complete the Report on PhD Revisions form

Please note: minor revisions require only the signature of the Committee chair; substantive revisions require the signature of each Committee member.

Submit the Revisions form after your Committee has accepted the revised dissertation.

Deliver the Revisions form to the Registrar's Office.

Make a copy for the Sociology Department.

Keep a copy for your records.

4. Submit your dissertation

Dissertation Submission Formatting Information is available at

<https://www.brandeis.edu/gsas/student-resources/thesis-dissertation-guide.html>

Submit your dissertation to ProQuest/UMI <http://www.etdadmin.com/cgi-bin/school?siteid=9>

The Doctoral Dissertation Agreement Form, Title Page, and Abstract are all part of the online submission process.

Publishing Options: (a) Traditional Publishing, with restrictions and/or an embargo on dissertation access; (b) Open Access Publishing, with no restrictions to researchers (the author must pay an additional fee for Open Access). For additional information on these publishing options, go to:

<https://www.brandeis.edu/gsas/student-resources/thesis-dissertation-guide.html>

Dissertation Submission Deadlines:

January 13, 2021 (4:00 PM) for February 2021 degree

April 21, 2021 (4:00 PM) for May 2021 degree

August 5, 2021 (4:00 PM) for August 2021 degree

5. Final Paperwork. Please complete the GSAS Exit Survey and Survey of Earned Doctorates by your Dissertation Submission Deadline

Once you have defended your dissertation, the Office of Institutional Research will contact you with more information about completing these surveys.

Information on Teaching

The Brandeis Sociology Department supports a culture where teaching is highly valued, and it aims to make the teaching experience of graduate students significant to their overall professional development. At the same time, we depend on graduate student teaching assistants to make it possible to mount high-enrollment courses in which undergraduate students engage in frequent writing and oral participation. As part of their fellowship package, students in the Sociology PhD program are required to act as Teaching Assistants (TAs) for six semesters. Other Sociology graduate students, including Master's students, PhD students in the joint Heller-Sociology program, and PhD students who have completed their TA responsibilities, may be hired by the university to act as Teaching Assistants or, in the case of Master's students, Course Assistants (CAs). On very rare occasions, when there is no Sociology student available, graduate students outside the Sociology Department may be hired as Course or Teaching Assistants. The expectations for Teaching Assistants and Course Assistants are the same, as outlined below. Very occasionally, graduate students may be hired, at a lower pay rate, as a Grader. This category is usually reserved for graduate students who do not attend class or carry out any responsibilities other than grading.

The Brandeis Graduate School of Arts and Sciences (GSAS) assumes that exact TA responsibilities will vary from one course to another, within the general guidelines of the union contract. To see the information GSAS makes available to graduate student TAs, go to: <https://www.brandeis.edu/gsas/student-resources/teaching-resources/resources/index.html>

Because teaching is a collaborative activity, instructors and their assigned TAs should meet as soon as assignments are firmly made to agree upon TA responsibilities over the course of the semester. TAs should receive a course syllabus within a reasonable time before the beginning of the semester. TAs are not expected to work before August 15th for fall term or January 1st for spring term.

At Brandeis, TAs are represented by Service Employees International Union, Local 509, which acts as the exclusive bargaining agent. To see the current contract, go to: <https://www.brandeis.edu/human-resources/employee-resources/collective-bargaining/contracts/graduate-assistants.pdf>

TA responsibilities may include some combination of attending lectures, facilitating discussion sections, leading study sessions, grading papers and exams, holding office hours, mentoring and advising Peer Teaching Assistants (undergraduates), handling audiovisual materials, maintaining the course Latte page, maintaining grade or attendance records, and more generally, meeting with the instructor and other TAs to discuss course content, organization, and pedagogy. Instructors should take into account where a graduate student is in the program before asking her or him to take on unusual responsibilities, such as being in charge of a lecture. More advanced students might be given that option, but should have the ability to opt out if they feel unprepared for it.

TAs should spend an average of 10 hours a week on TA duties (including time spent attending class and holding office hours). Obviously, much of the work gets concentrated in those weeks when grading takes place, while TAs will put less time into their work at other points in the semester.

With some exceptions, faculty instructors tend to split grading with TAs. Often this means that each grades a share of every assignment, including finals. Sometimes it means that one person takes all of one assignment, and then another grades all of a different assignment. When there are large courses with multiple TAs who have responsibility for specific students in sections, TAs might do all the grading for their particular students. GSAS has a rule that graduate student TAs cannot grade other graduate students -- the instructor must do that (this differs from Heller rules, which do allow graduate student TAs to grade other graduate students).

Instructors ultimately have responsibility for a student's course grade. Instructors should also handle any major problem that comes up, such as academic integrity issues. However, according to Brandeis policy, all TAs are responsible reporters under Title IX.

TAs should not have to pay for any course materials they are required to use. Instructors should ask Cheryl Hansen to arrange for publishers to send desk copies of books. They will have access to appropriate space to prepare for class, and can sign up to use the TA office to meet with and advise students.

Our current rule of thumb is that a TA is assigned for every 30 students enrolled in a course. However, we may assign a TA when a course has a lower enrollment based on the course's or instructor's special needs. And during semesters when there is especially high demand for TAs, enrollments may go higher before a TA is assigned. The Sociology Director of Graduate Studies makes TA assignments for all Sociology courses. These decisions take into account course enrollments, the number of graduate students available in a given semester, particular needs of a course, graduate student preferences and time conflicts, and prior graduate student experience. While instructors are welcome to communicate their preferences to the DGS, it is not always possible to honor them. Instructors should also not make independent arrangements with a graduate student.

Course review: At least one per term, instructors are encouraged to meet with the TA to discuss their performance.

Written Feedback: Instructors are encouraged to provide written feedback to the TA, at least once during the semester. (See proposed Appendix: Sample Professional Feedback Form.)

Our graduate students tend to care a great deal about teaching and frequently go on to become excellent instructors. We appreciate the work that faculty do to nurture their teaching interests and skills.

Doctoral students in Sociology receiving stipends from the Department are required to serve regularly as Teaching Assistants during their first four years.

For all Sociology PhD students:

- Students will not TA in the first semester in the program.
- Students will TA during their next 6 semesters in the program.
- Students will RF during their 8th semester.

Note also that, in all cases, no more than one semester of UWS instruction can count toward the required 6 semesters of departmental TA work. Any student who intends to teach in the UWS program in lieu of a departmental TA assignment should submit a petition prior to the end of classes during the previous semester. The Graduate Committee will attempt to meet these requests but cannot guarantee that they will be met.

Research Fellow Semester

During the semester in which they are not acting as a TA (normally in semester 8, as described above), students will work as a research fellow with a Sociology Department faculty member. If students prefer and faculty are available, they can fulfill this research fellowship in the summer immediately following that semester. The research fellowship involves a 10 hour/week commitment to a semester-long, collaborative student-faculty research project. The intention of this project is to expose students to the research process and help them acquire research skills, as well as to aid them in the creation of new sociological knowledge.

Before the RF semester begins, students should be in conversation with their advisor and the faculty member they wish to RF with, and will write a petition to the Graduate Committee by the first Wednesday in November prior to the start of the RF semester. As part of the petition, students will submit a one-page description of the intended project, which includes a rough timeline outlining how the semester will be spent, and specifies what the final goal of the project is. The faculty member who will be supervising the RF semester must sign off on this proposal. Following the RF semester, students will submit to the Graduate Committee a two-page report on what was accomplished during this semester, including successes and challenges encountered. Students will also submit a shorter mid-semester progress report, due by the second Monday in March, outlining what they have accomplished so far.

All TA and RF requirements must be completed by the end of a student's 8th semester in the program. The 9th and 10th semesters are intended to be free from teaching and research assistantships to enable students to work full time on their dissertations.

4. The Joint PhD in Sociology and Social Policy

The PhD in Social Policy and Sociology is a joint degree of the Department of Sociology and the Heller School for Social Policy and Management. It is available to students only after completion of at least one year of graduate study in either the Heller School or the Department of Sociology's PhD program. To apply, students should submit their application by April 1. Applications require a letter of support from the Director of the home department. If the student is accepted by the complementary department (admission is not guaranteed) the following procedures apply. There is a three-year residency for the joint degree.

Students pursuing this joint degree are required to take a total of 19 courses, 10 in Sociology and 9 in Heller with requirements as follows:

Heller courses

1. HS 508a Theory of Social Policy and Change
2. HS 401b Research Methods
3. HS 510a Applied Design and Analysis
4. HS 404b Stats/Regression Analysis (including applications lab)
5. HS 403b Qualitative Research
6. Other Heller concentration or methods courses
7. Other Heller concentration or methods courses
8. Other Heller concentration or methods courses
9. Other Heller concentration or methods courses
10. Doctoral Seminar (non-credit) (4 semesters from entry into the Joint PhD program)

Sociology Courses

Students are expected to complete a minimum of eight Sociology courses, comprising at least four Brandeis Sociology graduate seminars (courses numbered 200 or higher), plus the Approaches to Sociological Research pro-seminar. Students must participate in Soc 300a, Approaches to Sociological Research during each semester they are completing coursework—at least two years—following matriculation into the Joint Degree program. At least one of the Sociology courses must be in theory.

Qualifying

Each student must complete a “comprehensive paper” as required in The Heller School PhD curriculum.

In Sociology, students must show competence in two substantive areas following the Sociology Qualifying Portfolio and Defense (QPD) requirements described on pp. 4-6. QPD Committee membership and chair must be approved by the Sociology Graduate Committee (by petition) by December 1 of the student's third year in the joint degree program. The QPD Committee meeting must be completed by December 1 of the student's fourth year in the joint degree program.

Dissertation and Defense

Step 1: Approval of the Dissertation Prospectus and Advancement to Candidacy

A dissertation prospectus should be submitted to a Dissertation Committee soon after the Comprehensive examination and QPD processes are completed. The Dissertation Committee should consist of five members—two Brandeis faculty members each from the Sociology Department and the Heller School (one designated as chair) and one outside reader. Students must submit paperwork for committee, proposal hearing, and defense approvals to both programs following each program's respective procedures. The following procedures outline Sociology rules only; the student should also consult Heller School guidelines at <http://heller.brandeis.edu/students/academics/phd/forms.html> to be sure that both programs' expectations are being met.

Each student is responsible for forming a Dissertation Committee--that is, securing agreement from each member and then petitioning the Graduate Committee for approval. If a student selects a Heller School faculty member as Dissertation Committee chair, the student's QPD chair will continue as the student's official Sociology Department advisor, and official link between the Department and student, unless the student petitions for a change.

The dissertation prospectus elaborates a student's dissertation topic and explains the research the student plans to undertake. It should clearly state the research question, situate this question in a review of relevant literature, and describe the methods that will be used to answer the question. The prospectus should also provide a tentative timeline for completing the project. If the proposed research involves data collection with human subjects, the student must also seek approval from the Brandeis Committee for Protection of Human Subjects (BCPHS) by the date of the scheduled defense. Examples of dissertation proposals are available on the shared Graduate Student Latte site.

When the Dissertation Committee determines that the proposal is ready, a dissertation prospectus defense is scheduled. The defense is open to the public and must be announced at least two weeks in advance within the Sociology Department; the student should issue a request to the Sociology Department Administrator to make this announcement at least one week prior to when the announcement is to be distributed. At least two weeks in advance of the defense, the student must post a copy of the prospectus on the section of the shared Latte site titled, Dissertation Prospectus for Defense. The proposal defense meeting typically begins with the student giving a short (10 minute) presentation on the student's work before answering questions from the faculty. After the defense, the Dissertation Committee meets in private to decide on one of three grades - No Pass, Conditional Pass (meaning that specified further work is needed), or Pass. This grade will be noted on the Dissertation Prospectus Defense Report (available on the shared Latte site), which must be signed by all Committee members and deposited with the Sociology Department Administrator. After a student's prospectus has been passed, a completed PhD Degree Audit Checklist Update Form must be submitted to the Registrar. At this point, the student has advanced to candidacy.

Step 2: Approval of the Dissertation

The joint PhD dissertation may be accepted by the Sociology Department and the Heller School upon the recommendation of the Dissertation Committee. Committee members will have one month to read a complete draft, comment on it, and require revisions. Once all Committee members agree that the dissertation is ready to defend, the candidate should schedule the dissertation defense, which is a public final oral examination. The defense must be scheduled at a time all Committee members can attend. At least two weeks before the defense, a copy of the dissertation must be made available for review by members of the faculty. This can be done either by placing a print copy in the Sociology Department office, or by placing an electronic copy on the shared Latte site. The defense is open to the public and must be announced at least two weeks in advance within the Sociology Department. The student should issue a request to the Sociology Department Administrator to make this announcement at least one week prior to when the announcement is to be distributed, and at this time should also inform the Department Administrator whether the dissertation will be made available in print or electronic form.

After the dissertation and defense are approved, a report signed by the Dissertation Examining Committee (available on the Shared Latte Site) certifying the candidate's successful performance on the oral exam is submitted to the University Registrar and to The Heller School Office of Student Records. Please see the instructions under PhD in Sociology above regarding the process for filing the dissertation. The forms required from Heller can be obtained from Cheryl Sweeney, Program Administrator of the Heller PhD program.

5. MA Programs

Master of Arts in Sociology

A Master's degree in Sociology can be earned en route as part of on-going work for the sociology PhD at any point beyond the first year of residency.

To fulfill program requirements for the MA, students must complete eight courses. At least five of these courses must be taken in the Sociology Department at Brandeis. One course must be a full year of SOC 300a. At least two other courses must be Sociology graduate seminars (courses numbered 200 or higher). One of the eight required courses must be in research methods and one must be in social theory. If a student wishes to take a course numbered 100-199 for graduate credit, the student must meet with the course instructor in order to formulate a course enhancement plan. This plan will include additional readings and assignments, and/or written work of at least 20 pages. Once the student has met with the course instructor, the student must submit a petition requesting that the course count as a graduate level course. The Graduate Committee will review the petition and make a determination. This will all take place either prior to the first class, or by the end of the first week of class.

In addition to coursework, students will complete either a Master's project or the MA exam. The MA exam is a take-home examination given in the last week of classes of the spring semester. Two Sociology Department faculty members, either from the Graduate Committee or selected by the Graduate Committee, will draft the exam. These same faculty members will read the exam, which will be graded on a pass/fail basis. The exam will include two questions that draw on the coursework students have taken in theory or research methods as well as on their substantive interests. The exam will be given to the students at noon on the day following the last day of class and will be due 72 hours later to the faculty who are administering it. The completed exam can be no longer than 15 pages double spaced, Times New Roman 12-point type, 1 inch margins. Students will be notified of their grade on the exam within two weeks of handing in the paper. Any student who fails the exam will be given the option to retake it once – the following spring.

The MA project may be a research paper of professional quality and length or a project students develop in consultation with their adviser and the Graduate Committee. Students completing a Master's project will choose two faculty members of the Sociology Department, one of whom is designated as chair, to guide and review the project. Both faculty members must approve the completed project. Students who complete a Master's paper have the option of depositing it in the University's Institutional Repository. Students who wish to do so should discuss this option with their MA project chair, after which the chair will need to inform LTS at http://bir.brandeis.edu/cgi-bin/bir_feedback.pl that the paper will be deposited.

Once the paper or exam has been completed and approved, students must submit the signed Sociology Master's Degree Completion Form to the Sociology Graduate Administrator before the University deadline for certifying degree requirements.

Master of Arts in Sociology and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies

The Department of Sociology cooperates with Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies in a joint MA. The program is designed for completion in one-year (12 months), with the degree awarded at the next official University degree conferral after completion of residence and requirements. The joint SOC-WGS MA can be earned either as a stand-alone degree or en route as part of on-going work for the sociology PhD (at any point beyond the first year). Each MA degree candidate will devise a specialized program with a faculty adviser. At the start of the first semester, stand-alone MA students should submit a proposed course schedule for approval to their adviser no later than the end of the first full week of classes. That proposal should also be submitted to the Graduate Committee to be considered at their first meeting of the semester. For each following semester, students are required to submit their plan of study (agreed on with their adviser) to the Graduate Committee for approval. That plan, including details on the subject of and readers for the MA paper, should be submitted to the Graduate Committee before the end of the add-drop period.

Requirements

Completion of eight courses to be distributed as follows:

- The foundational course in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies (WMGS 205a);
- One course in feminist research methodologies (WMGS 208b, the Feminist Inquiry course offered through the Graduate Consortium in Women's Studies, or an alternative);
- One graduate course outside Sociology listed as an elective in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies;
- One graduate Sociology course listed as an elective in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies;
- Three other regular graduate Sociology courses: one in theory, one outside the area of gender, and one elective that could be a directed reading course;
- One other graduate elective of the student's choice.
- For upper-division courses (numbered 100 to 199) to count for graduate credit, the student must meet with the course instructor in order to formulate a course enhancement plan. This plan will include additional readings and assignments, and/or written work of at least 20 pages. Once the student has met with the course instructor, the student must submit a petition requesting that the course count as a graduate level course. The Graduate Committee will review the petition and make a determination. This will all take place either prior to the first class, or by the end of the first week of class.

Also required is submission of a research paper of professional quality and length (normally 25-40 pages) on a topic related to the joint degree. The paper will be read by two faculty members, at least one of whom is a member of the Department of Sociology and at least one of whom is a member of the Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies core or affiliate faculty. Once the paper has been completed, students must submit the signed Sociology Master's Degree Completion Form to the Sociology Graduate Administrator, and the signed WGS Master's Paper Approval Form to the WGS Program Administrator. Students have the option of depositing the completed Master's paper in the University's Institutional Repository. Students who wish to do so should discuss this option with their MA paper advisor, after which the advisor will need to inform LTS at http://bir.brandeis.edu/cgi-bin/bir_feedback.pl that the paper will be deposited.

7. General Sociology Department and Graduate School Policies

Student Evaluation and Progress to the Degree

Admission to graduate programs is granted for one academic year at a time. Every student pursuing work for a degree, whether or not currently in residence, must register at the beginning of each term. All Sociology graduate students will be evaluated by the Graduate Committee, with input from the Sociology faculty at large, each spring. Before this evaluation, each student must complete a self-assessment, which will be included as part of the evaluation discussion. At this evaluation the records of all graduate students will be carefully reviewed with reference to timely completion of course work and requirements, quality of work, and teaching.

For students whose records are deemed insufficient, the Department can act up to and including requiring leaves of absence or withdrawal from the program.

Note: Any grade below B-, or a grade of “NC” (no credit), is an unsatisfactory grade in the Graduate School. A course in which the student receives an unsatisfactory grade will not be counted toward graduate credit.

Grading Policy for Graduate Courses

PhD students in Sociology courses are typically graded on a credit/no credit basis. At the beginning of the term, instructors should have a conversation with graduate students about grading options. PhD students have the option of asking for a letter grade, but if doing so, must request it by the end of the add-drop period. Instructors have discretion in how credit is apportioned (attendance, meaningful participation, written work, etc.) and should communicate that via their syllabus and directly to students at the beginning of term. Instructors may choose to assign points or letter grades to individual assignments. In lieu of a letter grade, at the end of the term, instructors should provide students with written feedback about their performance in the course, including suggestions on areas of future improvement.

MA students in Sociology courses typically receive letter grades. If an MA student wishes to take a graduate Sociology course for credit/no credit, the student must petition the Graduate Committee before the end of the add-drop period. The petition should include a rationale for taking the course on a credit/no credit basis.

Graduate School Deadlines

Students should be aware of the deadlines for completion of the various degree requirements. These may be found in the Academic Calendar, which is published each year by the University Registrar.

Transfer Credit

After completing at least one year of residence at a full-time rate or the equivalent at a part-time rate, PhD students may apply for credit for graduate-level courses completed while enrolled in graduate programs elsewhere. A maximum of one year of residence credit may be granted.

Students entering the PhD program with an MA in sociology or an equivalent social science may petition the departmental Graduate Committee for a reduction of the required course load by as many as six courses (reducing the required load from 18 to as few as 12 courses). Pending approval from the Committee, up to two of these courses can be applied to the graduate-level Sociology department seminar requirements. These petitions should be submitted during the fall of a student's second year in the program. Courses being transferred must carry a grade of B or better, and must have been earned at an appropriately accredited institution.

Transfer credit is not allowed for the MA degree in Sociology or the joint MA in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and Sociology.

Incomplete Courses

A course grade of "Excused Incomplete," unless given by reason of a student's failure to attend a final examination, must be made up prior to the end of the term following the term in which it was received. The Registrar's deadline for submitting to instructors any incomplete work from the Fall 2020 term is February 2, 2021. The Registrar's deadline for submitting to instructors any incomplete work from the Spring 2021 term is June 15, 2021. Failure to complete a course on time can jeopardize a student's academic standing.

Leaves of Absence

Leaves of absence are granted for one year, renewable on petition. To obtain a leave of absence a student must petition the departmental Graduate Committee in writing. Before applying, the student should discuss the matter with the student's advisor or committee chair. After Graduate Committee approval, the leave request is sent to the Graduate School, which will make the final decision and notify the student. Conditions for reinstatement are ordinarily set when the leave is granted, and include completion of outstanding work. Petitions for reinstatement will be considered by the Graduate Committee and the Graduate School.

Ethical Conduct

The department adheres to the American Sociological Code of Ethics at:

<https://www.asanet.org/code-ethics>

Dispute Resolution Procedures

Academic life, especially in apprenticeship situations where so much is at stake, is a messy business, open to many kinds of misinterpretations and disappointments, as well as divergent views among faculty themselves, as well as between faculty and students, as to what counts as good work appropriate for a PhD, or good teaching and advising to enable such work.

Our collective ethic as a faculty is to protect students from any form of intimidation or retaliation. It is also to provide as much opportunity and encouragement as possible for students and faculty to repair relationships that may have been frayed by previous misunderstandings or regrettable behavior on anyone's part. We do this not only because it is the ethically right thing to do, but because it is in everyone's interest for graduate students to leave the program with dense networks of support and trust, not only with the particular committee with which they may have worked, but with other faculty, who are often asked by faculty at other universities what they may think of particular students. We are proud of this departmental ethic, which we have nurtured for decades and have seen serve scores of PhDs well over the course of their careers.

Thus, when misunderstandings or disputes arise or someone feels treated unfairly, we encourage students and faculty first to talk as constructively as possible with each other. Students and faculty may also seek the counsel of other professors and students. Should the situation remain unresolved, students should consult with the Department Chair and/or the Director of the Graduate Program to seek advice on how to proceed or to lodge a formal complaint. In cases when a dispute concerns the Department Chair and DGS, the student should consult with the Department Equity Liaison to seek advice on how to proceed or to lodge a formal complaint. Brandeis also offers an Ombuds office that provides “a safe space to talk confidentially and off the record about difficult situations and offer conflict resolution support”: <https://www.brandeis.edu/ombuds/>. GSAS policy is that students first seek resolution and, when possible, rapprochement, within the Department. If a student does not find the proposed resolution acceptable, the student may submit a written appeal to the Dean of the Graduate School.

8. Resources and Facilities

The Berkowitz Award

The Sociology Department annually awards one $600 prize for assistance in dissertation research in the name of the late Steven Berkowitz, PhD. This prize is usually awarded in March.

The Peter Conrad Award for Graduate Student Research

In honor of emeritus faculty member, Peter Conrad, the Sociology Department annually awards funds, up to $600, to a PhD student for pre-dissertation research. This prize is usually awarded in March.

The Debra Osnowitz Memorial Graduate Student Paper Prize

In honor of Brandeis Sociology PhD, Debi Osnowitz, the Sociology Department recognizes a paper authored by a graduate student in the Brandeis Sociology PhD program with this cash prize.

Libraries

The social science collections of the University are housed in Goldfarb Library and Farber Library. These materials are also accessible through an online catalog system called One Search. The libraries have facilities for computerized searches of bibliographic databases such as SocINDEX, JSTOR, and other periodical indices. The Interlibrary Loan Office provides books or articles not owned by the University. Brandeis is a member of the Boston Library Consortium, composed of 17 academic and research institutions in the area. A consortium card, allowing use of these libraries, is available from the Brandeis Library. Further information is at: <https://www.brandeis.edu/library/borrowing/other-lib/blc.html>

Sociology Graduate Program Intranet

Sociology graduate students, faculty, and staff have access, via Latte, to a range of shared resources. Included are administrative material, reading lists, proposals, teaching resources, grant information, and much more. Students are encouraged to post additional resources on this site.

Boston Area Graduate Consortium

Brandeis participates in a cross-registration program with Boston College, Boston University, and Tufts University. Students are eligible to take graduate-level courses at these institutions (no more than one course per term) with the prior approval of their advisors. Refer to the Brandeis Registrar for details: <https://www.brandeis.edu/registrar/registration/cross-registration.html>
Information on finding Consortium Sociology courses is available at: https://docs.google.com/document/d/1nucf4-FbRIKJU4BuM5O_vwnBGk0iywS3G-u7hbolyJQ/edit

The Consortium for Graduate Studies in Gender, Culture, Women, and Sexuality

Students interested in gender and women's studies may enroll, with their advisor's approval, in interdisciplinary courses offered through the Consortium for Graduate Studies in Gender, Culture, Women, and Sexuality (GCWS) at MIT. See the Consortium website: <https://www.gcws.mit.edu/>

Graduate Student Affairs

The Office of Graduate Student Affairs supports and encourages life on campus for graduate students outside of the classroom and serves as a liaison between graduate students and University Administration. The office works to coordinate events and programming among the three graduate schools on campus. Graduate Student Affairs advises and assists the Graduate Student Association (GSA) and the Graduate Student Senate, offers programming throughout the year, and runs Graduate Student Orientation in the fall. See: <https://www.brandeis.edu/graduate-student-affairs/index.html>

Graduate Department Representatives

The purpose of the Graduate Department Representatives (GDR) is to act as a liaison between faculty and students within the Sociology Department and between Sociology graduate students and GSAS administrators and other university committees or task forces. The GDR structure is also meant to facilitate the dissemination of information between students in departments and disciplines across the university. GDR responsibilities should not exceed 4-5 hours of work each month, including meetings.

Each PhD GDR serves for a one year term. The term runs for the academic year plus one month (from August through August), with the month of August serving as a transition period for incoming GDRs to learn from outgoing GDRs. The Sociology Department has two GDRs: the Department Life Representative and the Graduate Affairs Representative. These positions do not supersede other graduate student roles in Department governance, such as representatives to the colloquium committee or search committee. PhD students in their second year and beyond are eligible for a GDR position. The process of selecting a GDR begins with self-nominations. If multiple students express interest in a position, the Graduate Committee will organize an election in which all Department graduate students have a vote.

Responsibilities of the Department Life Representative (DLR):

- 1) The DLR will attend department meetings in order to discuss issues of interest and concern to graduate students.
- 2) Organize social events such as happy hours and virtual events on Zoom for graduate students.
- 3) Assist the department Admissions Committee in organizing meetings between prospective and current students.
- 4) Attend monthly meetings, including Divisional GDR meetings as organized by the Division Head.

Responsibilities of the Graduate Affairs Representative (GAR):

- 1) The GAR will attend Graduate Committee meetings and participate in committee business, excluding deliberations about individual students.
- 2) Meet with faculty outside of faculty meetings and discuss improvement to graduate student life.
- 3) Act as conduit between graduate students and faculty for individual concerns.
- 4) Consult with the Assistant Dean of Students Affairs on GSAS-wide programming, such as Wellness Day and community building events.
- 5) Attend monthly meetings with the Assistant Dean of Student Affairs and all other GDRs across divisions.

Shared Responsibilities of the Two GDRs:

- 1) Participate in coordinated communication efforts within the department as needed.
- 2) Hold departmental town halls to discuss student concerns once a semester and work with faculty to propose solutions.
- 3) Fill out the GDR Hand-Off Document (title pending) to transition new GDRs.
- 4) Share information in division meetings and all-GSAS meetings about campus resources and events including upcoming union negotiations, GSA elections, the counseling center, OmBuds, etc.; disseminate this information in the department (via email, Slack, or other means).
- 5) Attend skill building / professional development workshops as time permits.

Space in Pearlman

Graduate Students are invited to use the Computer Room and TA office in Pearlman Hall. They are also welcome to use the microwave and refrigerator in Pearlman 201. Students may bring a lock and select a locker to store personal belongings. All students are also assigned a mailbox where mail and internal university correspondence are directed.

Funding Opportunities for Graduate Students

Students may consult the “Funding Opportunities” page on the Brandeis Sociology website <http://www.brandeis.edu/departments/sociology/grad/funding.html>, as well as the GSAS website for information regarding external and internal funding opportunities. Additional information may be found in the “Financial Assistance” section of the current Brandeis University Bulletin.

University Prize Instructorship

The purpose of this award is to allow a GSAS student to teach an advanced undergraduate course that is related to the student’s research interests and dissertation work, so as to enhance the student’s capacity to assume teaching responsibilities following completion of the PhD. Candidates must have completed at least one semester as a teaching fellow and must be ABD (i.e., have completed all degree requirements except the dissertation) by early May of the year the prize is awarded.

Up to five instructorships will be awarded to candidates who propose courses that represent strong contributions to the undergraduate curriculum and who have demonstrated excellence in, and commitment to, teaching. Selection criteria include quality of the proposed course as demonstrated by the syllabus, its relevance to the curriculum, and its intellectual appeal to undergraduates.

Travel Funding

An amount of money is available to PhD students each fiscal year for reimbursement of travel expenses associated with their scholarly activities. To qualify, a student must be in the advanced stages of research and be attending a conference for the purpose of serving on a panel or presenting a paper. Additional information is at:
<https://www.brandeis.edu/gsas/financing/fellowships/internal-funding/travel-funds.html>

Accessibility Resources at Brandeis

At Brandeis University, a diverse body of people come together to form a cohesive community. Brandeis welcomes all qualified individuals into the University community as students, faculty, or staff members. Brandeis is committed to providing “reasonable accommodation(s)” to individuals with appropriately documented physical, learning, or psychological disabilities. A person is considered to have a disability if s/he fits within any one of these three categories:

- The person has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities of the individual.
- The person has a record of such an impairment, or the person is regarded as having such an impairment.
- “Major life activities” include functions such as caring for oneself, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, and working.

A “reasonable accommodation” is defined as any change in the work or educational environment or the way things are customarily done that will allow an individual with a known documented disability to perform the essential functions of a position or let otherwise qualified students receive a reasonable modification or adjustment for their known documented disability. All accommodations are made on a case-by-case basis. Students, faculty, and staff must follow well-established procedures to obtain accommodations.

For more information regarding reasonable accommodations, contact Jessica Basile (basile@brandeis.edu) at GSAS.

Appendix 1: Timeline for the Doctoral Program

The Graduate Committee will consider compliance with the following timelines in its annual student evaluation each spring. Students are encouraged to consult this timeline as they complete their annual self-evaluations.

Year	Task Timeline
First	Complete two semesters of SOC 300a, as well as five other courses. Teaching: No TA in the Fall. TA in the Spring (for students fully funded through the Sociology Department). Petitions: End of the year, petition to designate your adviser moving forward. First year: Upon the completion of six or more courses, students are eligible to submit a Master's research paper or complete the Master's exam in application for the MA degree (see description of MA in Sociology).
Second	Complete two semesters of SOC 300a, as well as five other courses. Teaching: One TA per semester (fully funded students). Between your second and fourth years, speak with faculty about RF opportunities. By April 1 initiate QPD process: two QPD Committee members and corresponding areas of study designated and approved. Petitions: Students requesting transfer credit from courses taken at other universities prior to matriculating at Brandeis should submit a petition to the Graduate Committee during the fall semester.
Third	Complete two semesters of SOC 300a, as well as four other courses. By end of second semester: seminar requirement should be fulfilled, and a publishable research paper should have been submitted to a peer-reviewed academic journal. Teaching: One TA per semester (fully funded students). By December 1: third QPD Committee member and area designated. Petition the Graduate Committee for your QPD Committee. By April 1: Student reports to QPD Committee Chair on progress to date.
Fourth	Teaching: One TA in Fall semester, one RF in Spring semester (fully funded students). By end of first semester, students should submit a petition to the Graduate Committee describing the RF project. By December 1: Defend Qualifying Portfolio.

	By May 1: Write and defend dissertation prospectus. Petition Graduate Committee with Prospectus Committee before the prospectus defense.
Fifth	Teaching: No TA (fully funded students). Students are encouraged to work full time on the research and writing of their dissertations. Students are also encouraged to apply for funding, through Brandeis and more broadly, to support dissertation writing in their sixth year.
Sixth Year and Beyond	Write and defend dissertation. Students are reminded to petition the Graduate Committee with changes to their Dissertation Committee, including adding an outside reader to the committee.

Appendix 2: Calendar of PhD Evaluation Points

Points	Times	Possible Sanctions
Whenever work is submitted	Any time of the year.	Inform student of progress. Warn of problems.
Annual general evaluation meeting	Each spring. Review of progress based on student self-assessment, teaching evaluations, and in some circumstances, examples of written work. Feedback from the advisor and other faculty is also solicited.	Warning, with or without funding contingencies.
MA submission	Voluntary, but for adequate consideration should be submitted in time to read before desired degree deadline.	Submissions are judged solely on whether or not they are worthy of an MA degree.
Final Qualifying Portfolio and Defense Committee Mtg	By December 1 of student's fourth year	Without accreditation, student cannot go on to qualify for PhD.
PhD prospectus	By May 1 of student's fourth year	It may not be approved or accepted by committee.
PhD dissertation	Student's fifth year and beyond. Any time during the academic year.	It may not be approved or accepted by committee.
PhD defense	Student's fifth year or beyond. Any time during the academic year (official awarding of the degree in February, May, or August).	May not be approved or accepted by committee, or may require revisions.

approximately by Nov. 1 for a Feb degree, March 1 for a May degree, and June 17 for an August degree; see the current Handbook for exact deadlines
- _____ Petition Graduate Committee for outside Dissertation Committee member at least one month before dissertation defense
- _____ Request Sociology Department Administrator announce defense and whether dissertation will be available in paper or electronic form at least one week before announcement is to go out
- _____ Announce defense
at least two weeks before dissertation defense
- _____ Make dissertation available either in electronic form on Latte or in paper form in the Sociology Department office
at least two weeks before dissertation defense
- _____ Submit Dissertation Defense Calendar Submission form to GSAS
at least two weeks before dissertation defense
- _____ Defend the dissertation
approximately by Dec. 8 for a February degree, March 29 for a May degree, and July 27 for an August degree; see the current Handbook for the exact deadlines
- _____ Have Dissertation Committee sign Dissertation Defense Form at the defense
- _____ Submit copy of Dissertation Defense Form to Sociology Department Administrator immediately following defense
- _____ Submit original Dissertation Defense Form to Registrar
immediately following defense
- _____ Submit copy of completed Report on PhD Revisions form to Sociology Department Administrator (if revisions are required)
when Dissertation Committee has approved revisions
- _____ Submit original completed Report on PhD Revisions form to Registrar (if revisions are required)
when Dissertation Committee has approved revisions
- _____ Submit dissertation to GSAS
approximately by Jan. 17 for a February degree, April 19 for a May degree, and August 9 for an August degree; see the current Handbook for the exact deadlines
