

English 33a
Shakespeare
Summer 2023

We will work out the syllabus on the first day of class: we'll be doing four or five plays (one in depth and over a couple of weeks), and the plays we do will depend on student interest

It's also worth noting that English 33a is a course you can repeat with the permission of the instructor, so that you can do a wider range of plays by taking it twice. If people are repeating the class, that will be one factor in deciding on what plays we'll do.

The course will require either two shorter or one longer paper (up to the individual student which they want to do) as well as a series of pass-fail quizzes to encourage people to do the reading.
